Permanent Register Bill Urged.

No election in Cook county in recent years, in which any close result was expected, has been free from the taint of fraud. A study of the County and Criminal court records yesterday disclosed many convictions of dishonest polling place workers after each election. The dockets of the two courts are continually crowded with these cases.

The permanent registration bill now pending in the state legislature at Springfield would do away with 90 per cent of the election irregularities, according to Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago crime commission. It was Mr. Loesch who led the first great offensive against vote frauds and violence in Chicago when an aroused public demanded a sweeping inquiry following the events of April 10, 1928, a primary day.

Murder of Candidate Recalled.

On that day Octavius Granady, colored opponent of Morris Eller for the Republican ward committeemanship in the bloody 20th ward, was murdered after he had been pursued in his automobile by gunmen. At the same time it was charged that Superior Judge Emanuel Eller, a son of Morris Eller, had held court in the street in order to free two notorious ballot box stuffers.

A special grand jury was impaneled in response to public clamor. Mr. Loesch acted as special prosecutor.

The grand jury indicted 15 men on charges of conspiracy to commit election violence. The men were tried, found guilty and fined. Then the jurors returned indictments against Police Lieutenant Philip Carroll, four other policemen and four hoodlums, charging them with conspiracy to murder Granady.

The defendants were acquitted before Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court in November, 1929, when the state's case against them collapsed.

Eller Fails to Seek Reëlection.

But this investigation had uncovered a glaring situation in elections. Emanuel Eller did not run for reëlection. Mr. Loesch declared the alliance between politicians and hoodlums had been weakened.

At the judicial election in November, 1929, three poll officials in the 34th ward were charged with altering ballots and in April, 1930, Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court sentenced each one to serve one to five years in the penitentiary.

The election in the 8th congressional district in 1930 revealed many instances of fraud. Stanley H. Kunz won over Peter Granata, but Granata filed a petition for a recount, alleging irregularities. Eventually Granata was seated in congress, replacing Kunz.

Thirty-Five Jailed for Frauds.

Thirty-five judges and clerks of election were found guilty on fraud charges during the recount hearings and received jail terms and sixteen others were fined.

In the November, 1932, election Samuel Heller contested the election of Erwin J. Hasten to the Municipal court, charging false returns on canvasses in many wards. After protracted hearings, Heller was victorious in December, 1933, and resumed his position on the bench which he had held for two previous terms. Thirty-seven election workers were found guilty of vote frauds while the recount was in progress. Twenty of these men and women received jail terms ranging from 15 days to a year and the seventeen others were fined from $50 to $150.

Among those found guilty of vote frauds in the November, 1932, election, apart from the Heller-Hasten hearings, was Mrs. Vivian Lyon, wife of former State Representative Sidney Lyon. Judge J. G. Van Keuren of Pinckneyville, sitting in the County court here, ruled that Mrs. Lyon and three other workers had "failed to discharge their duties properly" in the 30th precinct of the 4th ward, and fined them each $100.

Ballots Weighed, Not Counted.

Henry J. Fedele, Nick Rose, and Nick Collins were found guilty last April 27 of fraudulent count of the ballots cast in the primary on April 10, 1934. In sentencing each of the men to a year in the penitentiary, Judge John C. Lewe of the Criminal court found that they had weighed ballots instead of counting them and declared:

THREATENS JAIL FOR RELIEF MEN SPURNING JOBS

Prosecutor to Act in Lake County.

Relief clients "on strike" in Lake county were confronted with the possibility of jail terms or fines yesterday if they persist in declining private employment when offered.

The threat was made by State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county in Waukegan after 18 township poormasters in the county had appealed for legal means to force those accepting charity to work when work is offered.

The poormasters' requests came after most of the 23 relief clients of Warren township spurned jobs on the building of a grade separation to pass Skokie road trafic underneath the Milwaukee railroad just north of Gurnee. They were offered 35 cents an hour, but refused to work for less than 50, the rate they were paid on work relief projects.

Must Support Their Families.

State's Attorney Mason examined the statutes and found two that can be used, he said, to force heads of families on charity to accept private jobs. One is the section providing that a family man must support his wife and minor children, which carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $600 fine for violation. The other statute is a recent amendment to the pauper act, which provides for a year in jail and a $100 fine for one who accepts relief if it is unnecessary, or who accepts more relief than he needs.

Four of the 23 men who were notified of the grade separation jobs were at work yesterday, grumbling at their small pay, but admitting that "any job is better than none." Several others indicated they will report for work Monday, while a few declared they would not work for less than the scale for relief work. The Illinois Emergency Relief commission suspended work relief projects in the county May 1 for lack of funds.

"Strike" for Higher Wages.

The work that the men refused was offered by the Milwaukee road, which is installing the underpass. W. E. Palmer of Madison is the general foreman in charge. He called upon L. F. Fenlon, poormaster for Warren township, who notified all able bodied family heads in his jurisdiction of the available jobs. Under the urging of two ringleaders the men "struck" for higher wages, which were refused.

The leaders were identified as Odie Herman, 47 years old, who rents a 20 acre farm about a mile north of Gurnee, and Guy A. Stanley, 41 years old, who is buying a 10 acre farm about 1 mile west of the town. Both admitted that they had acted as spokesmen in the wage discussions.

Herman was interviewed on his farm, where he and his wife and four children live. "I went on direct relief last spring," he said, "and stayed on until October, when I was put on work relief. Then I got only 50 cents an hour, whereas I should have been getting 37½ cents. I'm just about out of food and money, but under no conditions will I work for 35 cents an hour. The township will have to take care of us, I suppose."

Drives 1926 Model Auto.

Herman is driving a 1926 model Chrysler automobile. While on work relief, he said, he was paid an average of about $12 a week.

Stanley has a wife and five children, three of whom live at home. Since May 4 he has been selling oil and gasoline from his own filling station.

"I was on direct relief for four months," he said. "They gave me $12.50 a week for groceries, some clothes for the kids, and a ton of coal. But I had to fight to get that. It's a crime for a railroad to pay only 35 cents an hour for killing work."

The former relief clients who were at work yesterday are William Peters, 31 years old, who lives with his wife in Winthrop Harbor; William Huff, 41, who has a wife and three children; Ivan Seaman, 49, who has a wife and no children, and James Sneesby, 49, who has a wife and six children. The last three named live in Warren township.

Haul Ties on Handcar.

All said they felt they should be getting more than 35 cents an hour, but appeared satisfied to work rather than accept charity. They were loading ties on a handcar and hauling them about a mile along the track.

Among those notified who failed to start work, Fenlon said, were Anton Merkel, Joseph Gonyo, Carl Lisbeth, Peter Hella, John Kuyawa, Charles Rafil, Jacob Kaiser, George Johnson, Martin Mackey, Hiram Swanson, Aubrey Oglesby, Joseph Jasinski and Victor Dezoma.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

Jury Acquits 7 Defendants in T-N-T Case

A verdict of not guilty was returned last night in favor of the remaining seven defendants in the Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T], conspiracy trial which has occupied the last six weeks in the court of Judge Michael Feinberg.

The verdict came on the fifth ballot, after the jury had been out five hours. The jurors said later that they had based their judgment on the belief that the state had not proved a conspiracy.

Names of 7 Acquitted.

The seven defendants, charged with conspiracy to boycott merchants and create a trucking monopoly through the T-N-T, are:

Charles J. Wilson, former secretary and treasurer of T-N-T; Marcus Looney, business agent of local 731, Chicago Teamsters' union, and John Baggott, James Farmer, David Reese, James R. Waldt, and Thomas C. Sullivan, all officials of various allied unions.

The jurors, it also was learned, voted on the guilt of the defendants as a group, and did not consider individual cases. Following the "not guilty" all of the defendants rushed forward with Defense Attorney Joseph Harrington to shake hands with the jurors.

Looney, who had been characterized as the chief defendant, was the most jubilant of all.

Second Trial of T-N-T Case.

The verdict terminated the second trial of the T-N-T case. The original trial opened in Judge William V. Brothers' court with fifteen defendants. A mistrial was declared, after more than three months of hearings, because of allegedly prejudicial remarks made in the presence of the jury by Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson.

When the second trial was began before Judge Feinberg the state dropped four of the original defendants. Four others among the remaining 11 were freed on directed verdicts of "not guilty," after the state had closed its case in the second trial.

The Closing Arguments.

In closing his arguments yesterday Prosecutor Thompson said:

"This fight by the state has been made for the hard working union men and the honest employers, who did not want the gangsters to control, but could not help themselves."

Attorney Harrington, for the defense, said:

"Even the state's own witnesses showed that T-N-T had nothing to do with strikes. The evidence shows that T-N-T took in only $60,000 during its existence, all of which was accounted for legitimately."

CHAIN LETTER RACKET BRINGS GEORGE TO LIFE

Most of the people who are fooling with the chain letter racket are going to lose money, but not George Galiger of Los Angeles, Cal.

Galiger visited his relatives living in Lake county in 1912. In 1918 he wrote them a letter. After that he broke his pencil. He must have bought a new one recently, for his brother, Bert J. Galiger of Lake Villa received a form letter from him yesterday. It was a request to please send him a chain dime.

"We have been broadcasting radio appeals and doing everything we could to find George, who is now 60 years old," said Bert. "And then we get this from him. Since 1932 I have been holding his share of insurance left by our mother. Instead of a dime George is going to get several hundred dollars."

Sets Off Dynamite to Kill Himself; It's a Success

QUEBEC, Que., May 10.—(AP)—Thomas Mickkula, Finnish relief camp worker, literally blew himself to pieces. Mickkula's mutilated body was found in a ditch. In his pocket were remnants of a stick of dynamite. A coroner's jury decided he set it off to end his life.

Witherspoon, Opera Leader, Dies in Office

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Herbert Witherspoon, 61, who succeeded Gatti-Casazza as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera company and who was formerly director of the Chicago Civic opera, died suddenly in his office late this afternoon.

Mr. Witherspoon, who was slated to sail for Europe tomorrow on the steamship Paris to visit European opera centers and confer with continental opera leaders, was stricken with coronary thrombosis.

Stricken After Conference.

He had just finished conferring with Edward Ziegler, assistant general manager of the opera company, when he was stricken. His wife, who was waiting for him in his own office in the Metropolitan building, rushed to his aid with Mr. Ziegler and Earl R. Lewis, treasurer of the company.

Earlier in the day Mr. Witherspoon was in high spirits as he discussed his European trip with friends. With his wife he planned to go first to Paris and then to Florence, Italy.

Mr. Witherspoon sang in basso rôles at the Metropolitan in the early years of the Gatti-Casazza régime. He was in the Metropolitan company from 1908 until the end of the 1917 season and appeared in more than twenty rôles.

Sang in Yale Glee Club.

He sang in the Yale Glee club and after his graduation in 1895 he became a concert singer and also a singer of oratorios.

Mr. Witherspoon was married three times. His last wife was the former Blanche Skeath, daughter of Henry E. Sternberg of Columbus, O. They were married a year ago.

His first marriage was to Greta Hughes, sister of Rupert Hughes, the author. They were divorced in 1915.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

Herbert Witherspoon was well known in Chicago as singer, teacher, and operatic executive. He had visited the city many times in former years as member of the Metropolitan Opera company, soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and recital artist. In the summer of 1919 he began coming here as guest teacher in the summer master classes of the Chicago Musical college, becoming president of that institution in 1925.

He held this position until September, 1929, when he resigned to open his own private studio in Chicago. A year later he was invited by Samuel Insull, at that time president of the Chicago Civic Opera company, to become the artistic director of the company under the title of vice president in charge of opera. This position was in turn brought to a close because of the financial collapse of the company.

Love Notes of Peer to Beauty Read in Court

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

LONDON, May 10.—Passionate love letters, alleged to have been written by wealthy and young Lord Revelstoke during his student days to Miss Angela Joyce, "Miss England" of 1930, were read to a crowded courtroom this afternoon at the opening session of the former beauty queen's heart balm suit.

Miss Joyce, whose real name is Ivy Dawkins, has appeared in small parts on the stage and in the films. She is suing the 24 year old peer for breach of promise.

Lord Revelstoke, who denies promising to marry Miss Joyce, was married in March, 1934, to Flora Fermor-Hesketh, second daughter of Sir Thomas and Lady Fermor-Hesketh. She sat with her husband as the trial began. The defendant succeeded to the title in January, 1934, on the death of his father, who was one of the heads of the banking house of Baring Brothers.

Letters Avow Love.

Lord Revelstoke's lawyers are basing their defense in the suit on the contention that the letters were written when he was under 21 and a student at Cambridge.

"Angela, I adore and love you more and more every second of every day," said one of the letters Revelstoke is alleged to have written. "Do keep writing in that wonderful language of yours. It makes me adore life because I know you are the only person in the world whom I shall ever love—yes, Angela, I will love you always."

"You know you are so terribly refreshing, so utterly charming. I never knew one could enjoy another person's company to such an extent," said another letter.

"I am panting to see you again," said still another missive. "You are the supremest, sublimest, superbest girl in the world. I'll never get over you; no, I'll always adore you."

Refers to Parting.

One letter contained the following sentence:

"I am still more or less dazed by the after effects of those last ten minutes last night." The sentence was followed by several exclamation marks.

"Wasn't it ghastly parting last night," Lord Revelstoke was quoted as writing to Miss Joyce on another occasion. "I somehow felt it more than ever. Still we had a glorious day together and I enjoyed your cooking. It's amazing what delight we both get in doing small things like that.

"O, Angela! I take all these things to heart, and it's astounding how alike we are in that way. I can't bear to discuss topical events when I want to keep telling you you are the loveliest girl in the world."

Other letters read at the trial called Angela "You precious girl," and advised her:

"I think you are the loveliest girl in the world. You looked so utterly sweet in that coat yesterday every time I looked at you you made me go crazy."

Pleads for Angela.

"She says that about the middle of April, 1932, Lord Revelstoke verbally promised to marry her, and that in spite of his promise he broke it by marrying another person—the present Lady Revelstoke—on March 1, 1934. However, there was no impropriety of conduct on the part of Lord Revelstoke as regards this lady."

Laski then told how Miss Joyce and Lord Revelstoke, who was then Rupert Baring, met casually in a cocktail room in a London hotel Feb. 17, 1931. At that time, the lawyer said, Miss Joyce, who is four years older than the defendant, did not know that Baring was heir of Lord Revelstoke.

Three women are on the jury hearing the case, which was adjourned until Monday.

CHICAGO AUTHORS

Among the many books reviewed in today's book section, edited by Fanny Butcher, are the following novels by Chicago authors: "Blessed Is the Man," by Louis Zara; "Judgment Day," by James Farrell; "Even in Laughter," by Constance Cassady and Ruth Cardwell; "Golden Legend," by Isabella Holt.

FORMER COUNTY CLERK DENIES ANY SHORTAGE

Offers Explanation of Tangle.

Hit Tax Receivers

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn's forecast that an audit of his office, to cover the figures for the last 62 years, would be presented to the county board yesterday, failed to come true. Instead, there was a counter-announcement that the audit was not exactly complete and would not be available for inspection for several days more.

This second announcement, made by Robert M. Sweitzer, who was holder of the office for 24 years ending last December, added weight to the rumors, fathered in part by Flynn, that an important shortage [guesses place it at $100,000 to $400,000] had been discovered.

Hold Birthday Celebration.

Sweitzer, now county treasurer, issued his statement in the afternoon, shortly after leaving his office to forgather with friends in the Iroquois club and to celebrate, or at least to observe, his 67th birthday anniversary. Sweitzer is one of the most experienced banquet attenders and post-prandial speakers in Chicago, and the number of friends who joined in felicitation of the day was large.

To his well wishers he declared firmly that he was not worried by rumors that a shortage had developed during his long tenure of Flynn's office. He explained that Flynn had promised him that no report of the audit, now being made under the direction of R. L. Pearce & Co., public accountants, would be made public until all the figures were examined and combined into a grand total.

When that was done, he asserted, there would be no shortage. He reiterated, also, that if there was any he would personally make good the amount.

Attacks Motives of Critics.

"I am under attack," he said, "only because I refused to yield to a certain newspaper. I stand on my record and welcome any proper criticism. If these absurd rumors were true I would not have been fool enough to run for county treasurer when I could have remained clerk as long as I wished. This will not interfere with the discharge of my duties in my present place, where I feel I can be of greater service than in the clerk's office."

During the afternoon Sweitzer made an unsuccessful effort to confer with Flynn. The latter was not in his office or in any of his usual haunts. His friends said vaguely that he was "away" and that they didn't know when he would be back.

The supposition was that he would not talk to Sweitzer until he was ready to, for the present county clerk is something of a contrast to his predecessor.

A Mixer and Good Fellow.

Sweitzer has always been of the affable type. Fraternal orders—no fewer than eleven of them—claim him as a member. In 1926 he was made one of that legion of colonels on the staf of Flem D. Sampson, then governor of Kentucky, for his "work in promoting horse racing in Illinois." In 1934 he was made a Knight of St. Gregory in recognition of his Catholic charity work.

Six social and athletic clubs have taken him into membership. His popularity with his underlings has been marked. Once, back in 1926, the workers in the tax extension department gave a dinner in his honor out in the country and presented him with a $1,000 bill as a token of appreciation. He has been engaged in a number of business and civic enterprises and for several years was president and general manager of the Illinois Jockey club, which operated the Washington Park track at Homewood. In its opening year the Washington Park track attracted attention by offering a purse of $100,000 for the American Derby.

A Different Personality.

Flynn, if his record since taking the county clerkship is a criterion, is more of the lone wolf type. He refused to sign a receipt for the assets of the office until the complete audit had been made and certified correct. This was something of a surprise, as there hasn't been such a thing as a complete audit since the old county records were burned up in the Chicago fire of 1871.

The new clerk, soon after he stepped in, evinced irritation that some of his authority had been clipped off by other officers. Particularly was this true of his duties as county controler ex officio. He has already clashed with Sweitzer over the method of paying salaries to county employés.

A few weeks ago Flynn engaged in a controversy with Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, because, as controler, he had not been invited to attend meetings dealing with county finances. One of the Flynn aids publicly took Smith to task on this ground.

As might have been expected, Flynn was rather forthright Thursday when he was asked about the rumors that a shortage existed. Yes, he said, the audit was practically complete and it indicated that funds were missing.

"If there is any shortage at all," he stated, "it will be every bit of $100,000."

On the other hand, Sweitzer explained patiently why the audits of past years were incomplete. It was all because of the "redemption fund." This is a trust account created by tax buyers, those who purchase real estate by paying delinquent taxes. The county clerk must hold this money for 18 months. During that period the original owner may recover his property by making good the taxes and the charges added thereto.

When such redemption of property is made the tax buyer recovers his impounded money from the redemption fund. Because many of these tax buyers failed to understand their rights, according to Sweitzer, and demand the due refund, the whole fund has grown to $300,000 or $400,000.

Holds Bookkeeping at Fault.

Bookkeeping thus far in the office failed to segregate this particular fund. It was Sweitzer's opinion, he said, that there should be a segregation and the sum doled out by some logical plan to county charitable institutions.

Assurances that the county was in no danger of losing anything, even if a shortage were discovered, were given last night by Assistant State's Attorney William J. Tuohy, after he had conferred with President Smith of the county board.

"If shortages were discovered during the period of Sweitzer's incumbency," Mr. Tuohy said, "he and his bondsmen could be sued for whatever is due. His bond of $100,000 for each year was furnished by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company. It is not likely that there was a discrepancy of $100,000 in any one year."

The guaranty company's officials said yesterday that they had not been notified of any shortage.

Robert L. Pearce, head of the auditing company, commented only to say yesterday that the report would be ready "in the near future."

So far as he is concerned, Sweitzer indicated, it matters little when the anxiously awaited audit becomes public.

"It was made," he said, "at my own suggestion."

POOCHIE STEALS FOX HUNT GLORY ON NORTH SHORE

North shore had a fox hunt yesterday. This notable event, however, was utterly devoid of millionaires in red coats and bowlers breezing along on hedge-hopping thoroughbreds.

The unorthodox north shore hunters wore overalls, toted one shotgun. The "pack" consisted of one dog of uncertain parentage which seemed not to resent the unimaginative and plebeian name of "poochie." The scene was the yard of the Shore Line Lumber company at 546 Jackson street, Waukegan, to which the fox had been attracted, the sportsmen surmised, by the smell of pine lumber which reminded him of the woods.

Poochie, the dog, espied and maybe scented the fox. He set up a raucous to-do and attracted the attention of his master, Frank Skilling, and another employé, Alfred Scblad. Alfred spotted the fox next.

"Yoicks!" cried Mr. Scblad, his sporting blood aboil. "Yoicks!" Tallyho! There goes the blighter!"

Skilling dashed into the office and seized a shotgun kept there for just such emergencies. In the meantime the dauntless Poochie cornered Reynard under a lumber shed. Scblad got a long pole, and, still shouting "Yoicks!" sportingly poked the fox into the open.

KINGFISH MAKES BONUS PRINCIPAL 3D PARTY PLANK

Sounds Greenback Keynote in Senate Tirade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Senator Huey Long, the Louisiana dictator, broke loose in the senate again today and sounded the keynote of the possible third party campaign against President Roosevelt. The main plank will be the greenback bonus, which congress has passed and which the President is expected to veto as soon as it reaches him.

Long's argument brought cheers and roars of laughter from the veterans and lobbyists who packed the galleries. His thesis, one that administration defenders could not answer, is that banks can get 100 cents on the dollar in new currency on all their government obligations and still draw interest, while the veterans "can get nothing."

"The only people in this country who can get 3½ per cent interest on what they owe are the bankers," he bellowed.

Long Rants for 3 Hours.

With this as his battle cry, the self-styled "Kingfish" talked for three hours, denouncing President Roosevelt and ridiculing the queen of England. He called the roll of the senators who voted to permit all government obligations to be pledged as collateral for the issuance of new money, and among them he mentioned "Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas."

These senators are running for reelection next year, and Long has decreed that they shall not come back.

Long's new rôle of championing the cause of the veterans [his own war record is a blank with a couple of smudges] so enraged Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] that there might have been a fist fight in the senate but for Huey's retreat.

Tydings Explains "Record."

"Since the senator from Louisiana gets so much logic and support out of referring to the records of other senators, and also to the record of the President of the United States, and draws the deadly parallel," said Senator Tydings, "I hope he will also make reference to his own service in the world war."

Long said he had covered that question to the satisfaction of his own people and to himself. His explanation is that he didn't go to war because he didn't know any Germans and had nothing against them.

"Let me cover it a little bit for the senator," said Senator Tydings.

"In the senator's own time he can cover it," Long replied. The following colloquy ensued:

Tydings—You bet I can, and nobody can stop me.

"No Offense," Says Long.

Long—I will not try to stop the senator.

Tydings—You had better not try.

Long—O, well, I am talking about the senator's record on banks.

Tydings—You'd better stick pretty close to the record, or I'll have a reply that won't be vocal.

Senator Tydings clinched his fists and his face was white with rage as he made to approach Long, but the latter protested in soothing tones that he had meant no offense.

Long began his speech with a declaration that President Roosevelt was "leading the Democratic party to slaughter" because he would not heed the telegrams and letters from the veterans' organizations urging him to sign the bonus bill.

Turns Guns on Baruch.

"If the President's advisers wanted to do him and the party a service they would tell him to pay some attention to those telegrams," he said. "I'd rather have the opinion of those people than the President's advisers. But old Barney Baruch is advising him."

Long said that if he were advising the President he would ask Mr. Roosevelt how much he made during the war.

"He would tell you he got $10,000 for that year's work," Long said.

"How many cannon did you face, sir?" Long asked, as though he were conducting an imaginary interview.

"None."

"How many nights did you sleep on the ground, sir?"

"None."

"It is not going to do well, Mr. President, for you today to say to these men who bled and fought and who died that they cannot exchange the little flimsy, nefarious, puny, putrid obligation that the government has given them for the circulating money of the United States, when you have given that right to every banker in the country."

"We'll be having another trip on the Nourmahal pretty soon. Vincent Astor will get that old boat fixed up and steamed up and we'll have another trip. It ought to be called the 'Normal haul,' for that's what they're interested in. Ship subsidies. Vincent Astor is tied up with this international mercantile marine.

"The President says he can't find out what's going on in the country without going out on the Nourmahal.

Assails Roosevelt Trips.

"Instead of going into the cotton patches and the concentration camps where these poor devils are gathered with cups in their hands, trying to get a little soup, he goes out into British waters on the Nourmahal. He even had dinner out there with the duke and duchess of Kent, one of the sons of King George the fifth and Queen Mary the four fifths."

Long anticipated the charge that his analogy between the veterans and their "obligations" and the bankers and theirs is the argument of a demagog.

"I have no more respect," he said, "for a man that will use the soldier for a demagogic argument than I have for any other form of cowardice, but I have less respect for the kind of man who will tell the bankers that they can get 100 cents on the dollar in new money for their government obligations, and still draw interest, and then tell the veterans that they can get nothing."

M. D. BREEN GETS 15 YEAR TERM AS SLAYER OF REGAN

CRIMINAL COURT.

Matthew Breen, murder, sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

After three hours' deliberation last night, a jury in Judge Grover C. Niemeyer's Criminal court found Matthew D. Breen, 28 years old, guilty of murder and fixed his punishment at 15 years in prison. The jurors convicted Breen, a former minor politician on the south side, of shooting Michael Walsh Regan, 37 years old, on Jan. 1, 1934, in Regan's home at 9223 Houston avenue.

Several men took part in the killing. One of them, Albert Ciha, who was tried before Breen, is serving a sentence of 99 years in the penitentiary. During Breen's trial, Regan's sister, Mrs. Anna Quinn, and two other witnesses identified Breen as the gunman who fired the fatal shots.

He was visibly relieved when the verdict was returned. Judge Niemeyer asked if there were any motions before he passed sentence. Breen's lawyer, W. W. O'Brien, turned to his client.

"You don't want a new trial do you?" he asked.

"No, no, your honor," Breen almost shouted, whereupon the judge sentenced him immediately.

Wins $10,000 from Cafe Owner for Holdup Slaying

A jury before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude awarded damages of $10,000 yesterday to Mrs. Ella Quinn, 5828 North Ridge avenue. The suit was brought by Mrs. Quinn against Albert A. Pappas, owner of a restaurant at 658 North Orleans street, as the result of the death of her daughter, Florence, 24 years old, who was fatally wounded Aug. 26, 1933, during a holdup in the restaurant where she was a patron.

RECOVER BODY IN RIVER.

The body of Albert T. Agnes, 33 years old, a former street car conductor, was recovered in the Chicago river yesterday at the Van Buren street bridge. The body was identified by Policeman Louis Agnes, a brother.

FUTURE OF NRA THREATENED BY SENATE ACTION

Extension to April 1 Will Be Supported.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A deadlock between President Roosevelt and the house of representatives on one hand and the senate on the other over the future of the NRA loomed today.

Senate Democrats this morning bound themselves in caucus to support the Clark resolution which would extend the existing NRA with serious restrictions for nine months to next April 1. A few hours later the President declared that he did not favor this plan and that he preferred the enactment of a new, clarified NRA effective for two years.

Deadlock Is Threatened.

With the senate and President in open disagreement over how the NRA should be continued after June 16, it appears that the house may back Mr. Roosevelt, although he would not discuss this possibility. If the house should follow this course and the senate should pass the Clark resolution, the two branches may fall into a deadlock in trying to reach a conference report. Such a deadlock thus would jeopardize the future of the NRA.

Mr. Roosevelt, who also said the Supreme court's decision against the railroad retirement act had not changed his opinion of NRA's legality, explained that he thought congress should clear up sections of the recovery law rather than simply continuing the present law. The Supreme court may junk the existing law as it did the railroad pension act.

The Democratic senators at their caucus today not only bound themselves to support the nine month continuing resolution in the face of White House opposition, but overwhelmingly voted down all attempts to broaden it. As the resolution now stands, the act would be modified to eliminate all wholly intra-state business from NRA regulation and to prohibit price fixing except in mineral resources industries.

Even a more serious threat to the recovery organization was the private statement of several senate NRA foes that they would filibuter as long as it might be necessary to prevent adoption of the conference report in the event the senate conferees yielded.

Seek to Speed Work.

The conference of senate Democrats was called by Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson to consider methods of speeding up the senate's work and the action on the Clark resolution, without amendments, was taken with a view of obviating controversial issues.

The senators came out of the marble room buoyant of spirit and talking about coöperation to get through and go home not later than July 15. They marched into a senate session, however, that reverted into the deadlock over the Norris TVA bill which for two days had blocked legislative progress.

Not only was the stage set for an indefinite fight over the TVA, but the senate gave unanimous consent to take up the postoffice committee's adverse report on a resolution to investigate Postmaster General Farley on Monday. And Huey Long, author of this resolution, sidetracked even the TVA deadlock by a three hour harangue on the bonus.

Norris Motion Passed.

Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.], whose motion to take up the TVA bill was killed when the senate adjourned yesterday, renewed it during the morning hour today, when debate was out of order, and it carried. The bill was made the "unfinished business" of the senate, and the stacks of material on Republican and some Democratic desks indicated that it was decidedly unfinished.

Huey Long then began badgering Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the postoffice committee, about bringing up the Farley resolution during his absence. McKellar asked unanimous consent to take it up Monday "and proceed to a vote," to which Long agreed.

"I want to find out what that is you are okaying," Minority Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon interposed, addressing Long. McKellar explained and McNary replied, with a gesture of futility:

"All right, if it's all right with you, it's all right with me."

Other Business Delayed.

Senator McNary was looking at the Democratic leaders and his tone suggested that they didn't realize what they were bargaining for. Huey will have some talking to do before that resolution comes to a vote, and under the unanimous consent agreement, no other business can be transacted until the vote is taken.

Senators Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], and Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.], both foes of NRA, were the only Democrats attending the caucus who refused to bind themselves to support the Clark resolution. Senator Robert J. Bulkley [Dem., O.] proposed that the resolution be amended to permit the continued regulation of intra-state businesses that affect interstate commerce, but this was voted down. Senator Black proposed that his 30 hour week bill be tacked on to the NRA extension resolution and this was rejected as impracticable.

Senator Robinson said after the conference that he did not know when the NRA could be taken up, but that it would be the next major subject on the senate program.

JURY DISAGREES ON MRS. SEXTON'S HEART BALM SUIT

Unable to agree on a verdict after six hours deliberation, a jury that heard the $25,000 alienation of affections suit of Mrs. Julia P. Sexton, 47 years old, 1317 Foster avenue, was discharged last night. The case was presided over by Judge Ray D. Henson of Johnson City, sitting in the Superior court here.

Mrs. Sexton sued Mrs. Florence Helmetag, 35 years old, of Twin Lakes, Wis., charging her with stealing the affections of Mrs. Sexton's former husband, Frank, once an architect, but now a brewery supply salesman, whom she divorced Feb. 5, 1934.

DUKE, JAILED FOR FRAUD, ADMITS HE'S BEEN 'A MUG'

Manchester Not So Sure Nobleman's Life Is Best.

LONDON, May 10.—(AP)—The portly duke of Manchester as he gloomily paced a jail cell tonight after being sentenced to nine months imprisonment for fraud in pawning the jewels of his late American-born mother, admittedly ruefully, "my trouble is I have been a mug—I am not quite sure I am glad I was born a duke."

Found guilty in Old Bailey of obtaining $3,250 under false pretenses, the 59 year old duke, ninth holder of the ancient peerage, was taken immediately to jail while his attorneys attempted in vain to see the king to secure the nobleman's release on bail pending an appeal.

Regrets Lost Opportunities.

It was a brighter cell than the age-old dungeons of the duke's three castles but this fact did not cheer him up.

"My trouble is I have been a mug," he said. "My one regret in life is that I was never allowed to go in business when I was a boy. People think being a duke must be great fun. Well, it has its advantages but I am not quite sure I am glad I was born a duke."

The duke, whose first wife was Miss Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati, O., took slight solace from the fact that for the first time in years a beleaguering host of creditors was unable to get at him in Brixton jail. He admitted under cross-examination today there had been 67 petitions against him and a number of judgment summonses.

"I have been so broke I have only just been able to pay for my valet's meals," he said.

Once Challenged Crown Prince.

Reminiscing, the nobleman recalled he once challenged the former crown prince of Germany to a duel during a row in a Mayfair hotel over a beautiful debutante.

"I called the prince a very rude name and offered to give him satisfaction in Germany but his royal highness did not seem to take kindly to my suggestions," he asserted.

The duke, well known in America where theatrical circles call him "Kim," denied any intent to defraud when he pawned the jewels belonging to the estate of his mother.

During the prosecution's questioning the duke disclosed that the family gold heirloom plate was pawned by his mother.

"What happened about that?" asked the prosecutor.

Denies Intent to Defraud.

When his attorney asked if he had any intention to defraud the pawnbrokers, Manchester replied, "Absolutely not." He maintained he thought he was a tenant for life of the jewelry, left by his mother, Consuelo, duchess of Manchester, the former Consuelo Yznaga de Valle of Ravenswood, La.

He said money coming to him from his mother's estate in America is a discretionary allowance which his creditors cannot touch and said he is "always in trouble" with trustees of the fund.

The duke contended he paid interest on the pledged gems and kept insurance up with the purpose of redeeming them.

The duke has been haled into court in New York and Montreal on financial difficulties as well as in London. His first wife was the daughter of the late E. Zimmerman, Cincinnati railroad executive, from whom he was divorced in Cuba in 1931. He then wed Kathleen Dawes, English actress.

BLACKFRIARS PUT ON TRAVESTY ON 'BRAIN TRUSTERS'

"In Brains We Trust," the annual show of the Blackfriars, University of Chicago musical comedy organization, was presented to an audience of 1,200 in Mandel hall on the campus last evening.

Most of the action centered about warfare between the government and the university for the services of professors. One scene depicted Alumnus Harold L. Ickes, '97—now secretary of the interior—and Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university, shooting dice in front of the Capitol for the university faculty.

Another performance will be given tonight and two more on May 17 and 18.

U. S. AIR FLEET PLAYS HIDE AND SEEK IN PACIFIC

Wartime Secrecy Veils Mass Flight.

HONOLULU, May 10.—(AP)—The American navy's great mid-Pacific air armada continued its unprecedented operations behind a thick veil of censorship and radio silence today.

Because of the rigid order invoked by the high command to veil the nature of the far-flung maneuvers, the exact whereabouts of the armada, which left here yesterday, remained undisclosed.

Navy officials in Washington, D. C., said, however, not all the 46 seaplanes would fly to Midway Islands, 1,423 miles west and north of here, the apparent destination when they took off.

The Washington officers said some of the aircraft would participate in other activities, presumably connected with extensive fleet operations now in progress.

Censorship Is Admitted.

Existence of a censorship at Midway Islands was admitted by the Washington officers, who said Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commanding the fleet, undoubtedly had sent a vessel to the tiny islands to regulate dispatches from the cable office there.

Observers here concluded the fighting planes came down for the night either at French Frigate shoals, 500 miles west of Honolulu, or at Pearl and Hermes reef, 100 miles this side of the Midway Islands.

Some of the 153 ships of the fleet were known to be in that vicinity.

With surface vessels near, the fighting aircraft could have alighted easily in the coral-encircled waters at either place, obtained fuel and service from a warship, and continued the operations after an overnight stop.

Intent on Winning Sham War.

The naval command was intent on winning an imaginary war and used the silence order to simulate wartime conditions.

Not even the wives and other relatives of the 200 flyers involved knew the whereabouts of the planes.

In San Francisco Rear Admiral T. J. Senn, commandant of the Twelfth Naval district, sought to learn whether the planes had reached Midway, but he, too, was unsuccessful.

Midway Islands, soon to be a way station in contemplated trans-Pacific commercial air service, was taken over recently by the navy department and designated as a naval reservation. As such, it is subject to service regulations.

JAPAN SILENT ON FLIGHT.

TOKIO, May 10.—(AP)—Japanese officialdom and public watched the United States navy's Midway Islands flight in poker-faced silence today, hiding whatever anxiety they may have felt at extension of the navy air arm 1,300 miles nearer Japan. The official spokesmen at the foreign office and navy office declined to comment on the maneuvers and the newspapers continued to play them down, suggesting official guidance, although newspaper men denied this.

Parents Not Present

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—After being directed to the home of a justice of the peace at 2 a. m. today by White Plains police Donna Christina Torlonia, daughter of the Princess di Civitella Cesi, the former Miss Elsie Moore of this city, and Daniel Lord, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Butler Lord, also of this city, were married at Harrison, N. Y. Their parents were not present at the ceremony.

The pair was accompanied by fourteen young friends, most of them in evening clothes, when they drove up to Justice Leo Mintzar's home. In the party were the bride's sister, Donna Marina Torlonia; Miss Edith De Forest Lord, Miss Frances Munn and her sister Mary, Michael Fuller, Wendell Walker, Louis Grinnell, and Samuel McIlvaine.

The justice got out of bed and telephoned to the town clerk of Harrison that the party was on the way. He then joined the party and they drove to the town hall, where the clerk was ready with the applications.

Mr. Lord gave his age as 26 and profession as a banker. The bride gave her age as 21 and her address as Belle Haven, Conn. She was born in Rome.

BLAME SHIFTED IN INQUIRY OVER RUSTY LICENSES

Car Owners Return 1,400 Sets of Plates.

After 1,400 Illinois motorists had sent their 1935 license plates back to the office of the secretary of state with the complaint that the numbers were almost obliterated with rust, state officials began to think some sort of an investigation ought to be made.

A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, who has charge of prison activities, looked into the matter, since the plates are the product of prison labor, and reported on his findings yesterday.

The steel of which the plates were made is of the requisite quality, according to Mr. Bowen, and the handicraft of the prisoners in fashioning the plates was all right.

Blames the Enamel.

The trouble was with the enamel, he said.

This statement was disputed immediately by the Tousey Varnish company, which got the contract for supplying the enamel on a bid of $8,424.

Mr. Bowen explained that he based his statement on the results of tests made by chemists of the University of Illinois and of the state highway department. They declared that the air and moisture permeats the enamel and causes the steel to "bleed."

Mr. Bowen then replied to a charge that the enamel contract went to the highest bidder.

The Tousey company, he said, was the third lowest bidder, and tests were made of the enamel of the three lowest of the fifteen bidders. Each type of enamel was put on steel plates and baked in ovens at 225 degrees Fahrenheit.

Enamel Is Okay in Test.

The enamel furnished by the two lowest bidders turned brown under the baking, Mr. Bowen said, which wasn't at all good in view of the fact that pearl-gray had been selected as the background for the plates. The Tousey enamel was gray after baking, and that was all right.

C. R. Heagstedt, secretary of the Tousey concern, said that his company is still making an investigation of the cause of the rust, but isn't ready to make a public statement as yet.

In the meantime Secretary of State Edward Hughes said that he would replace any rusty plates with nice, shiny new ones—blue figures on the pearl-gray background, and motorists throughout the state are taking advantage of the offer.

Mr. Bowen said the state is going to make a claim against the Tousey company for the expense incurred in replacement of rusty license plates.

Tax collections for 1933 totaling $2,090,000 were distributed by County Treasurer Robert M. Sweitzer yesterday among seven taxing bodies. Of the total, $1,500,000 went to the city, $250,000 to the sanitary district, and $200,000 to the south park division of the Chicago park district.

MARTIN J. INSULL'S ARREST IS SOUGHT IN CANADIAN WARANT

TORONTO, May 10.—(AP)—A warant was issued today on behalf of the United States government for the arrest of Martin J. Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate.

The warant said Insull was wanted in Chicago in connection with charges growing out of the collapse of the Insull Utility Corporation of Illinois.

It came as a preliminary to an application for extradition of Insull.

Should the extradition attempt prove successful, it would be the second time Martin Insull was removed from Canada to stand trial in Chicago. He was acquitted the first time, as was his brother, Samuel.

The warant issued by Justice J. A. Hope on information sworn out by F. A. Bohne, United States vice consul here, was based on an allegation that Insull unlawfully transferred property valued at $2,330,820 of the Corporation Securities company of Chicago with intent to defraud the creditors and to defeat operation of the United States bankruptcy act between Nov. 2, 1931, and Jan. 20, 1933.

HOUSE JUDICIARY BODY WILL PRESS ALSCHULER QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A federal investigation of Circuit Judge Samuel Alschuler of Chicago appeared imminent today when the house judiciary committee asked to be allowed to inquire into the impeachment charges lodged against him by Representative Everett M. Dirksen [Rep., Ill].

The judiciary committee agreed to offer a resolution in the house which will empower the committee to conduct a full examination of the Dirksen charges. Illinois Democrats in the house, who yesterday sought to have the committee dismiss the charges and censure Dirksen, probably will fight the resolution.

"Developments brought out by our investigation" will determine the scope of the hearings, Representative Hatton W. Sumners [Dem., Tex.], committee chairman, said.

Dirksen charged on the floor of the house Tuesday that Judge Alschuler was "knowingly and corruptly guilty of favoritism to certain corporations, then appellants." His charge brought heated replies.

FIND $1,288,000 TO FEED RELIEF CLIENTS A WEEK

Commission to Use Rural Welfare Funds.

Food supplies for almost another week were assured this state's 1,200,000 relief clients yesterday when the Illinois Emergency Relief commission took $1,288,767 from earmarked federal funds intended for rural rehabilitation and other Washington-sponsored programs. Authority for the last minute move to keep relief clients fed was gained by the IERC from Harry L. Hopkins, head of the Federal Emergency Relief administration.

Telegrams were sent immediately to all county relief organizations authorizing them to spend up to the amounts of their pro-rated shares of the $1,288,767.

Cook county, which has 150,000 relief families, or 48 per cent of the state total, received $707,280—about 59 per cent of the money. The 101 downstate counties, with 52 per cent of the relief load, were given 41 per cent, or $492,720. The remaining $88,767 is being reserved by the IERC for contingencies.

Food Supplies for 130,000 Families.

Cook county, which has by far the highest relief standards in the state, will be able to buy food supplies for six days for 130,000 of its indigent families whose "due dates" fall within next week. Downstate counties, having lower standards of relief, are expected to make their smaller share last about the same length of time.

State headquarters of the IERC at 1319 South Michigan avenue will be closed this noon, and all but a few of the 600 central office employés will be dismissed. The staf members to lose their jobs, who have been working on a volunteer basis since May 1, will be paid up to May 11.

The commission, after approving the transfer of funds at its weekly meeting, recommended that the funds be used only for the purchase of food. Even medical care, hitherto included in the emergency relief provided when funds were available, should not be paid for, it was said.

Gets Permission from Hopkins.

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the IERC, revealed that the matter was discussed in his conference with Gov. Horner in Chicago on Thursday night. He telephoned Washington officials yesterday and got permission to use the earmarked federal funds for general relief purposes. His announcement was made at a special meeting of the Cook county board, held to consider whether the county should sell more of its bonds to bridge the relief gap. The board meeting was adjourned without action.

At Washington the FERA insisted that Hopkins' releasing of the earmarked funds "does not mean a retreat from his stand" of not aiding Illinois until the legislature contributes $3,000,000 toward Illinois' monthly relief requirement of $12,000,000.

Hope for More U. S. Funds.

However, Hopkins' action bolstered previous reports that he would grant fresh federal funds to the state if the legislature passed revenue bills which would become effective July 1. These are the sales tax increase bills which Gov. Horner will try to push through the house of representatives a third time next Tuesday, with an emergency clause making them effective this month.

All but $388,767 of the food funds came from the Illinois Rural Rehabilitation corporation, a subsidiary of the IERC. The special activities "can wait for a while," Mr. Dunham said.

The $900,000 of rural rehabilitation funds had been allotted to the IRRC to cover its program for several months in the future, and their transfer will exhaust the corporation's resources except for amounts necessary to meet outstanding bills and to provide operating expenses for one week. The $388,767 came from 16 accounts on the IERC books, including subsistence gardens and beef processing.

The funds will be entered on the books as an advance on the May allocations — approved requirements — of the various counties. This will permit repayment of the emergency money to the accounts it was taken from, when and if the IERC receives regular relief funds, Mr. Dunham said.

The commission approved another transfer of funds in order to carry on the occupational survey required by Washington as a basis for employing relief clients in the President's four billion dollar work program. Because Washington officials have been prodding the IERC, which is lagging behind other states in completing the survey, $50,000 was appropriated from the "state and local homeless" account by executive action. The survey, which will cost a total of about $400,000, should be completed by June 1.

ESTRELLA NELSON.

Zack Terrell, president of Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus, and Estrella Nelson, acrobat and animal trainer, were married in Chicago on April 23 while the show was playing here. This announcement was made yesterday in Rochester, Ind., headquarters of the circus. Mr. and Mrs. Terrell are now in Lexington, Ky., with the circus.

LEGION TO FIGHT DE KALB COUNTY 'RELIEF RACKET'

Sycamore, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—Branding relief a "professional racket," American Legion post No. 99 of Sycamore yesterday took into its own hands the job of investigating charges of irregularities in administration made by both relief clients and taxpayers in this township.

A special Legion committee will be established to hear all charges against the local relief administration, expenses being paid by post No. 99. Finding of the committee will be taken over the heads of De Kalb county relief officials to the Illinois emergency relief commission at Chicago and to Gov. Horner and State Treasurer John Stelle, it was announced.

The legionnaires declared they would maintain their "clearing house" for complaints until all alleged inequality, harsh treatment, and fraud is stamped out. One of the two county relief stations is located here, with a [illegible] which the Legion contends is large enough to have ironed out the [illegible] long ago.

John N. Willys, Ex-Envoy, Seriously Ill in Kentucky

Louisville, Ky., May 10.—(AP)—John N. Willys, 61, of Toledo, O., pioneer automobile manufacturer and former ambassador to Poland, was seriously ill here today at a hospital where he has been confined since Derby day after suffering a heart attack. His wife, formerly Mrs. Florence E. Dolan of Fieldston, N. Y., is with him.

Boy of 3 Swallows Stone; Dies on Way to Hospital

As he was riding a tricycle near his home Arthur Aagaard, 3 years old, 9740 South Homan avenue, Evergreen Park, fell and swallowed a large pebble he had in his mouth. The boy died as his father, Chester S. Aagaard, was taking him to the Little Company of Mary hospital. An autopsy was ordered.

FORMER N.U. CO-ED ACTS TO RID SELF OF 'PRINCE' TODAY

Miss Helen Gloria Albert, 25 years old, former Northwestern university co-ed, and daughter of Benjamin A. Albert, 3400 Sheridan road, is due to appear today before Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti to ask that her marriage to a man she knew as "Prince" Michale Kildischeff be annulled.

Miss Albert, whose father is president of the cleaners, dyers and pressers union, met Kildischeff when she went to Hollywood to seek fortune as a song writer in the movies. They were married in Yuma, Ariz., and shortly afterward the bride discovered that "Prince" Kildischeff already was possessed of a wife in Syracuse, N. Y.

Her attorney, Irving Eisenman, said yesterday that he will offer in court an affidavit from Norma Allewelt, Syracuse dancing teacher, in which she declares that she had married Kildischeff prior to his elopement with Miss Albert last Feb. 1. The affidavit sets forth, Eisenman said, that Kildischeff admitted the bigamous marriage to his first wife, but declared that he was intoxicated when it took place.

WIDE OBSERVANCE OF MOTHER'S DAY IN CHICAGO TOMORROW

Mother's day will be observed throughout Chicago tomorrow.

At the Garfield, Washington, and Lincoln park conservatories special displays have been planned of flowers traditionally adapted to Mother's day. The conservatories will be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Admittance is free.

Mother's day sermons will be preached in many of the churches. Among other secular observances will be the annual Mother's day breakfast at the Hotel Sherman of the Pen and Pencil club of Chicago, a musical program by the Chicago lodge, No. 4, B. P. O. E., and numerous sorority teas.

Mrs. Mary Adelman, 614 West 47th street, who at the age of 106 claims the title of "the oldest mother in Chicago," will be taken for an airplane ride at 1 p. m. by American Airlines as a Mother's day gift.

NEWFOUNDLAND IDLE RIOT; SHOPS LOOTED BY MOB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, May 10.—A protest march of 900 unemployed men this afternoon developed into rioting tonight. Forty stores were practically wrecked by the rioters. Regular police, assisted by 200 reserve officers, clubbed the mob in an effort to clear the streets.

Many civilians were injured, while several policemen were struck by stones hurled by the rioters. Three men were arrested. Police squads searched the city for two alleged leaders of the demonstrators.

George Wilkinson, a spokesman for the unemployed, who was injured in earlier clashes in the afternoon, tonight harangued a crowd of 5,000 at Beck's Cove.

The protest meeting of the unemployed was called at 3 p. m. after the refusal of the government commission to discuss the unemployment situation with a committee representing them. The men marched to the Colonial building, where the first clash with police took place. Police reported that many shops were looted by hoodlums of candy, fruit and supplies of beer during the fighting. Several jewelry stores were entered.

HOLDUP SUSPECT SHOT DOWN AS HE FLEES DEPUTIES

A holdup suspect, riding in a car which the Lake county sheriff's office declares has been involved in several recent robberies, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded by deputy sheriffs yesterday, and his companion was captured in a tavern at Half Day, six miles west of Highland Park.

The wounded man, who was taken to the Highland Park hospital, refused to give his address and only said, "Call me George Lee."

His companion identified himself as Jack Cross, 33 years old, 3550 Franklin boulevard, Chicago.

Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle said that three different cars, the license numbers of which had been recorded in various recent holdups, were being sought. About noon a citizen called with the information that one of these machines had been seen near Zion.

Sheriff Doolittle dispatched three squads. One of them, composed of Deputies Stanley Christian and Frank Kazlausky, saw the suspected car outside the White House tavern, in Half Day, on route 22.

Inside at the bar they found the two men and marched them outside and "Lee" Kazlausky fired once with his shotgun and the fleeing man fell.

The license number of the car was traced to James Cross, 2308 West Monroe street, Chicago, said to be a brother of Jack Cross, the captive.

Wife, 18, Granted Divorce from Dillinger Gangster

Superior Judge Allegretti granted a divorce yesterday to Mrs. Violet Price, 18 years old, 4108 Kenmore avenue, from Robert Price, alias Hilton Crouch, Dillinger gangster now serving a sentence for robbery in the Indiana state penitentiary at Michigan City. Mrs. Price charged desertion. She testified she married Crouch under the name of Price on Nov. 4, 1933, and that he deserted her the following Dec. 23. She said she was unaware of his outlaw activities.

$125,000 GIVEN EX-HUSBAND OF CANNON HEIRESS

Father Is Accused of Causing Divorce.

Charlotte, N. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A Superior court jury late today awarded F. Brandon Smith Jr., 29 year old real estate operator, $125,000 damages in his alienation of affections suit against his former father-in-law, Joe F. Cannon, Concord millionaire.

In announcing that an appeal would be taken, Plummer Stewart of the defense counsel said the "jury didn't know the difference between $75 and $75,000—that was the trouble."

Smiles Over Victory.

The verdict ordered Cannon to pay $75,000 actual damages and $50,000 punitive damages. Smith smiled broadly as he heard the verdict.

The young realtor had asked $250,000 damages for the alleged loss of the affections of his former wife, Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith. She married him after obtaining a Reno, Nev., divorce from Smith Reynolds, young tobacco fortune heir, who later was shot to death.

Jurors Submit Question.

It was believed a verdict in favor of the defendant would be returned when, five minutes after receiving the case, the jurors came back in and asked Judge W. F. Harding if Smith had brought the suit as a pauper action.

The judge informed them this was no concern of theirs and ordered them to retire and resume their deliberations. The jurors gave no explanation why they wished this information.

Would Have Escaped Cost.

However, it was presumed they were interested in knowing whether Smith would be taxed with the costs of the suit if a verdict were returned for the defendant. Had the suit been a pauper action, which it was not, Smith would not have to pay the costs if he lost.

In charging the jury Judge Harding declared the burden of proof throughout was on the plaintiff.

He told the jurors they must first find that Mrs. Smith had affections for her husband before considering whether her father alienated them. In order to return a verdict for Smith, the judge said, the jury also must find that any alienation of affections was done maliciously.

POSTOFFICE JOB JUST WON'T LET REPUBLICAN GO

Howard L. Scott, who has been trying since last December to lose his job as postmaster of Fox Lake, finally got a reply from Washington yesterday which leaves him some hope.

Mr. Scott became county recorder of Lake county last December, at a salary of $4,000 a year, and consequently had little use for his job as postmaster at only $1,800 a year.

He wrote Postmaster General Farley saying he wanted to be relieved and, as he was chairman of the county Republican central committee, he expected little delay.

In all, Mr. Scott wrote three letters and one telegram with no result. Yesterday was the first word. It said that Helmer D. Carlson of Fox Lake had been nominated for the job, but no official action had yet been taken.

SLUGGED BY TWO ROBBERS.

Joseph Keams, 51 years old, 2130 North Crawford avenue, was in a serious condition at the Danish-American hospital last night after being slugged by two bandits who stopped him at Armitage and Keeler avenues and robbed him of $28.

WAY TO COMBAT LIFE WOES TOLD TO GIRL SCOUTS

If modern service groups, such as the Girl Scouts, desire to meet social crises with any degree of satisfaction, they must reorganize the philosophy of their individual members.

This, declared Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, efficiency engineer of Montclair, N. J., in the "challenge" of today. She spoke last night at the Palmer house before some 1,000 Girl Scout leaders from the great lakes region.

This philosophical reorganization, she explained, was in actuality a long-time plan of individual readjustment. It would bring about a return to the old belief that "life is interesting and worthwhile" and a return to "straight economic thinking." It also would require physical adequacy, emotional serenity and social adjustment.

Aid in Depression Fight.

"It is the people with this philosophy who have best surmounted the depression, and it is the people without that philosophy who have suffered most," she said.

In economic thinking, she said, people should forget the platitude that the machine is the cause of all disaster. In the philosophy of physical adequacy, they should forget that it once was "the polite thing" to boast of fatigue. In that of social adjustment, they should be able "to feel a part and be a part of the picture all the time."

Record Regional Meeting.

Dr. Gilbreth's audience consisted of Scout executives from Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan, gathered in the largest regional conference held in the 23 years' history of girl scouting. Nine national staf members attended the meeting, which will continue through today.

Following Dr. Gilbreth's address, Mrs. William Chester of Milwaukee, Wis., and Miss Olive McCormick of New York City, national watercraft executive, launched a new "mariner" Scout program for the middle west. This will include training in navigation, watermanship, code signaling, and water safety.

DENOUNCES MOVE TO EASE CHANGES IN CONSTITUTION

Ex-Sen. Woods Cites Peril of Boss Control.

Former State Senator Roy C. Woods attacked yesterday the resolution now before the Illinois legislature which would permit the placement of proposed constitutional amendments on the general election ballot under the party headings.

Mr. Woods declared the arrangement would deposit the basic law of Illinois "in the laps of partisan political bosses." In 1929, with Congressman Michael L. Igoe, then a state senator, Mr. Woods led a successful fight against similar legislation.

Passage of the resolution by an inattentive state senate last Wednesday without debate recalled the overwhelming defeat of the same proposal when constitutional stalwarts opposed former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's effort to put it through six years ago. The present measure was introduced by Senator James C. Mayor [Dem., La Harpe] with the supposed support of Gov. Henry Horner. It passed the senate with a 36 to 2 vote. It now goes to the house.

Provisions of the Measure.

Under the Mayor proposal, amendments to the Illinois constitution or the call for a constitutional convention would be submitted to the state conventions of political parties after their approval by a two-thirds vote in each house of the general assembly. Upon approval by any one political party, the proposed amendment or convention call would then appear on the ballot in the next general election under the party heading. A mark in the party circle—a straight party ballot—would be counted for the amendment.

"There is no justice or legality in putting propositions for the revision of the state constitution on the party ballot," Mr. Woods said. "Any constitutional proposal should be presented to the electorate as a clear cut issue, not associated with any party leader, party platform, or party candidate."

Points Out Danger of Plan.

The former senator, renewing arguments that defeated the same measure in 1929, pointed out that a change in the basic law of the state could be accomplished through the personal popularity of a single candidate or the voting power of a political boss.

"This law would place the constitution of Illinois—and though it may be unwieldy, it is the best ever made—in the lap of the political bosses," he went on. "Every one knows that the crooked ballots are the straight party ballots. Floaters, graveyard voters, the robot voters of the political machines are the persons who scratch the party circle and rush to the next polling place. Under this law, the constitution would be the political football and plaything of this type of voter."

The Chicago Bar association, through its committee on law amendments, took cognizance of the Mayor resolution yesterday. Grover D. Rose, chairman of the committee, announced that the measure will be studied Monday by his group, which would report to the entire association.

Arguments for Amendment.

Proponents of the resolution argue that it is the only measure that will remove the present bars to wholesale changes in the constitution, which has withstood revision since 1908.

Under the existing constitution, only one amendment may be proposed by any one session of the general assembly. The other difficulty is the requirement that a constitutional amendment or convention call receive a majority of all votes cast for legislative office in the general election.

In 1929, in an effort to increase the total vote on amendments, these proposals were removed from the small ballot and placed in a separate column on the large, general election ballot. Despite this, constitutional change, plans failed to poll as much as half of the total vote.

In 1934 a constitutional convention proposal polled, both pro and con, only 43 per cent of the total vote. Only 39 per cent of the electorate expressed an opinion in 1932 on the "gateway amendment," which would have increased from one to three the number of amendments which a single session of the legislature might submit for referendum.

SEEK PROGRAM OF REFORM AT "LITTLE CAPITAL"

Clubs Get Advice on the Midway.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

What can we do to help Chicago?

The joint public affairs committee of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs made a visit to what is known as "Little Washington" on the University of Chicago campus yesterday seeking an answer to this question.

Prof. Charles E. Merriam, who met the committee at luncheon at International House, told them they had come to the right place, that the group of national governmental organizations gathered in headquarters at 850 East 58th street represented the most important experiment in building sound public administration in the history of this country, that in its technicians and files it had the greatest repository of practical information on state and city government that could be found in the world.

City Manager Plan Suggested.

The committee hopes through affiliation with other organizations, such as the Union League club and the Chicago Association of Commerce, to become a real force in the community, with a definite program, but so far nothing has been decided upon. The only suggestion made to the committee members yesterday was that they espouse one main objective, such as the city managership plan.

The Rotary club, which was represented by Nathaniel Leverone, who also represented the Interfraternity club, has already decided to work for permanent registration and for driver's license bills as two needed reforms. The Lions' club was represented by George F. Killinger, and the Kiwanis club by Daniel S. Wentworth.

Charles S. Ascher, secretary of the Public Administration Clearing House, which serves as an agency for the 17 organizations, led the discussion and presented several members of the house of "Little Washington," including Clifford W. Ham, field director of the American Municipal association, and Clarence E. Ridley, executive director of the International City Managers' association.

Group Organized for Service.

It was made plain to the club men that the Midway groups have nothing to sell, but are organized for service. They are not a part of the University of Chicago, but work in close harmony with the political science and other departments.

The American Public Welfare association, one of the group, has had an important part to play in the relief program of the government and this year has got ten states to set up permanent welfare departments. Its aim is to put this work on a scientific basis.

The American Legislators' association has just completed a study of conflicting tax laws, which will be made available to all legislators. The American Society of Municipal Engineers has just concluded a report on the operation of the new public works projects, which will be made public tomorrow. This calls for a permanent federal department of public works, with a decentralization of project authority, giving cities and states the actual operation of the jobs, with Washington in a reviewing capacity.

Furnish Experts for Jobs.

The legislative and municipal groups keep in close daily contact with affairs of city and state, so that they at all times can give a national picture of what is going on in subjects of major interest. They furnish experts for special jobs on request and are active in the field from coast to coast.

The organizations represented besides those mentioned are the American Society of Planning Officials, the Civil Service assembly, the Council of State Governments, the Governmental Research association, the Institute of Municipal Law officers, the International Association of Public Works Officials, Municipal Finance Officers associations, National Association of Housing Officials, Tax Assessing Officers, Public Administration Service and United States Conference of Mayors.

Artist Lavalle's Daughter Fifth Victim of Blaze

Boston, Mass., May 10.—(AP)—Mary Lavalle, 12 year old daughter of John Lavalle, noted portrait painter, died today of burns suffered last Tuesday when flames swept the family's Back Bay home. Her death brought to five the tool taken by the fire. Others who perished in the fire were Mrs. John Lavalle Sr., the artist's mother, who was a sister of Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of a former Massachusetts governor; another daughter, Alice, 14; Miss Mary Dolan, 24, and Miss Kathleen Costello, 25, maids in the Lavalle home.

ALLOT ILLINOIS DELEGATES FOR G. O. P. MEETING

Cook County to Have 182 of State's 405 Total.

Methods of picking Illinois delegates for the "grassroots" conference of Republicans from nine prairie states at Springfield, shrine of Lincoln, on June 10 and 11, were taken up yesterday by the Illinois signers of the call for the meeting. A general policy was agreed upon that the allotment of 405 delegate votes given to Illinois, on the basis of 15 votes for each representative in congress, be divided as follows: Cook county, 182; Lake county, 7; the remaining 100 counties, 186; at large, 30.

To make the delegation as wide a cross section of Republican sentiment as possible, it was agreed that a far larger number of delegates than the actual delegation vote should be picked. As many persons as the various counties present, within reason, are to be named delegates. They will then have fractional votes, in ratio to the allotted delegate vote in their areas.

Those at Meeting.

The meeting of Illinois signers was held in the office of Noble B. Judah. It was attended by Mr. Judah, Frank L. Smith, national committeeman; Justus L. Johnson, state chairman; E. A. Hayes of Decatur, former national commander of the American Legion, and Jacob D. Allen.

Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa, national committeeman, who is chairman of the group from the nine prairie states which called the conference, has named Mr. Allen to take charge of the preconference details at Springfield and be secretary of the Illinois group.

A call is being prepared which will go out to all county committee officers and to state committeemen and to young Republican clubs asking full coöperation in making the delegations thoroughly representative of all elements. The group is to meet in Chicago again Monday.

Plan Lincoln Pilgrimage.

The young Republican organizations are to arrange for a program on the Sunday before the conference which will include a pilgrimage to Abraham Lincoln's home at Old Salem and to the Lincoln homestead in Springfield.

Registration for the conference is to open in Springfield the Saturday before the meeting. On the opening day, after the conference has been organized, it is planned to adjourn to the Lincoln tomb for appropriate ceremonies. The conference will reconvene later that afternoon.

To expedite affairs, the Illinois signers expect next week to appoint five Illinois members to each of four committees—resolutions, credentials, temporary organization, and permanent organization. Three members of each of these groups of five will be from downstate, two from Cook county.

Other states to be represented at the conference, which was first suggested by State Chairman Johnson, are Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Indiana, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Permanent Register Bill Urged.

by Joseph P. Artman, who ran against Ald. James J. Cusack Jr. in the Fifth ward at the last aldermanic election, are pending before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

Election officials, accused of making false canvasses of ballots cast and other irregularities, are tried on contempt charges before Judge Jarecki and the country judges who assist him from time to time. Rarely are those found guilty sentenced to more than one year in the county jail.

Seeks Men Behind Scenes.

"In a few cases I have imposed sentences of two years, but usually a one year fine is the maximum," Judge Jarecki said yesterday. "This is because I am anxious to get the people often responsible for the actions of the poll workers. But that is difficult and, although we sometimes get a line on those responsible they go into hiding and we can't get service on them."

Conviction in the Criminal court often results in heavier penalties than in the County court. In the former court the charge is not contempt, but usually alteration of ballots.

In a few instances election workers have been convicted in the County court and then were later tried and received additional sentences in the Criminal court.

Paroler Robs Benefactor's House; Gets Year in Jail

Arthur Cournoyer, 25 years old, who stole a dozen shirts from the rooming house operated by Mrs. Anna Miller, 1633 Jackson boulevard, who was instrumental in his being paroled from San Quentin prison in California two years ago, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Mathew Hartigan in felony court to serve a year in the Bridewell—one month for each of the purloined shirts. After Cournoyer had served 18 months in prison and was eligible for parole, Mrs. Miller asked California authorities that he be paroled to her. This was done and Cournoyer was given a job as handy man in her rooming house. He proved to be too handy.

MOTORS STOLEN FROM CLOSED PLANT.
Officials of the closed Lincoln Boyle Ice company, 4722 Ravenswood avenue, reported to the Damen avenue police yesterday that six electric motors valued at $12,000 had been stolen from the plant.

PREDICT DELAY TODAY IN BENCH SLATE MAKING

Conventions to Adjourn Until Next Week.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Permanent registration of voters and the judicial conventions set for today to name candidates for the July 1 bench election, were subjects of caucuses and conferences yesterday.

Announcement last night was that the Democratic and Republican county conventions, which meet today to nominate twenty-one judges of the Superior court of Cook county, will adjourn until Wednesday.

Negotiations over a Superior court slate between Democrats and Republicans reached no decision. The Democratic organization insists that it two or three of the present Republican Superior court judges are to be dropped from the combination slate, the move must come from the Republicans.

These May Be Omitted.

There has been talk of leaving off the ticket Judges David M. Brothers, Marcus A. Kavanagh and Harry A. Lewis, Republicans. Other Republican judges are tentatively slated for renomination, and all the Democratic sitting judges are to be on the ticket. The last day for nominations is next Wednesday.

The Supreme court conventions will name a candidate for the vacancy caused by the death of the late Justice Frederic R. De Young. This is the last day for action. The Democrats in a caucus at the Morrison hotel last night selected Circuit Judge Francis S. Wilson, a member of their party, for the place. The Republicans decided to recess their convention this morning until afternoon.

Will Continue Filibuster.

On the question of the permanent registration bill now pending at Springfield, some of the Cook county Republican members of the Illinois house of representatives, in informal conferences, determined that the filibuster started last week, will continue unabated until the house elections committee reports out the bill.

The house is tied up tighter than a drum, with the filibuster and with the new style tandem voting on the 3 per cent sales tax bill on which the house has already taken three roll call bites at the apple.

Tuesday another hearing is to be given the registration bill and plans are being made for a demostration of support by the Illinois League of Women Voters, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and kindred civic agencies.

Some of the Democratic members of the house are saying that if the Cook county organization under P. A. Nash is against the bill it ought to make its reasons public and the measure should be put on the calendar to be voted up or down.

GIRL, 3, STUMBLES DOWN AIR SHAFT AND STICKS THERE

In the course of cleaning her house at 1616 Brookside avenue, Waukegan, yesterday, Mrs. Morris M. Thompson lifted the cover from the cold air ventilating shaft in the hallway and took it outside for dusting.

A moment or so later she heard a scream. Her little daughter, Joan, 3 years old, had come into the hallway and tumbled down the shaft to the basement level. Mr. Thompson called neighbors. A rope was lowered, but the little girl couldn't hold on.

A fire alarm was turned in and a truck company appeared, also Police Lieutenant Virgil Stewart with a squad. After looking the situation over Lieut. Stewart and his men went to the basement, tore out the shaft and freed Joan, frightened, dusty, but safe.

She had been imprisoned about half an hour.

HORNER ORDERS ELEVATED ROAD PLANS PREPARED

Highway Northwest from Loop Considered.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner this afternoon directed State Highway Engineer Lieberman to prepare preliminary plans for an elevated highway northwest from Chicago's loop.

Charles E. De Leuw, assistant state engineer who last year made similar plans for an elevated highway west from the loop in Randolph street, estimated that it would require from four to six weeks to complete the study on the northwest job in the form that might be used in an application for a federal grant for the project.

Local civic and political groups in the northwest side of Chicago have become active advocates for a modern trafic connection with the central business district. At the same time, local improvement associations directly west of the loop have become active opponents to an elevated highway through their district.

Relief Needed West.

Trafic surveys have indicated that the need for relief from the dangers and delays of surface street travel in Chicago are most acute directly west from the loop, but that the needs are almost as great to the northwest. With the west side in bitter dispute as to the type of design and the specific routing, the door has been opened for the northwest side to get the first elevated highway in Chicago.

Furthermore, strongly organized property owners and local business men immediately west and southwest of the loop have become militant in urging construction of some wide surface level pavement development, probably in Congress street, that might tend to enhance realty values through a slum area.

If the Congress street group are successful in their campaign, there would be a degree of benefit to trafic entering the loop from the west. The northwest side would then become the logical direction to extend a facility for rapid and safe motor travel.

Diagonal Streets Narrow.

The northwestern corner of Chicago is without any satisfactory direct route to the central business district. The existing diagonal streets are narrow, are occupied by street car tracks, and are congested by parking and by shoppers in local retail centers.

Most of the motorists making the trip to and from the loop detour via the lake front boulevard, going several miles farther than would be necessary over a direct route. These motorists include not only the residents of this section of the city who work in the loop, but also the trafic from a number of federal and state highways that merge in the northwest corner of the city.

It was with these things in mind that Gov. Horner ordered the preliminary survey for the northwestern elevated highway. It does not mean that he is committed to the project. No scheme for financing the construction has been determined and the governor recognizes Mayor Kelly's rights in deciding upon any major improvement in Chicago.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

DIES OF INJURIES AFTER JUMP ON MOVING TRUCK

James Fennell, 40 years old, 2424 Arthington street, died in the county hospital yesterday of injuries incurred April 23, when he fell while trying to jump on a moving truck at Van Buren street and Western avenue. His ankle was fractured and infection set in. The driver, Chris Iverson, 31 years old, 3209 North Keating avenue, was notified to appear at the inquest this morning.

This death and one other brought the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 322. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 264 persons had been killed within the city limits of Chicago and 5,284 had been injured. The other victim yesterday:

William Dice, 60 years old, 5905 Indiana avenue, colored. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered May 2, when he was struck by an automobile at 55th street and Prairie avenue.

GEM SALESMAN FIGHTS 2; SAVES $40,000 DIAMONDS

Ralph Lewis, a jewelry salesman for S. C. Powell, 2 West 46th street, New York, yesterday fought off two robbers and saved $40,000 in uncut diamonds. Lewis had just left the office of S. Lazard & Sons in the Pure Oil building, 35 East Wacker drive, when two men, one with a pistol, held him up in Wabash avenue. He fought them, falling to the walk and cutting his head during the struggle. The two robbers escaped in an automobile with two confederates. Some of the diamonds, which Lewis was carrying in a lether pouch in an inside pocket, fell to the sidewalk but were recovered.

BRITISH KING AND QUEEN DRIVE OUT AMONG THE FOLKS

Surprise Subjects Living in Poorer Districts.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—King George V. and Queen Mary gave some of their loyal subjects a surprise today by driving around the poorer districts of South London on a royal jubilee tour.

The excursion was entirely unannounced, and there was an escort of only two police cars. The royal car stopped for trafic lights like any other and at some crossings was mobbed by cheering crowds, for wherever they went the sovereign and his consort were recognized.

The districts visited were Battersea, Lambeth, and Wandsworth.

Women Stop Marketing.

Women rushed from their marketing and shopkeepers deserted their counters to cheer the king as he drove slowly by.

Tomorrow the royal couple will undertake the first of four Saturday ceremonial drives around London, at which they will receive the homage of the local mayors. Tomorrow's drive will be around Marylebone and North Central borough.

The first of the distinguished overseas visitors left today. It was R. B. Bennett, Canadian prime minister, who is returning to the dominion to mend his political fences. It is rumored that he will get a peerage in the jubilee honors.

500 Women "Gun" for Prince.

CARDIFF, Wales, May 10.—(AP)—Another side of the royal jubilee picture was given tonight by 500 women, many with babies in their arms, who marched singing over the rugged mountains of Wales en route here to stage a protest demonstration before the prince of Wales tomorrow.

They will complain against the expenditure of the nation's money for armaments and insist that money collected for the king's jubilee fund be used to aid the unemployed and in maternity and child welfare work.

Irish Ban Jubilee Movies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 10.—No films of the celebrations in connection with King George's jubilee will be shown in the Irish Free State. Movie theater managers fear attacks by Republicans, as in the case of the royal wedding films when the duke of Kent, son of the king, married Princess Marina of Greece. The Republican Safety committee last night posted a proclamation warning against showing jubilee films. It was torn down by police.

CAROL OBSERVES NATION'S LIBERTY DAY MINUS MAGDA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 10.—(AP)—King Carol and Crown Prince Michael today were central figures in Rumania's nation-wide celebration of the fifth anniversary of Carol's reaccession to the throne and the 35th anniversary of Rumanian freedom from Turkish domination.

Dressed as a field marshal, brilliant with decorations and bright-hued sashes and carrying a gold baton, the king sat for three hours on a magnificent white charger reviewing a monster military parade on the Cotroceni aviation field. He drew only scant applause, however, as he rode in front of an estimated 50,000 spectators.

Magda Lupescu, the king's red-haired Jewish mistress, was nowhere to be seen and her nonappearance evoked widespread comment. The 13 year old crown prince, now as tall as his father, was dressed as a cadet of the military academy. He was more generally applauded than the king.

LAVAL GETS COOL RECEPTION FROM POLISH REGIME

No Public Welcome for French Foreign Chief.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, May 10.—Looking bewildered, but grinning broadly, Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, arrived here tonight on a goodwill mission accompanied by twenty-six French newspapermen who immediately dashed for telephones to inform the Paris press of the strange welcome accorded the French representative.

No Pole showed up at the Berlin railroad station to greet Laval in the German capital, although the Soviet Russian and French ambassadors paid their respects. No foreign office representative met the visitors at the Polish frontier. And before the train arrived in Warsaw the section containing the French delegation was removed and shunted into a suburban station where Polish peasans, clad in sheepskin jackets, mingled with silk hatted Polish diplomats on the station platform.

Welcomed by Beck.

Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, mildly reflected Laval's dazzling smile in welcoming him to Warsaw, and, the hasty introductions concluded, they drove to the hotel in an open car surrounded by a heavy police guard. There was not the slightest evidence of a public welcome. It was, indeed, the strangest welcome ever accorded a foreign minister here.

The main Warsaw station was jammed with a crowd wishing for a glimpse of the famous visitor. There was general disappointment when the train arrived minus the French section.

The Poles had taken every precaution for the protection of their guest, and the square of the station where the train arrived was cleared by police. Polish officials did not say where these measures were for Laval's safety or to prevent any welcoming demonstration. A small crowd awaiting Laval's arrival at the hotel cheered the Frenchman, but were quickly dispersed by police.

Conferences Today.

No speeches were made at tonight's dinner at which Foreign Minister Beck was host. The serious talks will begin tomorrow when Laval begins the difficult task of explaining just how the Franco-Polish entente can fit into the scheme of the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact.

When the late Louis Barthou, as French foreign minister, arrived in Warsaw thirteen months ago, he demanded to know the inside story of the Polish-German ten year nonaggression treaty. Tday the situation is reversed, and the Poles will demand to know how and where France can expect aid from the Russians in the event of a conflict with Germany without the bolsheviks violating Polish territory.

Another matter which Laval will be asked to explain is the reason for the French and Russian meddling in Baltic affairs and the reason why these new allies should consistently help Lithuania maintain her unofficial state of war with Poland over Vilna.

The Polish government failed to issue a bulletin concerning Marshal Josef Pilsudski's illness which was hinted to be of a "diplomatic" character. However, the fact that Pilsudski is too ill to see Laval is regarded here as an event equalling in importance Laval's visit, and the atmosphere in Warsaw is charged with apprehension.

THREE ACQUITTED OF CONSPIRACY IN 1933 FAIR STRIKE

Two union officials and the secretary of an employers' association, on trial on charges of conspiracy growing out of a strike during the building of A Century of Progress in January, 1933, were found not guilty yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Cornelius J. Harrington after only five minutes' deliberation.

The state charged that the defendants, James Close, business agent of the Sheet Metal Workers' union; Charles West, assistant business agent, and Fred Ponchot, secretary of the Associated Sheet Metal Employers' association, called the strike in an effort to force contractors into the association.

James M. Burke, defense attorney, through the testimony of witnesses brought out that the strike was the outgrowth of a jurisdictional dispute between the sheet metal workers and the ironworkers.

KELLY IS FETED BY MOVIE FOLK IN CALIFORNIA

Hollywood, Cal., May 10.—[Special.]—Returning to Chicago after a vacation trip that took him to Honolulu, Mayor Edward J. Kelly stopped off here today and was entertained by motion picture producers and actors. With Mayor Kelly were Mrs. Kelly and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and his wife.

After a round of visits to various studios, Mayor Kelly and his party were guests of honor at a dinner dance and vaudeville program tonight, given on the sound stage of the M-G-M studio.

In discussing the relief situation deadlock in Illinois, Mayor Kelly expressed his opinion that "the legislature was at fault. The relief situation ought to be settled without further loss of time."

WORLD MOVE TO OUST JEWS SEEN AT 'ZION' TRIAL

Prosecution Charges Nazi Heads Plan.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 10.—(AP)—Attorneys began final arguments today at the conclusion of 10 days of testimony in the "protocols of Zion" case by which Jewry hopes to prove false the documents alleging it planned to dominate the world.

Confiscation of the protocols and punishment of two of five Swiss Nazis charged with circulating them was demanded by the prosecution.

George Brunschwig, in summing up for the prosecution, accused Ulrich Fleischauer, expert Nazi witness for the defense, of heading a secret world-wide lodge "teaching anti-Semitism and seeking to destroy liberty and democracy."

The lawyer asserted the Nazi was grand master of the "Pan-Aryan" lodge with headquarters at Erfurt, Germany, and was actively engaged in spreading "vicious world-wide propaganda."

Open Anti-Jewish World Parley.

NUREMBERG, Germany, May 10.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Anti-Jewish World league convention which opened today announced it had American representation, but declined to divulge the names of these board members.

Julius Streicher, leading Nazi "Jew baiter," apparently not content with his anti-Semitic successes in Germany, today pressed the slogan 'Anti-Semites of the World, Unite."

"It is Germany's mission to fight the world's Jewry," Streicher said in an address. "From the German people will emerge a development which will bring peace and liberty to mankind."

Two Berlin Cabarets Closed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLN, May 10.—"The new Germany will not tolerate its measures and institutes being ridiculed by and before Jews," the propaganda ministry proclaimed tonight in announcing the closing of Tingeltangel and Katakombe, two of Berlin's most popular cabarets.

Both cabarets were patronized chiefly by Jews and anti-Nazis, it was asserted. Several of the performers also were Jews. The latter are accused of "maliciously ridiculing" Nazi aims and endeavors.

POLICEMEN PLAY UNIQUE GAME OF HARE AND HOUNDS

Miss Audrey Mair, 24 years old, ran to the front doorway of the delicatessen store in which she works at 1010 East 43d street yesterday and screamed shrilly:

"Help! Police! Burglars!"

To be exact, there was one "burglar," fleeing down the street, after having taken some $35 in coins from the store.

Hyde Park police arrived promptly.

"Look," said Policeman Erskine Hill, "There's a quarter."

"And there's a dime," went on Policeman Frank Guy.

In fact, there was a trail of coins which the robber had dropped in his flight. Following the lucrative path the policemen went down the street, around a corner, up an alley, and to the third floor of 4219 Ellis avenue.

There they found John Learry, 30 years old, a pistol and the remainder of the money. Learry confessed the crime.

Faces Murder Charge

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Frederick Gross, 49, mild mannered bookkeeper for a Manhattan drug importing firm, will be charged with murder in connection with the mysterious deaths of his wife and four of his five small children during the last six weeks, District Attorney William F. X. Goeghan of Brooklyn announced this afternoon.

A spectroscopic examination by an autopsy physician, used for the first time in a criminal case, showed the presence of a deadly poison in the bodies.

Mrs. Katherine Gross, 38; Frederick Jr., 9; Katherine, 7; Leo, 3; and Barbara, 18 months old, are dead. Frank Gross, 5, is in serious condition in Kingston Ave. hospital and Gross' mother-in-law, Mrs. Olga Bein, 67, is a patient in Bushwick Ave. hospital.

"They tell me it looks bad for me, but I'm not afraid; I've done nothing," Gross said.

TWO WOUNDED AS POLICE FIRE ON BANDIT TRIO

A bandit, who with two companions had just robbed two gasoline stations and kidnaped the attendant in one of them, was captured by a police squad early today at Western avenue and Montana street after he had been seriously wounded. A short time later a second man, believed to have been one of the bandit trio, appeared at the county hospital and asked that a bullet wound in his side be treated.

The man captured is Henry Kaup, about 22 years old, 3215 Armitage avenue. His condition, according to physicians at the Bridewell hospital, was critical. The suspect is Tony Uras, 21 years old, 1306 Holt street.

Halting in the Waggoner station at Montrose and Sacramento avenues, the robbers forced the attendant, Theodore Hausser, to give up $6. They then drove away. Hausser reported the license number on their car to the police. Shortly afterward the band kidnaped Fred H. Riester, attendant in a station at 2814 North Western avenue. They were driving away with him when the squad of Sergt. Frank Shea recognized the car and started the pursuit. At Montana street Kaup's companions abandoned the car and fled, leaving him and the captive Riester to the police. The car was stolen in the robbery of a garage at 2855 North Kedzie avenue early yesterday.

MRS. COREY GIVES IL DUCE $8,500 NAPOLEONIC CASE

ROME, May 10.—(AP)—A magnificent traveling case originally made for Napoleon was presented to Benito Mussolini today by Mrs. William Corey, formerly the American actress Mabelle Gilman.

The case, made of tortoise shell and containing several silver-backed brushes, is valued at 100,000 lire [about $8,500]. Il Duce indicated he would place it in the Napoleonic museum in Rome which contains hundreds of objects associated with the life of one of Il Duce's heroes.

ETHIOPIA MASSES TROOPS FOR WAR, ITALY CHARGES

Claims German Factories Supply Arms.

ROME, May 10.—(AP)—Apparently officially inspired charges that Emperor Haile Selassie is massing thousands of his desert warriors in an offensive mobilization against Italy were hurled today in Italy's quarrel with Ethiopia.

The authoritative newspaper Giornale D'Italia in making the charges also said great quantities of munitions and the latest tools of scientific warfare — including anti-aircraft batteries, tanks and airplanes —have been shipped to Ethiopia by German factories.

Indicating the seriousness with which this country views the situation was the fact that today's newspapers devoted three-fourths of their pages to it.

Protest War Shipments.

Emperior Haile Selassie, the Giornale D'Italia declared, has just visited a strategic concentration point commanding caravan and rail routes into Ethiopia. It adds that the troops are being collected at points most favorable for an invasion.

The newspaper said Italy has called to the attention of certain European countries that their factories are sending war supplies to Ethiopia and that some promised to "control" the shipments.

A report to the chamber of deputies on the budget for foreign affairs confirmed Italy's determination to use force if "precautionary" measures in Africa fail.

500 More Italians Sail.

VENICE, Italy, May 10.—(AP)—The SS. Conte Verde sailed for East Africa today with 500 Italian workmen and a quantity of war supplies.

Ethiopia Delays Mobilization.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, May 10.—(AP)—A government spokesman said today Emperor Haile Selassie will mobilize his troops when and if Italy's East African forces advance—and not before. The mentality of the Ethiopian soldier is such, the official source said, that if mobilized he would not remain inactive, but insist upon fighting.

The spokesman said Ethiopians consider Italy's military move a trap designed to provoke Ethiopian mobilization. If such should occur, he added, Emperor Selassie's warriors should be quick to accuse their officers of cowardice if they were not thrown quickly into battle.

HULA DANCING, 'FIGHTS' FEATURE 'LADIES' SMOKER'

Milford, Conn., May 10.—(AP)—The daughters of Eve had their fling tonight at a good old fashioned "ladies' smoker," with never a man to disturb them as they watched a boxing bout between members of their own sex, fencing exhibitions, and a hula dance.

It was the occasion of the annual "blow-out," by the Young Women's Republican club of Milford—the first at which all males were barred.

A policewoman stood guard over the Adamless Eden in the Fowler Memorial building. Fifteen acts were presented in a cloud of smoke. "Battling Smith" met "Fire-eating Roland" in the squared circle and there was a "Barnacle Bill" act, vocal selections by the "Smoke Quintuplets," and a "Smoke dance."

A good time was had by all.

O. K.'S EXCHANGE OF PRAYERS FOR $5,225 CONTRACT

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 10.—(AP)—The exchange of prayers in payment for $5,225 worth of architectural work was upheld today by Lord Justice Andrews in the Northern Ireland Court of Appeals.

In a case believed unparalleled, Thomas J. O'Neil of Ballycastle, County Antrim, claimed the sum from Canon Murphy for work on the new Ballycastle convent. The defense contended there was an agreement whereby O'Neil did the work in return for prayers to be offered in his behalf by the Cross and Passion order of Balycastle. O'Neil claimed he had been unduly influenced by Canon Murphy. Lord Justice Andrews gave judgment for the defendant.

CANAL CONSTRUCTION BEGINS

WORK STARTED ON FINAL STAGE OF GULF CANAL

Provide Direct Barge Route to Gary.

With ceremonies at an excavating machine on the banks of the Sag canal at Crawford avenue, operations began yesterday on the first of a series of projects comprising the $20,000,000 program to complete the final stage of the lakes to gulf waterway. Widening of the canal and extensive improvements in the Grand and Little Calumet rivers, Lake Calumet, Calumet harbor, and the Chicago Sanitary and Ship canal, will be a part of this program.

When completed a direct barge route will be opened into the heart of the area from South Chicago to Gary, where many heavy industries are concentrated. Raw materials can flow in and manufactured products float out without passing through the tortuous and limited channel of the sanitary canal within the Chicago city limits and then out into Lake Michigan.

Dredge for Passing Places.

The job begun yesterday was the dredging of the first of three passing places in the Sag canal. A passing place along the canal serves the same purpose as a switch track on a single track railroad. It opens the canal to two way trafic. All three of the passing places are to add 90 feet to the 60 foot width of the canal.

Contracts for construction of all three were won by the Morrison-Knudsen company of Boise, Idaho, one of the Boulder dam contractors. The bid was $703,000, and the funds were provided by a Public Works administration grant.

$200,000 Worth of Machinery.

The excavator at which yesterday's ceremonies were held is the largest single piece among $200,000 worth of dredging and drilling machinery assembled on the canal bank. The excavator, termed by the engineers on the job a "drag line," has a boom 165 feet in length and operates a bucket with a capacity of eight cubic yards.

At the ceremonies were Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], who was representing Mayor Kelly; Lieut. Col. Donald H. Connolly, chief of army engineers in the Chicago district, and nearly 100 aldermen and judges from Chicago and officials of suburban towns.

Herbert Powers Kaumeyer (It's Herbie Kay) Is Wed

Herbert Powers Kaumeyer, 31 years old, and Miss Dorothy Slaton, 20 years old, both of Chicago, were married at 2 a. m. yesterday by Justice of the Peace Michael J. Haney of Waukegan. Kaumeyer is Herbie Kay, orchestra leader, who recently completed an engagement at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Following the ceremony, which was witnessed by Roswell W. Metzger, personal manager of Kaumeyer, and Mrs. Metzger, the newly wedded couple left for a short trip.

WOMAN BALKS "L" ROBBER.

A gunman stepped up to the ticket window at the Oakley avenue station of the Lake street elevated division yesterday and commanded Mrs. Belle Hartley, 830 South East avenue, Oak Park, to hand over her money. Mrs. Hartley delayed obeying until she heard a train pull into the station. The robber then fled without loot.

BYRD IS WELCOMED TO CAPITAL AFTER YEAR IN ANTARCTIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A thirteen gun salute from the Washington navy yard late today officially ended the second American conquest of the Antarctic ocean.

As the echo of the salute died, the President of the United States made his way up the gang plank of the wooden steamer, Bear of Oakland, to greet Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

The President was followed by Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, Gov. George C. Perry of Virginia, and a host of navy and Washington officialdom.

From out the welcoming group stepped the explorer's mother, Mrs. Richard E. Byrd Sr. of Winchester, Va. A kiss marked their first meeting since he sailed from Norfolk, Va., in October of 1933. With his mother was Byrd's wife, who greeted her husband in Panama several weeks ago.

RADIATOR DEVIL LEADS POLICE TO FOUR SUSPECTS

A bright green roadster with a jaunty figure of a devil as a radiator cap led yesterday to the capture of two men and two women. One of the men was identified in a $300 holdup of a delicatessen store a few hours earlier, and one of the women is now on probation from a charge of receiving stolen property.

The prisoners, held at the Stockyards police station, are Mrs. Josephine Craver, in whose house at 5213 South Halsted street the four were captured; George Frazer, 23 years old, who gave the same address; Joseph Doss, 6438 South Peoria street, and Judith Duell, 21 years old, 6240 South Sangamon street.

Witnesses who saw three men flee after robbing the delicatessen store of Mrs. Agnes Niziol, 1116 West 51st street, described the car and the unusual radiator decoration to police. A few hours later the squad of Sergt. Joseph Morrison saw the car in front of Mrs. Craver's home and the arrests followed.

Frazer, an ex-convict, was identified by Mrs. Niziol. Mrs. Craver, whose husband is now in the penitentiary, was put on probation six weeks ago when loot from several robberies was found in her home.

Soviet Holdup Gang Head and 7 Aids Sentenced to Die

ROSTOV-ON-DON, U. S. S. R., May 10.—(AP)—Alexander Udin, head of a gang of bandits that staged a daring series of downtown holdups, today was sentenced to death with seven of his followers. Nineteen others, including a woman at whose home the bandits met to divide their loot, were given prison terms. Execution of four other bandits at Novosibirsk, Siberia, and two at Moscow was announced yesterday.

PASTOR TO NOTE 40 YEARS IN ONE PULPIT JUNE 9

Preparations are going forward for the observance on Sunday, June 9, of the 40th anniversary of the pastorate at Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 South Michigan avenue, of the Rev. Dr. Johnston Myers. The same day will mark also Dr. Myers' golden jubilee as a Baptist minister.

The members of the Ninth Street Baptist church, Cincinnati, where Dr. Myers began his ministry just 50 years ago, will participate in the observance.

Dr. Myers, who has been absent from his pulpit for several months because of illness, will be present for the celebration. Several months ago Dr. Myers announced his resignation to take effect coincidentally with his anniversary celebration in June.

What will be done toward getting a successor for Dr. Myers could not be learned yesterday. Similarly there was no comment as to the fate of the famous "bread line" which Dr. Myers has maintained without cessation for the last 40 years at old Immanuel.

World Flower Show Tulip Named 'Eleanor Roosevelt'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, May 10.—"Eleanor Roosevelt" was the name bestowed on a new tulip exhibited at the world flower show which opened at Heemstede, near Haarlem, today. The exhibition was admired by Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and Queen Astrid of the Belgians.

SECOND BREMER CONSPIRATOR TO PLEAD HIS GUILT

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(AP)—Elmer Farmer, former Bensenville, Ill., tavern keeper under indictment as one of the actual kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, will plead guilty to the conspiracy charge for which he is on trial with Arthur [Doc] Barker and six others, Thomas W. McMeekin, his attorney, announced tonight.

McMeekin said Farmer's plea will be entered as soon as the defense rests its case, probably next Monday or Tuesday.

Byron Bolton of Chicago previously had pleaded guilty, his sentence to life imprisonment being discretionary with the court. Bolton also was indicted as an actual kidnaper.

A confession by Farmer already has been put in the trial record. He identified members of the gang as the kidnapers of Bremer, told his part in arranging for the detention of Bremer in the home of Harold Alderton at Bensenville, and said he performed contact services for the gang while Bremer was a captive there.

McMeekin's announcement was made at the conclusion of today's session, when John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, 68 year old former Illinois legislator, left the witness stand after testifying in his own behalf. He admitted "handling" $57,000 of the $200,000 ransom paid for Bremer's release, asserting that Philip Delaney and William Vidler, both of Chicago, and also defendants, helped him exchange the money at various banks.

Vidler and Delaney admitted handling money for the former political boss, but denied any exact knowledge of the nature of the funds they exchanged.

Vidler, completing testimony begun yesterday, admitted exchanging $30,000 of what the government claims was ransom money. He testified McLaughlin assured him "there was nothing wrong" with the money and that he was under the impression the politician had "cut in" on campaign funds.

Delaney admitted exchanging $24,000 given him by McLaughlin, but said he believed it was from a campaign fund and asserted that at no time were his suspicions aroused to the point where he thought it was "hot" money.

The defendant also disclaimed acquaintance with others, except McLaughlin and Vidler, charged by the government with complicity in the kidnaping.

Woman Cashier's Defiance Stops Loop Safe Robbery

Threatened with a revolver and struck in the face, Mrs. Virginia Lane, cashier of De Met's restaurant at 11 West Adams street, refused yesterday to open the safe for a robber who invaded the café shortly after the noon hour. The gunmen menaced 25 women customers and 14 employés while threatening Mrs. Lane, but in the face of her courage contented himself with escaping with $18 taken from the cash drawer.

CONVICT, GUARD SLAIN IN TEXAS PRISON ESCAPE

Huntsville, Tex., May 10.—(AP)—Two convicts and a guard were slain and half a dozen men were wounded in Texas penitentiary system disturbances within 18 hours after the electrocution of Raymond Hamilton and Joe Palmer today for killing a prison guard to escape.

Guard Vergil Welch and Jack Peddy, convict barber, were shot to death in a 4-man break at the Eastham prison farm — Peddy, authorities reported, falling before the gunfire of an officer after once shamming death so successfully possemen passed him by in the hunt for his three convict mates.

Tom Stevens, a guard, was wounded slightly and Homer Parker, convict turnkey, was shot four times by Peddy in a successful dash for the arsenal of the Eastham farm, scene of the fatal break of Hamilton and Palmer Jan. 16, 1934.

Ernest Young, serving a 50-year term for murder, later was stabbed to death, and four or more convicts were bruised severely in a gang fight of 100 men in the main penitentiary yard here.

Guards reported Peddy was dead when they first found his bloody form outside the Eastham farm; they were amazed, upon returning to the scene later, to find he had disappeared.

The situation cleared, Eastham officers reported by telephone, when a guard found Peddy near a clump of trees and shot him to death.

Hamilton and Palmer were executed for killing a guard in an escape engineered by Clyde Barrow, who covered their flight with a machine gun barrage.

DIES OF SKULL FRACTURE.

While distributing handbills at 1665 South Homan avenue yesterday, Paul Bowers, 40 years old, 940 West Madison street, fell and died immediately of a fracture of the skull.

UNION SUES UNION FOR $1,000,000 ON THREAT CHARGE

Suit for $1,000,000 in damages against the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local 134, headed by Michael J. Boyle, was filed in the United States District court yesterday by the law firm of Marcus & Corn, representing the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America, 700 South Wabash avenue.

Besides local 134 and its president the petition named seven other officials, members and employés as defendants. The petition named Joseph W. Hickey as president of the petitioning union, and charged "intimidation, interference and threats." Damages of $1,000 were asked for each of the thousand members claimed by the Hickey union. The petition charged that the Boyle union had tried to prevent members of the other organization from obtaining employment.

'CONFESSION' TALE BRINGS SEIZURE OF THE 'SHOWME'

Columbia, Mo., May 10.—(AP)—Six hundred copies of the May issue of the Showme, University of Missouri student humor magazine, were locked in the university safe today and Arthur K. Heckel, dean of men, warned that the magazine would be abolished permanently and disciplinary action taken against the editor unless it is "generally toned down."

Dean Heckel indicated no disciplinary action would be taken in this instance. He said the third instalment of a serial, "Confessions of a Co-ed," purportedly written by an anonymous girl student, was "particularly offensive."

Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, acting president of the university, ordered the seizure.

"The general tone of the magazine was such as would not represent the university," Dean Heckel said.

Hey DAD, why not make this a FUN day for guys who really know HOW to enjoy it? Take your boy to the ball game. Come to us for two great luncheons at noon . . . then out to watch the Sox play Boston . . . and you'll see gratitude in shining eyes . . . like you love to see.

PRIZE WINNERS NAMED IN $5,000 PUZZLE CONTEST

The 430 winners of THE TRIBUNE'S recent "Fathers of Our Country" crossword puzzle contest, together with the $5,000 list of cash awards, is published herewith.

Thousands of puzzle fans joined in the fun of making out these puzzles, the design of each of which was woven around the name of a well known American statesman, soldier, or explorer. So heavy were the returns in the competition that twice the usual time necessary to judge such a contest was needed to check and rate the literal avalanche of puzzle contributions.

Check Thousands of Entries.

After the judges had made this careful elimination, less than 3 per cent of the entries remained with a perfect count, and from these the neatest were selected as the winners.

The first prize of $1,000 was awarded to Miss Olive Riedy, 142 Center street, Naperville. The second prize, $500, went to Mrs. Orrin J. Kahl, 219 West Cleveland street, Freeport, Ill., and third place and the accompanying $250 cash prize was awarded to John J. Cuddy, 322 Washington boulevard, Oak Park.

FILIPINO TROOPS ACT TO NIP PLOT TO COW PLEBISCITE VOTERS

MANILA, May 11 [Saturday].—(AP)—Reports of an alleged plot to intimidate voters, especially women, who will exercise the ballot right next Tuesday for the first time, reached the Philippine constabulary today as it took extraordinary steps to maintain order in the forthcoming constitution plebiscite.

Reinforcements were concentrated in five provinces of southern Luzon Island, where the bloody Sakdalista uprising of May 2 centered.

Despite Sakdalista opposition to the commonwealth constitution which will be offered to the voters for ratification, advocates of the new government predicted an overwhelming victory.

Teofilo Sison, interior secretary, announced 2,000,000 persons had qualified for the plebiscite. He predicted the vote would total 1,500,000.

O. F. AKEN, COUNTY SCHOOL HEAD, IS GIVEN AN AUTO

Presentation Is Made at Annual Contest.

County Superintendent of Schools Otto F. Aken was presented with an automobile yesterday on the occasion of his 62d birthday. The keys to the car, which was purchased through the contributions of friends, teachers and superintendents in the county schools, were given to Mr. Aken at the annual choral and declamation contest of pupils from the 250 schools in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum.

Thirteen hundred children attended the contests, five hundred of them appearing on the program. Violet Hautau, of La Grange, won the first prize, a gold medal, in the declamation contest. Paul Clark, Homewood, took second place silver medal.

School Wins $25.

The Ontarioville school won $25 as first prize in the choral contest among rural one-room schools. A second prize of $15 went to the Palos school, district No. 117, and a prize of $10 was awarded the Strassburg school, No. 168.

In the choral contest among pupils of two and three room schools, Posen school, No. 143, won $25 and first honors; Justice Park school, No. 109, $15, and the Sunnyside school, No. 87, $10. A model airplane contest was won by Lawrence Reithmaier of Oak Forest.

Auto Valued at $1,200.

The automobile given to Mr. Aken is a Buick sedan, valued at $1,200. The presentation was made by Raymond Damron, superintendent of the Franklin Park school district. Afterward Mr. Damron explained that Mr. Aken's old car had been turned in on a trade and the rest of the purchase price, approximately $900, had been raised by contributions in the country schools and among Mr. Aken's friends. There were 600 contributors in the schools, Mr. Damron said.

In several county school districts the teachers have not been paid their full salaries during the last three years. At one time last winter it was necessary to close down several schools because no funds were available. These schools have now been reopened.

SAYS U. S. PAYS FOR TEACHING OF COMMUNISM

New York, May. 10.—[Special.]—The Federal Grand Jury association, whose membership embraces many men of prominence, including Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, has sent a letter of protest to the appropriations committee of the United States senate stating that it is in possession of convincing evidence that emergency relief funds have been used to pay adult students $8 a week to be taught communism and subversive doctrines.

"We understand that there were some 20,000 of such students in more than twenty schools for workers scattered throughout the country, and that the graduates were to become instructors and leaders in activities intended to bring about the overthrow of our government," the letter states.

The letter is signed by James H. Barnett, president of the association, and expresses the opinion that there should be no curtailment of free speech in this country, but that "we submit it is an absurdity [not to use stronger terms] for a government to supply funds to persons seeking to destroy it."

Among the subjects taught, on which particular stress was laid, according to the association, were: "How to fomen a strike," "How to take over the industries of the United States, specially the munitions plants," "How to bring about the general strike and then seize and operate the plants," and "How to overthrow the United States government and establish a soviet union."

U. of C. Entrance Requests Boom After 'Red Expose'

Roy W. Bixler, director of admissions at the University of Chicago, announced yesterday that since April 11 the number of persons filing applications for entrance in the university next fall was 549. In the similar period last year there were 435 applications. April 11 was the date of the announcement by Charles R. Walgreen that his niece, Lucille Norton, had been withdrawn from the university because she was exposed there to "communistic influences."

Institute Reports Progress in Fight on Tuberculosis

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A hopeful note in the war against tuberculosis being waged by the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute was sounded at the institute's annual meeting last night in the Chicago Woman's club. Mrs. Theodore B. Sachs, executive director, in her report of the year's work, told how tests conducted by the institute in Chicago high schools showed a low incidence of tuberculosis infection among the 'teen age children, an age particularly susceptible to the disease.

The work of tuberculin testing and examinations, started by the institute in February, 1933, has been continuous since then, except for vacation periods. A summary of findings for 13 months of actual work ending January, 1935, showed that in schools where 15,896 tests were made, only 30.8 per cent gave positive reactions, indicating the children then or once had tubercular infections. Negative reactions totaled 69.2 per cent.

4,000 Pupils Are X-rayed.

Approximately 4,000 pupils were X-rayed after showing positive reactions. Of these, 28 were found to have pulmonary tuberculosis, 14 were diagnosed as suspicious pulmonary tuberculosis, and 910 had childhood type tuberculosis.

In Cook county, Mrs. Sachs said, the institute operates in 18 communities, in 15 of which it is the only health agency. She pointed out that the only revenue which finances all of the health campaigns and programs of the institute is obtained from the annual sale of Christmas seals.

New Low Rate in State.

A new low death rate from tuberculosis in Illinois was reached in 1934, Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state health director, told the meeting. It was 52 per 100,000 population. During that year the number of state laboratory tests for tuberculosis increased 11 per cent, while in the first quarter of 1935 they have increased 18 per cent over a corresponding period for 1934.

Case reports for this year's first quarter number 693, compared to 644 for the same period in 1934. He attributed the increase to economic conditions.

Mrs. Harry Hart was reëlected president of the Institute.

VINCENT KERENS' EX-WIFE SEEKS ALIMONY BOOST

Mrs. Mae Linn Kerens Cassell of Dallas, Tex., asked Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday to increase to $500 a month the $150 support money payments of her divorced husband, Vincent Kerens, broker and son of Richard C. Kerens, St. Louis millionaire who died in 1916. Judge Desort set the hearing for June 21.

The payments were allowed for the support of their daughter, Mary, 11 years old, whose custody was awarded to the child's mother when she won her divorce here last July 14. On the same day Mrs. Kerens was married to Harold L. Cassell, advertising man, whose wife had divorced him earlier in the day.

In her petition, filed by Attorney M. Robert Sturman, Mrs. Cassell declares that her husband is to inherit about $2,000,000 from his father's estate provided he can lead a sober life for five years in succession. Recently, the petition says, Kerens entered into an agreement with his sisters, who had blocked his attempts to collect his inheritance, to waive his rights in the estate in return for a guaranteed income of $25,000 a year. Kerens is said to be traveling in Mexico.

ARMY DETAILS OBSERVER TO CITY AIRPORT

Capt. William H. Murchy of the army air corps has been detailed as an observer to the radio laboratory and inspection headquarters of the federal bureau of air commerce at Chicago airport, according to dispatches received here yesterday from Washington. Capt. Murchy formerly was on duty at the Air Corps Tactical school at Maxwell field, Ala.

Capt. Murchy's new assignment was given in accord with recommendations of President Roosevelt's aviation commission that the army's flying officers be given opportunities to familiarize themselves with administration and flying practices among the country's commercial airlines.

SKARDA FIGHTS POLITICS IN TAX RECEIVERSHIPS

Pushes Measure to End Exploitation.

Charges of real estate brokers that tax receiverships under the Skarda act have been made a political football in the county treasurer's office and the assertion of State Representative Edward Skarda at Springfield that a proposed amendment to the law would halt exploitations of these properties shed new light yesterday on the receivership situation in Cook county.

Certain members of the Chicago real estate board alleged that in the administration of the Skarda tax receiverships within the last few months, favors have been given to a privileged group of real estate agents. The protesting brokers, who would not allow their names to be used, said they had been summoned to the office of Assistant County Treasurer Horace Lindheimer and notified to purchase from designated companies their requirements for buildings they were managing under the Skarda act.

Hold 600 Parcels Under Law.

That act, which went into effect in 1932, provides that the county treasurer, upon application in the County court, shall be appointed receiver for any property delinquent in the payment of taxes and shall use the income to pay the taxes. The treasurer's office has set up a management for more than 600 of these properties and has deputized 102 agents to supervise them.

Lindheimer denied yesterday the charges of the brokers that he had ordered them to make purchases for the properties from favored concerns.

"Mr. Sweitzer [County Treasurer Robert Sweitzer] couldn't be blamed for doing a favor for a friend," said Lindheimer, "but there has been no privileged group of realty agents or supply firms."

"What of the charges that your assistants talked to some of the receivership managers privately and told them where to buy their requirements?" Lindheimer was asked.

Disavows Assistant's Acts.

"I don't know what every one of my assistants do," Lindheimer replied. "There may be instances of some of these assistants' suggesting to a realty agent where he should buy."

A real estate man on the south side said that one of Lindheimer's assistants had told him to buy all his coal for a receivership property from the Material Service corporation.

"That suggestion, of course, was an order," this realty man asserted, "and I obeyed it."

Lindheimer furnished a list of ten concerns which he said had been supplying coal for the buildings under his control. The brokers, however, alleged that two of these companies—the Material Service and the John J. Dunn Coal company—received nearly all of the business.

Gives Explanation at Meeting.

The brokers said that Lindheimer talked frankly of favored buyers at a meeting of the agents.

"We were told," one broker declared, "that certain concerns had contributed to the Democratic campaign fund and were entitled to something."

It was also alleged that it was "suggested" to the agents that they negotiate their insurance through the firm of Horan & O'Brien, 134 North La Salle street. Al Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court, and Martin O'Brien, former city controler, are members of this concern.

Lindheimer drew up a list of 27 bonding and casualty concerns which he said were given the insurance business. The firm of Horan & O'Brien was missing from this list. O'Brien, however, admitted that his company handled from 30 to 40 per cent of the insurance in force on the tax receivership buildings.

Skarda Hears Complaints.

Representative Skarda said that house bill 876, introduced on April 23, would amend the Skarda act so as to safeguard property owners against rackets.

"Hundreds of complaints have come to me from Chicago friends and real estate organizations," Skarda declared. "These complaints are that properties placed in county receivership are grossly mishandled by the management set up in the treasurer's office. Word comes to me that if the property is in the hands of a receiver for only one month, a $100 charge is made for receivership services.

"My amendment would provide that when a property owner is summoned into court and his property is being threatened with receivership for nonpayment of taxes, he might post a bond with the approval of the court for the amount of income and continue to manage his own property.

Cites Friends of Amendment.

"This would eliminate the canceling of insurance, ordering of coal and the making of all sorts of repairs. My bill has the endorsement of real estate boards and numerous civic organizations.

"Because the Skarda act bears my name, I am being held responsible for injustices to the taxpayers. People believe I profit through its operations. I decidedly do not."

Lindheimer said that he was not in favor of the amendment to the Skarda law. He contended that it would allow the properties to remain under the control of the delinquent taxpayers.

First Car of Watermelons Arrives in Market Here

The watermelons are here. A car of Tom Watsons, the first to reach Chicago this season, arrived from Fort Myers, Fla. They were considered of good quality and weighed about 30 pounds each. The melons were received by R. H. Deitz & Co., 37 South Water street. Shipments of Florida melons usually do not reach Chicago before May 15 or 20, though melons from Cuba are sometimes found on the markets here at an earlier date.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Want Goat? Hurry!

May 10, 1935.

Boys and girls who would like to own a cute little billy goat, a gift from THE TRIBUNE experimental farms, should get busy and write their letters right away, because no requests will be considered after next Wednesday. All you have to do in order to enter the contest is to write a letter, addressing it to this department, telling why you want the goat and assuring us of your ability to feed and care for him. Tell us how much space you have in your yard, how you would feed him, where you would quarter him, and any other knowledge of goats or pets you may have.

I was watching the goat yesterday as he was romping about the yard behind Carl Henderson's house. The kid, which is pure white, was playing circus, and was using three perfectly good automobiles and an old chair as equipment for his act. He charged out of the barn, then stopped quickly when he saw the old chair just outside the door. He took one short look at the chair, then for some unknown reason he jumped up on it, like a trained dog. He stood there for a moment, then ran over to Eddie Edwards' roadster, which was parked near the garage.

He jumped up on the running board, from there to the fender, and from there to the ground (after Eddie came up and chased him away). Then he decided it was time to use Carl's sedan for his act. He romped on and around it for a while, then turned his attention to another roadster which was in the garage.

There is no doubt that the boy or girl who wins the kid will have a lively companion on his hands!

One of the requirements of the contest is that the winner of the goat must call for it at the Wheaton experimental farm.

"My grandpa takes THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and I read that you have a kid goat to give away. I live on a 120 acre farm which has 20 acres of good pasture. We have a big barn with some empty stalls in it, so we would have plenty of room for the goat in the winter. My daddy raises corn, oats, wheat, sweet clover, lespedeza, and wild hay. I have a two year old hefer which I have taken care of myself. I have two sisters and one brother younger than myself who would enjoy playing with the goat. They could feed and water it if I got sick. I promise to take good care and not be mean to the goat if I win it."

On the Yorkville experimental farm Clarence Thurow, farm manager, and the boys are all ready to plant corn in the 80 acre field on the north side of the river. Meanwhile the women also are mighty busy these days because they are occupied with their vegetable gardens and the planting of flower seeds. Every family on the farm puts in a small vegetable garden to grow a few potatoes, melons, sweet corn, radishes, onions, etc. Mrs. Louis Thurow Sr. and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Louis Thurow Jr., also grow quite a few flowers every season, so they have been busy selecting seeds and bulbs and getting the flower beds under way.

PREDICT TOLEDO STRIKE WILL BE ADJUSTED TODAY

Conference Is Result of Changed Policy.

Toledo, O., May 10.—[Special.]—It was predicted freely here tonight that the local strike of Chevrolet Ohio Motor company employés will be settled at a conference set for 9 a. m. tomorrow, and that the men will return to work not later than Wednesday.

Some observers believe the conference will result in postponing, if not averting, a nation-wide struggle between the automotive industry and the American Federation of Labor.

Meantime Chevrolet and Fisher Body company plants in St. Louis, shut down May 2 as a result of the strike here, resumed operations today with about 4,000 men. The plants had been closed because of a shortage of materials.

Employers Reverse Policy.

Considerable optimism here was based on the reversal of policy indicated by executives of General Motors corporation in agreeing to confer with strike leaders tomorow morning without the employés first returning to work. Previously the executives had refused to participate in such conferences until the men had returned to their jobs.

That change of policy was said to be the result of a conference among William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, and federal meditators following the poll taken Wednesday when the strikers rejected the company's settlement proposals by a vote of 1,251 to 605.

Tomorrow's conference will bring together such principals in the strike scene as Mr. Knudsen and other representatives of General Motors and the Chevrolet company; leaders of the striking union; A. F. of L. spokesmen, and two federal conciliators, Edward F. McGrady, first assistant secretary of labor, and Thomas J. Williams.

A rift in union circles appeared today when it was learned that James Roland, chairman of the strike committee, had sent telegrams to officials of unions in various General Motors plants asking them to attend a conference here Sunday night.

Hupp Strike Threatened.

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—[Special.]—As hopes of peace in the Chevrolet strike were renewed today, threats of a second strike in the Hupp Motor Car company plant here were made by Francis J. Dillon, A. F. of L. general organizer for the automobile industry.

Dillon said Hupp employés will strike if the automobile labor board "attempts to hold a so-called collective bargaining election" in the plant.

Protest Against Guards.

Centralia, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—Protests against employment of out of town deputy sheriffs as guards at the Illinois Power and Light corporation gas plant here were made today by the Centralia Trades and Labor assembly.

The power plant resumed operations Monday with substitute workers when union employés, out on strike since April 3, refused to return. The Illinois commerce commission had ordered the utility company to restore gas and electric service to southern Illinois.

MAE WEST IS NAMED IN ACTION TO CLARIFY HER MARITAL STATUS

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Lee W. Bellin, attorney, announced today that he had started action in the Supreme court in behalf of Frank Wallace, vaudeville song and dance man, to compel Mae West, the motion picture actress, to admit that she is the woman Wallace married in Milwaukee in 1911, or prove that she is not.

Wallace has signed an affidavit asserting that he married Miss West on April 11, 1911, and that they moved to New York, where they lived as husband and wife for several years.

"In or about 1915," the affidavit continues, "what was purported to be an action for divorce was started by Mrs. Wallace, but no complaint ever was served on Wallace and no trace of the divorce action can be found.

"The defendant has publicly denied that she ever was married to the plaintif," the affidavit asserts, "and has called him an impostor."

LAWYERS FILE HAUPTMANN CASE REVERSAL PLEA

Trenton, N. J., May 10.—[Special.]—Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted in Flemington of the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., filed with the clerk of the Court of Errors and Appeals here today 193 reasons for the reversal of the conviction.

Principal among the reasons were the state's "varying theories" of how the child was killed and the state's "inflammatory summation" to the jury.

The grounds parallel the charges of error in the trial, filed several weeks ago, and include allegations that the trial was a "circus maximus," that "a hysterical mob spirit prevailed," and that Col. Lindbergh's daily presence "unduly influenced" the jury.

JAPANESE ARMY AND NAVY FIGHT NEW BRAIN TRUST

TOKIO, May 10.—(AP)—A week of political struggle that dominated the front pages of the Japanese newspapers ended today with the setting up of an official Japanese "brain trust."

The constitutional innovation, designed to bolster the prestige of the Okada cabinet and extend its tenure of office, is to be called "The National Policy council." It has Emperor Hirohito's sanction.

Members in Brain Trust.

In addition to Premier Keisuke Okada and Minister of Finance Korekiyo Takahashi, ex-officio members, the body consists of 15 councillors, among them such veterans as former Premier Viscount Makoto Saito and Baron Tatsuo Yamamoto, former home minister. Also named to the council were four outstanding members of the house of peers, leaders of the Minseito and Komumindomei parties and representatives of big business.

Apparent opposition to the new body became vocal when military leaders insisted policies of national defense would be excluded from the scope of the council's deliberations. The army and navy are not represented on it.

Moreover, the Seiyukai, majority party in the house of representatives, refused to be represented, although two of its elderly former leaders, former Home Ministers Rentaro Mizuno and Kessuke Mochizuke, were named to it.

Deal with Domestic Problems.

Domestic and political considerations were paramount in the formation of the council whose influence on foreign policy was expected to be small.

The cabinet, it was understood, primarily sought the support of Japan's elder statesmen and other eminent personages above and outside ordinary political currents, this in order to fortify it against enemies.

DIME STORE HEIRESS REFUSES TO DISCUSS NEW ROMANCE RUMOR

Reno, Nev., May 10.—(AP)—Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani sought the seclusion of a Sierra Nevada mountain lake today as vain efforts were made to reach her for comment on a reported new romance with the Danish Count Haugwitz-Reventlow.

With only the week-end separating her from an expected divorce from Prince Alexis Mdivani, the Woolworth heiress joined her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn L. Hutton, and her two attorneys, for a picnic at Lake Tahoe.

Shown a printed report that the princess plans to marry the Danish nobleman, Attorney George B. Thatcher declared he "knew nothing."

ELGIN STUDENTS WIN DEMANDS AND END STRIKE

Students at Elgin High school returned back to classes yesterday and their two day strike appeared to have achieved the results at which it aimed. The school trustees had acceded to two demands made by the student strikers and their third demand is to be given further consideration when the school board meets Monday, it was reported.

The board of education agreed to retain T. A. Larsen, 27 year faculty member, as assistant principal, and to renew the contract of C. E. Adams, coach of the school's successful athletic teams. The demotion of Larsen and failure to renew Adams' contract for next year were responsible for the student protest and walkout.

On the third point of contention, the question of whether or not Principal William L. Goble should be retired is to be decided Monday night. The students have indicated that they will strike again unless Goble's retirement is delayed.

UTILITY TO SEEK 100 NEW CHARGES IN INDIANA ROW

Huntington, Ind., May 10.—[Special.]—C. W. H. Bangs, crusading editor elected Huntington mayor on an anti-utility ticket, today continued his comfortable "martyrdom" in the county jail while the Northern Indiana Power company prepared to bring contempt of court actions against 100 more Huntington citizens.

Bangs refused to heed a court mandate which forbade connecting business establishments and homes to power lines of the city electric light plant, licensed to provide city street light current. The utility obtained a restraining order forbidding the connections and after eleven days spent in hiding Bangs accepted service of the injunction. The city plant received more and more "customers," and Special Judge David H. Smith, of Fort Wayne, Wednesday ordered Bangs and four other citizens to jail for contempt. Bangs put up bond for the other four but blithely went to jail, where he admits he is enjoying himself.

The company Monday will ask for 100 new contempt citations from Judge Smith, alleging the citizens illegally are obtaining power from the city plant. Bangs and his faction contend the citizens are charged inexcusable rates, fixed by the Indiana Public Service commission, the regulatory body for all Indiana public utilities.

Radio Organist Granted Divorce from Announcer

Mildred Maginn Lee, 13 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, a radio organist under the name of Mildred Fitzpatrick, yesterday was granted an uncontested divorce from Robert Lee, radio announcer, by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan. She charged cruelty. Attorney Harry A. Lineweaver, representing Mrs. Lee, waived alimony "because earnings are equal."

TRAIL OF CRIME LEADS TO ARREST OF GANG IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., May 10.—[Special.]—The Iowa bureau of investigation today announced that it had solved four midwestern kidnapings, six robberies, and two shootings, and is holding five suspects in connection with crimes.

The men in custody are Earl Egan, Sioux City, Ia.; Charles H. Knight, Minneapolis, Minn.; Paul Clayton, Sioux City; Cavanall [Bud] Hoofer, Minneapolis, and Milo Jensen, Minneapolis. Four are being held in the Sioux City jail while Jensen is under arrest at Minneapolis.

Joe Hanley, Sioux City, is being sought in connection with the cases which include the kidnaping of Bank Messenger Ernest Newman, 24, in Sioux City on Feb. 4.

The gang under arrest is believed by investigators to have held up the Heidelberg inn at Yankton, S. D., on March 5. The holdup of Effie's inn at Sioux Falls, S. D., on March 10 is on the list. In this robbery the bandits collected $125. One customer was shot during the holdup.

Another crime laid at the gang's door is the kidnaping of two Iowa farmers following a filling station stickup near Woodbine March 19 and a subsequent gun battle with officers near Harlan.

The gang is also charged with holding up a filling station and grocery at Holly Springs, Ia., March 11. Five men obtained only $18 then. It is believed they also were active on March 16 in which two men obtained $25 in cash in a garage holdup at Omaha, Neb., kidnaping Gene Mullen, night garageman, in a stolen car and releasing him near Sioux City the next morning.

QUESTION WIDOW OF BEER DEALER AFTER BOMBING

Mrs. Ethel Young, widow of Frank Young, beer distributor who was shot to death last Saturday, was questioned by police yesterday after it was learned that a black powder bomb had been exploded in the early morning in the door of the garage behind the Young home at 4352 Mozart street. She could give no explanation for the bombing, which caused slight damage.

"Since the death of my husband," Mrs. Young told the police, "I have been continuing the beverage distributing business. I called a dinner of my customers and they all promised to stick by me. No one has asked me to quit, but if they want me to get out of the business I will."

VOTE TO INDICT EX-RECEIVER IN $6,600 SHORTAGE

Walter L. Hahn, 50 years old, a former real estate dealer, was named by the grand jury yesterday in true bills charging the embezzlement of $6,6?? while he was receiver for the Bankers' State Bank building, 410 East 47th street.

In 1932 Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher named Hahn to the receivership. On last Jan. 5, upon the petition of the Western and Southern Life Insurance company, first mortgage holders, Circuit Judge G. Fred Rush removed Hahn from the receivership and ordered an accounting.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Critic Conducts an All-Chicago Novel Column

James T. Farrell Completes Lonigan Saga.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

LET us call this Chicago day, for only books by Chicagoans engage us and most of them are novels of Chicago. They make a brave showing.

A Chicago author, James T. Farrell, who has already won the loud (and sincere) praise of the English critics, ends his trilogy of Chicago with "Judgment Day" [Vanguard] as he ends the life of Studs Lonigan, who made his noisy, brutal, at times horribly realistic, way through "Young Lonigan" and "The Young Manhood of Studs Lonigan."

There is something about the Lonigan saga that gives you mental mumps, makes you feel spiritually the way you feel physically when you think of the most acid lemons. It does shock you, there is no denying it, to know the intimate thoughts and actions of such as Studs Lonigan (for it may be accepted as fact that the Lonigans of the world aren't readers of novels, and so Studs' mental and physical fleuroscope are a surprise to those who do read about him).

But, critically speaking, the shock is salutary, for with the impact of fact comes also the impact of the author's art, which, now that the trilogy is finished, looms as important and meticulous literary photography with a social interpretation, not mere photography, as the first two books gave one to think. While such as Studs Lonigan are produced society will produce such as Studs Lonigan, is one way of putting it. For the hero of this depressing tale, who dies at 30 as much from the depression (social and personal) as he does of disease, is no mere individual, but one of a kind unfitted for life.

And the fault is not, either in his stars nor that he is an underling, but somewhere half way between. The story of Studs Lonigan is one of the most depressing and shocking books of our day, but it has a certain uncompromising validity which makes it important.

"SOMEBODY IN BOOTS"

Nelson Algren's "Somebody in Boots" [Vanguard] is also about a man unfitted for life and about the depression, and it also is written in the special language of the characters (a language which includes so many words that are unfamiliar to most readers of novels that a glossary might almost be included). But, whereas Mr. Farrell's book is written as cold, detached social criticism, Mr. Algren's is written with the passion of a revivalist preacher who dares not trust to facts to make his point but must underscore.

There is horror enough, one admits, in life in a shanty by a railroad for a boy, but when within 36 pages that boy has seen a little girl decapitated by a train, a boy lying almost cut in two on a railroad right of way (his condition graphically described), and his brother, a war veteran, twist his cat's body from its head and fling the head at him . . . that, it seems to me, is slight underscoring of horror. Mr. Algren writes with just that intense "realism" of the boy's later life as a tramp, social criticism which is so violent that it loses its force.

"EVEN IN LAUGHTER"

The depression and its social results are the motivation of another novel, "Even in Laughter," by two Chicagoans [Maywood], Constance Cassady and Ruth Cardwell, but there is no real social criticism in it. The collaborating authors tell a kaleidoscopic tale of events rather than of character. A social worker, her wealthy and spoiled sister, the sister's successful business man husband, his simple but good-hearted mistress, the members of the family of one of the social worker's "cases," the son of a man who works for her brother-in-law, the brother-in-law's brother, and her own husband are all entangled in a rush of swift events which almost paralyze the long arm of coincidence but which make a very entertaining tale.

"GOLDEN LEGEND"

Entertaining also, and no more socially critical, but written with a gentle kind of irony, is Isabella Holt's "Golden Legend." Isabella Holt is no longer a Chicagoan since her marriage and the establishment of her home in Detroit, but she comes of an old Chicago family.

The depression finally releases the heroine from a life that is little more than a legend—starting when she was a billionaire baby and going through years when she was always good copy for the press and ending only when reality forced her into reality.

At the other end of the social scale, and told in the vernacular of its background, just as "Somebody in Boots" and "Judgment Day" are told in the vernacular of theirs, "Golden Legend" will contain for most readers quite as newsy material as they do, about how the other half lives.

Six Chicago Authors Offer Books

JAMES T. FARRELL.

LOUIS ZARA.

ISABELLA HOLT.

RUTH CARDWELL.

CONSTANCE CASSADY.

Six Chicagoans whose recent novels are reviewed today. James T. Farrell ends his hardboiled Studs Lonigan trilogy with "Judgment Day." Nelson Algren's even more hardboiled novel, his first, is "Somebody in Boots." Louis Zara's first full length fiction is "Blessed Is the Man," almost continuously a best seller since its publication March 20. Isabella Holt, native Chicagoan, but now living in Detroit, writes about a poor little fabulously rich girl in "Golden Legend," and Ruth Cardwell and Constance Cassady collaborate on a fictional kaleidoscope of Chicago in "Even in Laughter."

Meetings and Lectures

Upton Terrell, author of "Adam Cargo," will be the guest speaker at the Musical guild in the Fine Arts building this afternoon.

Dr. Morton Dauwen Zabel, assistant editor of Poetry magazine, will talk about the poetry of Gerard Manley Hopkins at the Catholic Poetry society of Chicago on Monday evening at the Cordon club.

"BLESSED IS THE MAN"

Louis Zara (as another Chicagoan chooses to call himself) has written a wholly different type of novel from either the socially critical or the entertaining. "Blessed Is the Man" is an unusual piece of work for a first novel. It misses greatness, but it has impressiveness, leisureliness, and a sort of grandiloquence.

It is the life story of Jake Krakauer, "greenhorn" from Russia (from which he escaped rather than do military service), unlettered and homely, and how he grew from peddler to Jewish magnate in the city of Chicago, how he grew as a good Jew and as a good citizen, how he married a good wife and was a good husband and a good father to his many children, how, in a word, he made a good life for himself in a land that offers good life.

The book is round, full, and the characters, as the author declares, "not puppets for the favorite prejudices of the author." It is rich in detail of the Krakauer background, which includes the Jewish panorama from ghetto Yiddish to high Jewish society.

"Blessed Is the Man" contains some good Jewish jokes (for Jake is a humorist on occasion). But if you want a whole bookful of Jewish jokes there is "The Jew Laughs" [Stein], by another Chicagoan, S. Felix Mendelsohn, rabbi of Temple Beth Israel. It contains 387 stories and is the most complete collection of Jewish humor in English.

YOUNG WEBSTER WRITES

A very young Chicagoan, son of a famous Chicago novelist, has just published his first book "Pass in Review" [Bobbs-Merrill]. Kitchell Webster Jr. is the son of the late Henry Kitchell Webster, and he has turned his experience at Culver Military academy into a book which older boys are sure to find thrilling, for most boys have an idea that military school is one of the outposts of Eden and young Kitch Webster has remembered and set down with inherited skill every detail of his four year life at Culver in a tale about Chuck Wheeler's cadethood. The illustrations are actual photographs taken at Culver. There isn't much plot, but, O boy, boys!

Realism Marks Story of Love and Depression

"Affair," by Emily Hahn. [Bobbs-Merrill.]

WITH the utmost realism of event and conversation Emily Hahn has set down the progress of a love affair between a commonplace girl and a commonplace boy, both too casually rooted in New York.

What the depression did to their love is the theme of a book which is sordid and sad and gallant and very up to the minute in mood and in manner. If things had been normal economically they probably would have married, had their child, and been normally unhappy ever after.

But when food must be caught as catch can, when boys are laid off for two months and girls can't find any jobs at all, such normality isn't possible. How impossible Miss Hahn states with a poignant, almost brutal exactness. The degrees of fear, of struggle, of desperation, and of final lassitude are all gone into vividly.

The conversation, which is a large part of the book, has the same reality that made John O'Hara's "Appointment in Samarra" one of the few American novels last year that interested Europe.

"Affair" is not a great novel, but it has something about it that great novels must have—it is tensely real.

Here's Book Contest of Twelve Countries; Prize to Be $20,000

The most impressive novel contest ever held has just been announced. It is to be an international contest, with leading publishers of the United States, Great Britain, France, Spain, Hungary, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Germany as sponsoring participants.

The book chosen will be awarded a prize of approximately $20,000, according to Farrar & Rinehart, who, with the Literary Guild of America, Warner Brothers-First National Pictures and the literary agency of Eric S. Pinker and Adrienne Morrison, Inc., are the American sponsors.

The American judges are Carl Van Doren, William Soskin and Joseph Wood Krutch, and the book which they choose will receive a separate prize if it should not be chosen as the All-Nations winner.

The international judges are Hugh Walpole, Carl Van Doren, Sigrid Undset, Rudolf G. Binding and a French representative as yet unnamed. The contest opens April 30, 1935, and closes April 30, 1936. The winning book will be published in all twelve countries on the same day.

DOUBLEDAY, DORAN

Health Forces Aldous Huxley to Quit London

Author Goes to Southern France to Live.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Londoners are very much grieved and disappointed to learn that Aldous Huxley has been forced to abandon his hope of living in London for the next two or three years. Serious insomnia has affected his health ever since he began to live in England, and he has returned to the south of France. There, we hope, he will quickly be restored; but his departure is a loss to us all.

A very brilliant young man whose future may well be a matter of concern to politics as well as letters is about to publish his first novel. This young man is Somerset de Chair, son of the one time governor of New South Wales. Admiral Sir Dudley de Chair.

The novel is not Mr. de Chair's first book, for that saw the bookshops when its author was no more than seventeen years of age. Nor his second, which appeared when he was in his first year at Oxford. But it is his first experiment with fiction. Even so, it is based upon fact, for as the title, "Enter Napoleon," shows it is a historical romance. A real romance, and the story of Napoleon's youth, his rise to military eminence, his adventures before success.

The book, which will be published by the Messrs. Hutchinson, is the result of much close study. The author, who is still only 24, wrote it during a long stay in Corsica, when he was on his honeymoon two years ago. All the scenes described are reliable; the pictures are vivid and true; the book the result of much hard work as well as of much enthusiasm.

But Mr. de Chair is much more than a novelist. He has made a close study of European conditions in Italy, France, and Austria, has had audiences of Sig. Mussolini and other political leaders on the continent, and is personally acquainted with a number of English statesmen. He is standing as political candidate for South West Norfolk, is dramatist and historian, and is as charming as he is modest.

Another young man, who was told by the late Edgar Wallace to write nothing more until he was thirty, has just attained that age and finished his first novel. This is called "The Moon Murders," and will be published by Cassell. The author, Nigel Morland, has had considerable experience in the last few years of the publishing and book selling trades in England, editing a small periodical called the Book Tag and acting as literary consultant to patrons of the great Selfridge store in Oxford street; and he is now managing director of a new firm of publishers, Street & Massey.

It was to Edgar Wallace, a lifelong friend, that he showed his early MMS., and it was his plan some time ago to produce a complete bibliography of Wallace's work. "The Moon Murders" introduces a new type of detective, and was accepted instantly by the first publishers to whom it was shown.

Wins French Award.

"Harriet," by Elizabeth Jenkins, an English novel published in New York in March, 1934, has just been announced as the 1934 winner of the famous French novel award, Femina Vie Hereuse prize. The reciprocal award in England, the Heinemann prize, was made at the same time to Henri de Montherlant for his "Les Celibataires."

IMPORTANT BOOKS OUT THIS WEEK

FICTION.

Love in Winter, by Storm Jameson [Knopf], tells of a woman who is in love with her cousin who needed her but who would not take the trouble to keep her.

The Map of Days, by Ethel Boileau [Dutton], is about a young Scotchman endowed with second sight who with the world war achieved the supreme adventure of love and mysticism.

Ripeness Is All, by Eric Linklater [Farrar & Rinehart], tells hilariously the result of a will left by a wealthy bachelor who believed that a large family was the crown of mortal happiness.

The Unknown Quantity, by Hermann Broch [Viking], is the story of a man who had achieved power in the fields of mathematics and astronomy, but almost missed his chance of happiness.

Nothing Like Leather, by V. S. Pritchett [Macmillan], pictures the lives of the men and women connected with an English tannery.

The Last of Mr. Norris, by Christopher Isherwood [Morrow], tells the story of an eccentric gentleman and his friends on the continent during the hectic period of 1931 to 1933.

NONFICTION.

Sex and Temperament, by Margaret Mead [Morrow], is the interesting result of Dr. Mead's extraordinary experiences in the wilds of New Guinea, where she exhaustively studied three primitive tribes.

Challenge to Death, by Fifteen British Authors [Dutton], contains articles by outstanding authors, among them J. B. Priestley, Julian Huxley, Rebecca West, dealing with the fundamental causes of war.

Factory, Family and Woman, by Susan M. Kingsbury and Mildred Fairchild [Putnam], gives a comprehensive and accurate picture of women and family life in Russia under the soviets.

Noted Woman Traveler Pens Comical Novel

"Victorian Family Robinson," by Beatrice Grimshaw. [Green.]

BEATRICE GRIMSHAW, who has made a name for herself as a lone traveler in lone parts, where white women are as rare as a blooming camelia bush in a Chicago garden, and who has put her experiences into fact and fiction to the delight of many, has turned her knowledge of inaccessible islands into a chuckling tale.

For background she has taken a lonely island somewhere between England and Australia. For characters, four well whiskered gentlemen and four tightly corseted ladies [unwed] with the ideas and manners of the year of the shipwreck, 1865. What eight very conventional Victorians do when cast into a state of nature is an echo, but a screaming one, of "The Admirable Crichton."

With fate pairing them off so precisely, and with their rescue by the descendants of the survivors of a former shipwreck, who have forgotten what the dear queen would do under every and all circumstances and who want what they want without benefit of clergy or Victoria, the situation is desperately comic.

'Abbey of Evolayne,' Story of Conversion, Wins Another Prize

"The Abbey of Evolayne," by Paule Regnier [Harcourt-Brace], recently awarded the America-France prize which echoes the previous novel prize of the French academy, has a theme unusual in a work of fiction. It is the story of the conversion to Catholicism of two cosmopolitans and sophisticates, the husband a famous surgeon at the height of a brilliant career, the wife as distinguished in the fashionable world of Paris.

The demands of their spirits are not satisfied with mere conversion, and in a passion of dedication they renounce their earthly love (which has been a full and sustaining one) and enter the cloister. The drama of their final meeting is tragedy translated. "The Abbey of Evolayne" is recommended by the Catholic Book club.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK

A MURDER story threatening more mysterious murders and filled with menace to a dozen people, who may or may not be guilty, is Mignon G. Eberhart's new book, "The House on the Roof" [Doubleday-Doran].

The ominous little house is set on top of an ancient apartment building in one of Chicago's quiet north side streets and a girl who lives in one of the comfortable flats never even knows that it is there until on a dark winter afternoon, under her very nose, murder is done. She has been invited for tea with its romantic tenant, who has been an opera singer and now is—what? Deborah doesn't know; in fact she knows just one thing—that she herself didn't do the killing. But whoever fired that sudden shot from the darkness into the light saw her there and must fear her as greatly as she comes to fear the stealthy killer. And she isn't the only one who is scared to death. Every other inhabitant of that nice respectable building seems to have some guilty knowledge up his sleeve and the goings-on reduce the bewildered reader to that state of inanition where he just naturally can't leave his chair until something or other decisive develops.

Mrs. Eberhart is expert at this sort of tension. With one swoop her net enmeshes you and there is no tearing your way out. Not that you want to get out, exactly, being enthralled by complicated events which, thick and fast, crowd in upon you, events which terrorize but somehow give assurance that all will soon be well and that nobody you care much about will be victim or culprit. It's a grand gift and the hallmark of the endowed mystery story writer. No matter how good the plot, how complicated the development, how plausible the dénouement, this special atmosphere must enwrap them or the tale is just another one of those detective stories.

You can be pretty sure that Mrs. Eberhart's productions will live up to these specifications, and any day or night when no immediate duty calls you you can sit down to this one and know you are going to get your money's worth.

In "Dilemmas" [Doubleday-Doran] A. E. W. Mason gathers together a number of short stories of varying degrees of mystery, not so good, not so bad, but always readable. In memory of "Running Water," "At the Villa Rose," "The Four Feathers," everything of Mr. Mason's has its charm.

In Mr. Fortune Objects [Crime Club], H. C. Bailey reports six more of the lackadaisical Reggie's abstruse cases. As usual, he leaves Scotland Yard panting in his wage, puzzled, in the person of Inspector Bell, that he should find complications in what seems all open and above board. But Mr. Fortune is always right and from the hitch in the proceedings draws a fine moral and an unexpected solution. Probably you'll be delighted with these stories.

Traces Sources of Constitution and Liberties

Prof. McLaughlin Writes New History.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"A Constitutional History of the United States," by Andrew C. McLaughlin. [Appleton-Century.]

ANDREW C. McLAUGHLIN, professor emeritus of history at the University of Chicago, thinks that the American people at this critical point in their history ought to know more about the constitutional form of government which they have set up in the western world as the hope of humanity. Like the giant sequoias, he finds that it has survived great wounds by a patient rebuilding process and it still spreads its green top to the morning sunlight.

In his book just published, "A Constitutional History of the United States," Prof. McLaughlin traces the roots of the constitution, presents its underlying philosophy, discusses its principles and growth, and concludes as follows:

"The constitutional system, which, when it was established, derived its substance from the experiences and efforts of previous centuries, has survived. In this modern world, that simple fact is an achievement. Formed for less than four million people living in a narrow area along the coast, it has been adapted to the needs of thirty times that number occupying half a continent.

"If federalism, democracy, and individual liberty are drowned in the torrent and whirlpool of the future because men are found incompetent to govern themselves, the historical fact remains—for a hundred and fifty years the constitution lasted as the fundamental law of a successful people."

In discussing the philosophy of the revolution and the Declaration of Independence which preceded constitution making, Prof. McLaughlin finds that the most important word in the declaration is "deriving." This goes back to the philosophy of John Locke, who had suffered tyranny in England. It goes back as far as one may care to travel in the stream of philosophy, or even to the Summa Theologica of Thomas Aquinas, for the fathers of this republic believed they were guided by the will of God.

"Before government was established," Prof. McLaughlin writes in explanation, "men were in a state of equality; after government was established they were not; they gave up their equality and subjected themselves to be a superior; but this superior must rule for the common good. This is the sum and substance of the philosophy of Locke and the Declaration of Independence." This accounts for the churchly support, the "divine" basis for the right to overthrow the authority of King George.

The constitutional convention, however, was not ruled by abstract theories, Prof. McLaughlin says.

"The men of those days," he writes, "believed in liberty; liberty and property were not considered mutually opposed. We may have forgotten for how many decades the word 'liberty' was the chosen symbol of American life. A government with powers of ruthless interference with property would not have been considered a government to be endured by a free people. The framers were now giving institutional reality to the ideas which the course of colonial history, the practices of the old empire, their own struggle for independence, and their earlier attempts to establish union had inculcated."

Beginning with the old empire, Prof. McLaughlin traces the course of his history down to 1932. He sees the weakening, perhaps the breaking down of the unique American experiment in federalism, as distinct from the unitary state.

CONDEMNS ICKES AS WRECKER OF INDIAN CULTURE

Mrs. Seymour Describes Navaho New Deal.

The culture which three centuries of missionary and governmental activities produced among the populous Navaho Indian tribes of New Mexico and Arizona is being destroyed systematically under the New Deal as administered by Secretary of the Interior Ickes and John B. Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs, it was charged yesterday. The charge was made by Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour, 4917 Blackstone avenue, an attorney who is considered an authority on Indian matters. Mrs. Seymour returned recently from a trip through the Navaho reservations.

Despite the long career of Mr. Collier as a critic of past administrations and the first hand knowledge of Mr. Ickes with the Navahos, through his summer residence near Gallup, N. M., the New Deal policies are bitterly opposed by the Navahos and friends of the Indians, Mrs. Seymour said. A lawyer and author of books on the Indians, Mrs. Seymour was a member of the board of Indian commissioners from 1922 until its dissolution by President Roosevelt in 1934.

Independence to "Pauperism."

Mrs. Seymour declared the Navaho reservation has become a center of New Deal experimentation and exploitation, the scope of the experiments ranging from herd reduction and soil erosion abatement to communism. From a self-sustaining tribe of 43,000 persons engaged in sheepherding, she said, the once proud Navahos are becoming a pauperized community, maintained at a heavy cost by the federal government.

"The present policy in Indian affairs is a long step backward," Mrs. Seymour said. "It is the avowed intention of Ickes to restore the old Indian crafts, arts, and traditions and establish these tribes under a separate, communal economy. While making the Pueblos a monkey island for the edification of tourists, the New Deal is making the Navahos human guinea pigs for a vast ethnological experiment."

Mrs. Seymour pointed out that the Navahos have increased from 8,000 in 1868 and advanced culturally. Although adopting the education and culture of the white man they have been content to carry on their own self-sustaining, individual economy, without competing with white labor or farm production.

Back to Forgotten Culture.

"Not content with arresting the cultural development of these people," Mrs. Seymour continued, "the New Deal is attempting to throw them back to a culture long forgotten. And to add to the confusion, through soil erosion experiments, herd reduction and other means they are attempting to saddle a new communism on people who have for centuries preserved an individualistic form of economy."

The three principal New Deal activities to which objection has been taken by the tribes are the establishment of the Navaho capital at Window Rock, near Fort Defiance, herd reduction and the substitution of day schools for the government boarding schools, Mrs. Seymour said. She declared herds were sharply cut by the government last year, regardless of size, and a further reduction of 150,000 sheep and goats has been ordered for this year, although the Indian herds are noncompetitive.

"To the simple Indian," Mrs. Seymour said, "the six regional superintendents, or 'natanis' in the native tongue, are important factors, representing the white government in their daily affairs. These are to be withdrawn with the completion of the capital at Fort Defiance. The capitol building in itself is another touchy point. Erected at a cost of $1,000,000, it represents the native architecture of the hated Pueblo Indians.

Says Schools Lack Teachers.

"Among a pastoral people, where families move from season to season, a boarding school is the only means of educating children," Mrs. Seymour explained. "Despite this, the boarding schools are being discontinued and day schools started. I have seen these schools and they have no desks, no blackboards, and no teachers."

The instruction in these schools is to be conducted by "Indian assistants" entirely in the Navaho tongue "until and unless the children ask for instruction in English," Mrs. Seymour quoted an educational director.

"In turning back to the old culture of the Indians," Mrs. Seymour continued, "the government has urged 'coöperation with the medicine men.' This New Deal coöperation of highly trained physicians with the primitive tribal conjurer has resulted in innumerable cases in which sick persons have been taken from well equipped hospitals and 'treated' in the smoke laden 'hogans' of the natives."

'ACCEPT GREEN'S RESIGNATION AS U. S. ATTORNEY

Dwight H. Green, United States district attorney in Chicago, yesterday was notified that his resignation, sent to Washington on Feb. 12, had been accepted and would become effective as soon as a successor had been appointed. It was expected the new attorney would be named by President Roosevelt within a few days. In the United States courthouse it was considered likely that Michael L. Igoe, now congressman at large for Illinois, would be appointed.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, in a letter notifying Mr. Green that his resignation had been accepted, expressed his regrets at having the district attorney leave the service and thanked him for the work he had done in prosecuting gangsters.

"The President has asked me," Cummings wrote, "to express to you his regret that you find it necessary to leave your present post and his appreciation of the highly efficient manner in which you have discharged its duty."

Green, a Republican, was appointed by President Hoover and retained by the Democratic administration to try several important cases.

HAS THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY GONE GANGSTER?

The refusal of the Democratic organization in the assembly to enact the permanent registration bills prompts the question at the head of these remarks.

The need for the safeguards against corrupt voting is notorious. The measures providing them are based on similar legislation in other states which has been demonstrated by actual operation to be effective. The objections voiced by opponents of the Illinois bills are trivial. The new system, if adopted, will save the taxpayers, it has been estimated, from half a million to a million dollars annually. It will save voters unnecessary loss of time and inconvenience. But most important for honest citizens—and for honest politicians—it will make it much more difficult to manipulate elections and defeat the will of the public.

There is no reason to believe that the Democratic organization is unwilling to save the voters inconvenience, and while a saving of public money may seem unimportant or, as in Washington, even undesirable, the conclusion from a defeat of the permanent registration bills which citizens will draw and ought to draw is that the Democratic bosses responsible for it are determined to remain in power by fraud. They are now in power through a national political landslide which swept this normally Republican state into their lap. Apparently they view their situation with an arrogance which is tempered by distrust, and propose, if possible, to keep all the means of political manipulation and control in their hands.

Perhaps members of the party who visited Washington to ask for consideration and came back with orders have learned of the vast corruption day by day breaking through to the light, and been impressed by such relatively minor matters as the two hundred million dollars taken from the public to make the silver mine owners' life more abundant, or by the contracts let to high bidders on the TVA and other projects for sinking the people's money, or by the mysteries moving behind the curtains of the labor department and other phenomena now making history in our national governmental affairs. Have the managers of the Democracy in Illinois been inspired by these examples and determined to maintain the means of preventing the verdict of the people of Illinois upon their record?

The defeat of the permanent registration bills could have no other explanation. It will mean that the lash of the boss is more feared by the Democratic organization of the legislature than the lash of conscience or public indignation. It will mean, in short, that the Democratic organization has gone gangster.

PERVERTING EVIDENCE.

Just how far afield New Deal legislators will go in search of material to support pork barrel measures is strikingly exemplified in a speech recently made by Senator Wheeler in advocating his "government ownership of railways" bill. As a convincing reason for the seizure of railway properties he advanced the theory that railway service could be made more efficient under government operation "if a parallel can be drawn from Canadian railway experiences. Coördinator Eastman, referring to the Canadian National Lines, says: 'It is conceded that these lines have been operated more efficiently and have given better service since than before public acquisition.'"

We would recommend that Senator Wheeler make his own investigations at Ottawa and not lean too heavily on Coördinator Eastman's views, prejudiced as they are by a personal hobby. In a brief of legislation introduced in the seventeenth parliament of Canada we find the following:

Bill No. 24—An act respecting the Canadian National Railways and to authorize the provision of moneys to meet expenditures made and indebtedness incurred during the calendar year 1935.

This measure is similar to bills dealt with at each session to provide funds for the purpose of meeting certain obligations and deficits of the government railways. In this instance the amount of the bill is $48,200,000, of which $44,000,000 is for interest charges. The total mileage of the Canadian National Railways is approximately 10 per cent of that of the railroads of the United States. If Mr. Wheeler's advice is followed, therefore, we can expect to meet annual deficits of the United States railways totaling a half billion dollars.

As to the improved service stressed by Messrs. Wheeler and Eastman, we would draw forcibly to public attention the fact that Canada does not own all of its railroads. Practically every mile of its national system is paralleled by the highly efficient Canadian Pacific Railways, which not only sets the pace but adds to the national wealth through its payments to its security holders of an amount just about as far in the black as the national railway system is in the red.

Mr. Wheeler provides for no pacemaker in his United States railway scheme, unless he expects the Canadian Pacific to set the standard for the entire continent.

PUZZLE: FIND THE AGGRESSOR AND THE ARBITER.

Italy has called out three additional divisions of troops for service in Africa and Mussolini's Colonial Secretary Lessona made a speech to the chamber of deputies in which he said there would be no trifling with Ethiopia. When Germany's denunciation of the treaty of Versailles agitated Europe Italy stopped its military maneuvers against the Ethiopians. It now apparently feels free to renew the pressure. Ethiopia recently appealed to the council at Geneva to take up the issue as an emergency and the league authorities refused to do so, putting the petitioner off with the explanation that the question was on the regular order of business for May and it could wait its turn.

Several matters of interest crop out of the situation in West Africa and its handling by the European powers. As might be expected, aggression is an argument both sides can use. Ethiopia maintains that Italy is provoking war by its invasions of Ethiopian rights. Italy avers that the Ethiopians have no regard for treaty responsibilities and are attacking the Italian territory.

As usual, there are as many aggressors as there are parties to the controversy. The belligerent who permitted himself to be outsmarted and to appear before a court of international judgment without his portfolio of proved aggressions would be too feeble-minded to have gotten into the jam in the first place. He would have been so far down in the scale of intelligence that he would have been overrun without any moral ado about it.

All the schemes which base their procedure upon some sort of judicial determination of the guilty aggressor have an almost impossible initial job. When all the evidence is in a determination of the aggressor will be a matter more of prejudice and sympathy than it will be of fact finding. The assumption that guilt will stand out like a cloud of dark evil is a wishful illusion.

Another aspect of the trouble reveals nothing new. When a small nation makes a complaint against a large one Geneva will find more reasons for deferring action than taking up the cause. The powerful nation is an influential member of the Geneva family. The weaker one is a poor relation. Syria discovered this when it complained of the French, China when it complained of the Japanese, Ethiopia when it complains of the Italians. If the custodians of the peace try to block the aspirations or acquisitiveness of one of the leading associates there is an unpleasant tension and an exchange of dirty looks. The council of the league immediately becomes a collection of pots and kettles and black is an embarrassing word to use. If there is too much talk the member, as in the case of Japan, picks up its hat and goes out slamming the door.

CONTROL OF BROADCASTING.

Sir Kingsley Wood, British postmaster general, has appointed a committee largely composed of members of parliament to consider the future of broadcasting after the expiration of the present charter to the British Broadcasting company. British radio is not private enterprise, even to the extent to which the American industry is under government control. Programs are controled by the BBC and the British listener gets what this authority selects for him.

There is now a feeling in parliament that there ought to be an even greater political control over the broadcasting facilities, vesting it in a legislative commission. The BBC has not been free from political influence, naturally enough, although its pretense has been in the direction of a higher cultural standard than would be possible under the American commercial system. The pretense doesn't square with the product, but the objective is supposed to be finer.

Winston Churchill had a great deal of trouble with the commission before he could gain the privilege of opposing the government, particularly on its Indian policy. It is a logical development of control that it should seek more authority rather than be content with less, as Americans have some reason to know on their own account. Naturally the extension of political control is argued in the public interest. That term covers a multitude of sins.

GREAT LAKES STATION.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

The naval appropriation bill, which provides for a substantial increase in the number of enlisted men to man the new vessels nearing completion and to furnish adequate complements for those now undermanned, comes up shortly in congress.

This raises the question of the future of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, which has stood idle in the name of economy since June 30, 1933.

This station was established July 1, 1905, and was officially opened for recruits July 1, 1911, following a five year building program entailing an expenditure of some $26,000,000, including the creation of a million dollar harbor.

During the twenty-two years it was in operation Great Lakes sent approximately 300,000 trained men to the fleet. While the world war was in progress it received approximately 125,000 recruits for training and transferred 86,779 to sea. Its specialty schools, organized to provide intensive instruction in particular branches of naval activity, graduated 17,356 men.

It is estimated that 34 per cent of men enlisted in the navy came from the middle west. Furthermore, a large percentage of the money raised to support the navy comes from this section. Obviously, the midwestern states are entitled to consideration.

Additional training facilities are going to be needed for the estimated 11,000 men who will be enlisted during the next year. Secretary of the Navy Swanson, a Virginian, appears to be the only naval authority opposed to Great Lakes. It behooves every representative and senator in congress who hails from midwestern states to see that provisions are made in an amendment to the appropriation measure to reopen the Great Lakes station. It is our right. There is no economy in the continued abandonment of this valuable training school.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WITH EVERYBODY leaping to send a dime in the chain letter thing I'm a little sorry I have to be more or less respectable. What a grand time to sell gold bricks, life passes to Lincoln park, or open up a three shell game on the nearest corner.

AND HERE IS ONE of the strangest happenings I have ever known. If there was a "Strange Happening" prize I ought to pull down five bucks. But there isn't; so I'll have to spill it free. I was driving down on Route 30 through Indiana (say what you will, I can't stay away from that state) and there was another automobile in front of me. We neared route 29, which runs north and south, cutting right across route 30. There is a great yellow sign about eight feet in diameter planted there which reads as follows (turn rule and quote), "S-T-O-P." Well, sir, when the driver of the car in front of me got to that sign what do you suppose he did? Doggoned if he didn't stop. Yes sir; none of your second gear, sorta hesitating stops, but going right ahead. He stopped. Actually came to a standstill. And then he looked right and left, up and down route 29, and seeing nothing coming he drove on. I thought he was a splendid driver and a very wonderful man, but, or course, they've probably got him in the psychopathic ward by this time, because, of course, nobobdy would do a thing like that unless he was quite mad. Poor fellow. I hope they're gentle with him.

MOTHER'S DAY.

They will spill their rivers of hallowed slush
And wreathe green laurels about your hair;
For a moment earth, in a conscious hush,
Will kneel and offer a fervent prayer.

They will do you proud on that one great day
When the heartfelt tributes well and emerge.
Content, as they go their busied way,
To save all sentiment for the splurge.

I am false and untrue, O mother of mine.
On this day of days I will shed no tear,
For your love will be no whit more divine
Than it was on the other days of the year.

And beat tin cymbals, and scrape and bow,
Embellish my coat with its single flower,
To prove I am thinking of you now.

In the lonely years when your heart gave all
To the child on its careless stumbling way,
You were not meticulous that the call
Of love should occur on a certain day.

I shall not then, mother, now make of you
Material for a gestured flare;
I need no heralded day to renew
The reverent love that is always there.

JESSUP.

SUNSHINY DAYS are here—maybe—once more and how lovely to roam in the fields and woods and down the flower strewn dales. Only take a dipper with you and a sponge to bail out the said fields and woods. And if you want to pluck one of the pretty wild flowers (you shouldn't do it) wear a bathing suit and be ready to dive.

THE VARIOUS SORTS OF BEAUTY QUEENS, Cherry Blossom, Peach, Orange, Lemon, Marshmallow, and five thousand other varieties, are now beginning to climb all over the picture page. But there are so many lovely gals that have failed to qualify in all these varieties, so why not invent new queens? Are there any more important vegetables than spinach, onion, garlic, cabbage, and stringbeans? Then why not a Spinach Queen, an Onion Queen, a Garlic Queen, a Cabbage Queen, and a Stringbean Queen? And much more important to the human race than a Peach Blossom Queen would be a Ham and Eggs Queen and a Cohn Pone and Pot Likker Queen or a Cheese Queen. Come on, you queen makers, get down to first principles and let us have queens of those things that are most important to us.

COLLEGE SENIORS are casting around for original themes for their graduation essays. I've thought up two pippins: "Our Todays and Yesterdays Are the Blocks with Which We Build," and "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy." Then there's another: "The World Lies Before Us; Let Us Go Forth and Conquer!"

MARY GRACE WRITES me the meanest note and says she doesn't believe me when I declare that I thought up that cute saying which fond papas and admiring teachers could repeat as having been said by their own darlings. That's the one about the cow having a cold and being liable to cofferdam head off. Mary Grace says she found that joke in an old scrapbook of her mother's. All right, Mary Grace, if you want to believe an old scrapbook instead of believing me, go ahead and see if I care. Scrapbooks are the most awful liars, Mary Grace, and if you are going to start believing everything they say you'll be wrong nine-tenths of the time.

But clothed in tissue
Softer than silk—

Of golden hue,
Beauty from heaven

THE ABNORMALLY TIRED CHILD.

"FREDDIE seems to be tired all the time." Some such remark is heard frequently by physicians who are called upon to examine large numbers of children. The complaint is not uncommon with youngsters between the ages of 4 and 14 years.

Most physicians recall little patients who fall into this category. The child may merely look tired but more often there has been a change from a bright, active boy or girl to one who is listless, who wants to "just sit," or who is even eager for bed.

We have all seen normally tired children. Ordinary fatigue follows indulgence in heavy play or other forms of exercise. This is not the type referred to. It is the child who is constitutionally tired and who perhaps but once or twice during the day will show any degree of alertness.

One often wonders if parents and school teachers realize the load carried by the nervous, anxious child while in school. A fair percentage, under the strain of school activities, of lessons that must be done, will begin to lose weight, become pale, and grow less and less able to perform their daily tasks. It is not that the mental exercises are beyond the capacity of the child, but it is the steady, insistent "must" that wears down nervous and physical forces.

School pressure can better be withstood later in life, perhaps during the high school or college period, and it is a wise parent indeed who recognizes wearing out factors and so regulates the child's progress that, although he may be a year older than the average for his grade, he is strong and well.

Many parents are disinclined to recognize nervous strain. Father wants his son to develop into an outstanding leader and will mistakenly insist the lad accept buffets that he can ill afford to take. Father may not realize that his son may have inherited from some remote ancestor a gentle, sensitive nervous system; one that must be guarded and shielded during the developmental years. Protect such a nervous system during its growth and it will become powerful and stable. If we permit injury at this time we need not wonder at the onset of psychoses and neuroses in later life.

Of course, certain organic conditions must be considered. One of the most frequent causes of exhaustion lies in a disordered digestion. With this may be included constipation. The hemoglobin or the red cells may be low, or there may be an occasional afternoon temperature. Although tuberculosis should be thought of, this is rarely the cause. Because of the lack of body resistance there may be infection of the nasal passages or of the throat that will account for sufficient absorption to bring on a temperature. All of this vanishes as soon as the resistance of the body has been raised by added rest.

As in adults, too much fat means an overload of the muscular system, and we can understand why an obese youngster complains of fatigue after slight exertion. The boy who gets out of breath quickly after a short run is probably spending as much energy as the lad of normal weight who runs five times the distance.

The remedy lies in more careful attention to rest, to a lightening of home and school tasks, to more food or better food. The child who eats daintily, who does not possess a voracious appetite, may be perfectly normal but he may have a digestive tract that will not easily care for normal quantities of food. He is inclined to visit the cooky jar or the jam pot. This means that he should have four or five meals a day of modest amounts, rather than the standard three meals normal in size. Appetite is a wise guide. But few children will require a tonic designed to whip up appetite.

As Sir James Paget says: "You will find that fatigue has a larger share in the promotion or transmission of disease than any other single casual condition you can name."

POLYPS IN NOSE.

A. F. writes: Forty years ago I had some polyps removed from my nose. Last March I had some more removed. Is there anything I could use to stop these growths from reforming? What causes them?

REPLY:

Polyps are outgrowths of the mucous membrane of the nasal passages. They are gelatinous in structure and are usually filled with a mucoid material. Sometimes they contain a large number of blood vessels and considerable fibrous tissue. No direct relationship to bacteria has been traced. The cause of their growth is not entirely clear, although the chief factor may be chronic irritation. They are usually found in adults and frequently occur in crops like bunches of grapes.

To prevent recurrence following their removal the base of the polyp is sometimes cauterized and this procedure is followed by good nasal hygiene, keeping the nasal passages clear of irritating substances and using a drop or two of bland oil at night [either sterile liquid petrolatum or some ointment that is slightly medicated with menthol and a tiny amount of adrenalin]. As a rule, nature keeps the nasal passages clean by providing a considerable secretion of mucus.

BLOOD VESSEL TUMOR.

K. M. writes: Will you write on dilated blood vessels and blood vessel tumor? I have been told the only cure is the electric needle. If one has been removed is it likely that others will crop out on the body?

REPLY:

Birthmarks are called nevi. A true blood vessel tumor, however, is called an angioma. Both are caused by masses of blood vessels that have dilated and enlarged and hence replace tissues that should be present. Removal of either type should be carefully supervised by a competent physician. The electric needle, the injection of hot water or alcohol, and certain other chemicals have all been used. X-ray and radium have been recommended, as well as surgical removal followed by a skin graft. There is no general tendency to recurrence.

Small hemorrhages may occur under the skin in various disease conditions, such as purpura hemorrhagica. These are not blood vessel tumors and usually absorb after a time.

PHAGE FOR ACNE.

Miss J. G. writes: Will you tell about the phage treatment for acne, which you mentioned in your article?

REPLY:

The use of bacteriophage is advocated for the relief of chronic infections of various types. Its use in the treatment of boils, carbuncles, and in some cases of acne has aroused considerable interest among physicians. Any good physician can employ the particular phage needed in your case.

WARRANTY DEED.

Chicago, May 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"The party of the first part hereby covenants and agrees to convey and assure to party of second part, in fee simple and free of all incumbrances by a good and sufficient special warranty deed, the following described premises . . ." I am the party of the second part. How does the special warranty deed affect me? M. V.

This wording is commonly used where the vendor is a trustee or holds the title in some other representative capacity, and he gives a warranty only against acts clouding the title by him as trustee. As a practical matter, it is more like a quitclaim deed than a warranty deed.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Chicago, May 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A has a judgment note on B's property, but B's property is now under [1] government loan and B did not mention anything about A's judgment note to the loan company. 2. What can A do about this judgment note? Can he still make a lien or do anything else to A's property? Also, A has been paying a few years on B's taxes. What can be done on this matter? C. G.

1. It is not clear whether you mean the HOLC or some private corporation. It would be the general practice of any such agency to have the title examined before placing their new mortgage on the property and to insist that all liens be cleared so that the new mortgage would be a first mortgage. It seems probable that you have made some mistake as to the facts. If you mean that A has not taken judgment on his note, this would explain the situation since the note alone would not be a lien.

2. If he has not taken judgment, he could take a judgment now which would be subordinate to the first mortgage. His position then would be similar to that of the holder of a second mortgage.

AUTO PARKING.

Chicago, May 6.—[Friend of the People.]—An auto salesroom recently opened on our corner and the owners have proceeded to park their second hand cars all along the sidewalk and extending into the street. They also park parallel with the sidewalk clear down to the alley under the elevated structure, making it impossible for drivers of trucks coming out of the alley to see trafic coming from the east. Such a condition is dangerous where many children must pass by on their way to school. There is a safety zone right in front of the store and on the lamp posts are the regulation signs "No parking here at any time" and these signs are ignored entirely. J. G. S.

Officers assigned to investigate this complaint report that the automobile sales agency was ordered to remove all autos from the parkway and sidewalks, which was done. Assurance was given that there would be no further cause for complaint.

The DEBUNKER By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

The gorilla long has been described by explorers as a deadly beast, always beating its breast, roaring, and killing men who dared to come near. C. Akeley, in his book, "In Brightest Africa," says these animals really are indifferent to the presence of man and sometimes are inquisitive enough to come quite close. He says accounts of the ferocity of gorillas have been written from imagination in order to provide the necessary element of "danger" to exploration.

ARMOUR INSTITUTE ARCHITECTURE.

Chicago, May 8.—I am rather surprised at the editorial on "Beauty and Utility" which appears in this morning's TRIBUNE. Realizing that in case we succeeded in moving to the near north side we should be neighbors of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, I gave Al Chase all of the material that we had pertaining to the proposed move, including a student study which had been prepared in the process of formulating our ideas. I explained to Mr. Chase with great care that this was not the building that would be built, but was merely a suggestion as to how the lake front could be utilized.

As such there was no particular reason for asking him not to publish it. The captions which he put on the picture last Sunday made it appear just what it was. In these circumstances I am at a loss to know how your editorial department could have misconstrued the facts.

In a booklet which we are preparing the suggestion is made that we proceed in the way THE TRIBUNE did in building the Tribune Tower, namely: By an architectural competition. Whatever our procedure we shall certainly utilize the best architectural talent we can find in arriving at plans for any future buildings.

THE REAL FORGOTTEN MAN.

Chicago, May 7.—Millions of us poor people have no place to put our savings except in life insurance policies or the savings bank. We can't own homes because we move to whatever place we can find work and move often. As our savings are in dollars, it is easy to see that inflation is simply confiscation of our savings. Unfortunately most of us are too stupid to recognize our enemies. I believe they are Coughlin, Hearst, Townsend, and all congressmen who vote for printing press money. These people seem to want to enrich the large holders of real property at the expense of us poor people that have a few dollars saved for old age. I have come to the conclusion that thrift is folly and that my class is not represented in congress because we aren't organized in a voting bloc. Why don't the life insurance people organize us against the inflationists instead of sitting supinely by while the investments they sold us are threatened? H. P.

THE OBELISKS.

Oak Park, Ill., May 2.—Mrs. West is under a misapprehension as to several details regarding "Cleopatra's Needle." To begin with, the gift of the British nation was made in 1819, but not until 1877 did the obelisk start on its journey. It was lost in the Bay of Biscay during a storm, but was finally recovered, reached London, and was erected about a year after it had left Egypt. Its twin was presented to the United States.

Mohammed Ali, donor of the Needle to Britain, in 1831 presented to Louis Philippe another obelisk of the same type, but eight feet higher and a third heavier, which originally stood before a temple in Thebes. It is called the Obelisk of Luxor, and commemorates the deeds of a monarch who lived two centuries or so later than the one who erected the twin obelisks of Heliopolis, but it is quite as authentic and historically important, anything but "synthetic."

OAK PARKER.

TRIBULATIONS OF OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, May 5.—Five months ago a tenant of mine subleased my house to a man who had a good job. About two weeks after this man rented the house he quit his job of his own accord. He had worked for this firm for nineteen years and was supposed to have received $1,000 out of a pension fund from his employers. In less than two months this man was on the relief rolls. I have had $15 rent from him in the three months he has been on the relief rolls, and I understand that he owes the man that he rented my house from some $63 for coal. A neighbor offered him a steady job, but this man refused it, saying that he could get more from the relief. Other neighbors have offered him work at 50 cents an hour, but he has said that he would not work for that amount. However, the money is not the worst part of the situation, as he has seemingly tried to destroy my property. He has cut down a tree without my permission, broken windows, driven over a lawn that took me years to cultivate, broken the furnace and done other small damage. When I complained to him about the destruction I was insulted and threatened with such words as "to wait and see what was going to happen to me" and that my house was the "worst old shack that they had ever lived in." I was supposed to be a capitalist because for fifteen years I have saved and gone without many pleasures and some necessities to acquire this property. This man's lease ran out the 30th day of April and he will not move. I understand there is nothing I can do about the destruction as he has no money. Does a man have to have money to be a decent citizen? I am supposed to throw him out, which will cost money, and put him onto some other landlord who in turn will have to lose money and spend more money to get rid of him again, as there doesn't seem to be any law to take care of this kind of man. It seems to me the only thing left for good old fashioned Americans who have worked and saved to establish a country like this is to turn over their property and their country to these people to destroy completely. Certainly they cannot continue to exist with nothing to protect them from this kind of people. C. B.

REFORM VERSUS RECOVERY.

Chicago, May 6.—The mellifluous voice of the President in his recent "Fireside Talk" in sedative accents was an apparent defense of policies of questionable value in a supposedly democratic form of government and an attempt to secure public backing for certain bills, originated not by congress but by the administration, which certainly should be seriously debated, if not entirely defeated.

We have had enough of reform, new deals, planned economies, more abundant life, federal interference, and dictatorship. What is needed for prosperity is a return to honest private operation and control of industry, encouragement of individual initiative, and the natural operation of the laws of supply and demand. The sovereignty of the states should not be curtailed by federal burocracies or administrative edict. The present trend is dangerous to our established form of government and to our existing institutions and business. It retards recovery. An honest effort to carry out the platform on which the President was elected would under the circumstances be welcomed by level headed Democrats and Republicans alike.

DISABILITY CUTS BLAMED AS VET LEAPS TO DEATH

Son of W.Va. Ex-Governor Kills Self in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., May 10.—[Special.]—Albert B. White Jr., 45, son of former Gov. A. B. White of West Virginia and a grandson of a former president of Purdue university, leaped to his death today from a window of the Hotel Statler here. He had been treated here for a mental and nervous disorder.

He left a note in which he called President Roosevelt his murderer. Identifying himself as a disabled emergency officer of the United States army, White said he had been dropped from compensation because of legislation affecting veterans, for which he blamed the President.

Insists He's Sane.

"Roosevelt, the arch enemy of the veterans, by order of Bernard Baruch, is my murderer as well as the murderer of hundreds of other victims not able to struggle on. May God forgive him for I cannot—not for my own case—but for hundreds of my buddies.

"This dying protest may be considered the ravings of a deranged mind, but I have been adjudged competent by the several government hospitals I entered.

"I have suffered too much and too long to attempt to go on. I will not lose my mind, which the doctors admit is clear now.

"I was directly service-connected, but dropped from retirement first and then compensation. God pity the country in the next war if the service-connected disabled are to be treated as in this one."

In the letter he told of undergoing 48 operations, the first of which were performed during the war. A St. Louis physician said White was under treatment here the latter part of last summer for eye trouble. He returned to his home in Parkersburg, W. Va., last fall and came here again last month for treatment of intestinal trouble.

He had registered at the hotel as C. R. Watson of Columbus, O., explaining in a note that he had used an alias because he was "afraid the hospital would take me" if the correct name appeared.

Father Tells of Illness.

In Parkersburg his 79 year old father said he knew the veteran had been ill in a St. Louis hospital for some time. The former governor, a native of Cleveland, O., was for many decades a leader in business affairs as well as Republican politics.

H. POPPENHUSEN FUNERAL TODAY; BURIAL ROSEHILL

Funeral services for Herman A. Poppenhusen, 60 years old, retired electrical engineer, who died May 8, will be held this afternoon at his home at 5952 Park place, Hammond. Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. today in Rosehill cemetery chapel.

Mr. Poppenhusen was born in Flushing, N. Y., on Jan. 4, 1875. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1896 and with his brother, the late Albert Poppenhusen, founded the Green Engineering company of Chicago, manufacturer of power house equipment. Herman Poppenhusen was vice president and general manager of the concern until 1923 when it was sold to the International Combustion Engineering company and he retired.

Mr. Poppenhusen is survived by his mother, Mrs. Caroline Poppenhusen of the Orrington hotel, Evanston; three daughters, Mrs. Carl Bauer, with whom he lived; Mrs. Humphrey Grylls and Miss Clara, both also of Hammond, and a brother, Attorney Conrad H. Poppenhusen.

MSGR. SPALDING OF ALTON, ILL., IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Alton, Ill., May 10. — (AP) — Msgr. Edward L. Spalding, 72, of Alton died at St. Joseph's hospital here last night of a heart attack which followed an illness of three years. He had spent almost 48 years in the priesthood.

During the time between the death of Bishop James J. Ryan in 1923 and the consecration of the Rev. James Griffin as bishop of Sprinfield, to which the see of the Alton diocese had been changed, Father Spalding administered the duties of bishop of the diocese.

He continued as rector of SS. Peter and Paul's cathedral and as vicar of the diocese. He also had the rank of pronotary and domestic prelate, next to the bishop.

W. J. Ross, Formerly Bank Employe, Is Dead

ANISE SLATTERY, LONG A TEACHER IN CHICAGO, DIES

Funeral services for Miss Anise Slattery, 6447 Wayne avenue, retired Chicago teacher who died in her home Thursday after an illness of seven weeks, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today in St. Ignatius church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Miss Slattery was born in Onarga, Ill., and began teaching in Chicago in 1892. Her first position was in the Haven school. For many years before her retirement two years ago because of ill health she was a teacher in the Wells school, where she was assistant principal in the closing years of her service.

Throughout her career Miss Slattery was identified with the work of national, state, and local teachers' organizations. She was formerly chairman of the Elementary Teachers' General council. Three sisters survive.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Youngsters and oldsters appear to have the same radio favorites. A poll conducted for the sponsors of Ruth Etting by an impartial survey organization among representative high school, college, and adult listeners showed that their choices were practically identical despite differences in age. The survey covered a dozen university campuses, including Northwestern, Illinois, and Wisconsin. The high schools were scattered across the eastern half of the country. In all 7,103 personal interviews were made.

All three groups had Jack Benny first on their list and Eddie Cantor and Joe Penner among their first five. In addition, the high schoolers named Fred Allen and Fred Waring; the collegians, Casa Loma orchestra with Walter O'Keefe and Annette Hanshaw and Fred Allen, and the older listeners, Show Boat, and Amos 'n' Andy.

Cantor	510	629	653	1,792
Penner	494	697	405	1,596
Casa Loma	255	821	202	1,278
Allen	324	601	287	1,212
Vallee	274	598	277	1,149
Waring	303	592	193	1,088
Show Boat	141	257	510	908
Amos 'n' Andy	117	237	385	739
Wayne King	124	426	112	662

Note that Wayne King rates much higher in the college group than he does with the high school and adult groups. Considerable difference was manifested in regard to classical music. High school and general public practically ignored the New York Philharmonic, while 238 college students mentioned it.

The vote for popular male singers shows Bing Crosby an easy winner in all three classifications. Among adults Frank Parker seems to have a strong following. The figures:

Parker	182	251	328	761
Tibbett	67	294	239	600
Lanny Ross	108	125	286	519

The next five were Dick Powell, Morton Downey, Frank Munn, Lee Bennett, and Eddie Cantor.

Ruth Etting was first among the songstresses. High school and college folk preferred her, but the choice of the older group was Grace Moore. The vote:

Moore	175	201	307	743
Kate Smith	120	141	243	504
Hanshaw	100	235	119	483
Hilliard	154	129	100	383

The next five: Gertrude Niesen, Jessica Dragonette, Lily Pons, Jane Froman and Gladys Swarthout.

Guy Lombardo came out ahead in the dance band classification with all three groups. But Wayne King was not far behind. The youngsters and adults couldn't agree on Casa Loma orchestra. The boys and girls like their music hot, it seems. The figures:

King	441	943	522	1,906
Waring	484	699	613	1,796
Casa Loma	370	856	285	1,498
Vallee	204	263	465	932

The next five bands: Jan Garber, Paul Whiteman, Don Bestor, Ben Bernie and Ray Noble, a comparative newcomer in America. He came over from England last winter.

After the poll was completed Ruth Etting was asked about her favorites. They are Sherlock Holmes, Amos 'n' Andy, Fred Waring and Walter Winchell.

FIRE LIEUTENANT SHOT BY MISTAKE DIES IN HOSPITAL

Fire Lieutenant John P. Walsh, who was shot early Thursday by a Chinese laundryman, died of his wound yesterday at the West Side hospital. Lieut. Walsh, who was 37 years old, lived at 6328 North Claremont avenue. He was married and the father of five children, one of whom was born less than two weeks ago.

Shortly after midnight Thursday morning Lieut. Walsh, with truck company No. 39, answered an alarm of fire at 1501 Harrison street. Going to the rear he knocked on the door of a laundry at 1503 West Harrison street to warn the occupants of the blaze.

Mistaking the knock for the attempts of a burglar to enter, Goon Sing, the laundryman, fired through the door, one shot hitting Walsh.

The inquest into the lieutenant's death was continued yesterday for further investigation. Funeral services will be held Monday at St. Henry's church, Devon and North Hoyne avenues, and burial will be in All Saints cemetery.

From an appropriation made annually by the city council for the benefit of the families of policemen and firemen killed in the line of duty a $10,000 trust fund will set up for Mrs. Walsh and the children. In addition she will have a monthly income of about $175 from the firemen's pension fund, plus $10 a month for each of the children. Mrs. Walsh's income from the pension fund will continue at the rate of three-fourths of the lieutenant's salary until he would have been 57 years of age, twenty years hence. The payments to the children stop when they become 18 years old.

THRONGS ATTEND N. Y. SERVICE FOR SENATOR CUTTING

New York, May 10.—(AP)—The body of Senator Bronson M. Cutting of New Mexico, who was killed in an airplane crash last Monday, was buried in the family plot in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, today.

Funeral services, attended by many of the country's notables, were conducted in the afternoon at St. James' Protestant Episcopal church.

Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President; Mayor F. H. La Guardia, and others, joined with Senator Cutting's colleagues in congress and friends from New Mexico in paying final tribute to the statesman, who left his native Brooklyn as a youth to seek health in the west.

Approximately 1,000 persons attended the church services and an additional 1,000 were gathered outside.

Among those at the services were Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Mrs. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador; Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, and Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Reid.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Young People to Enjoy Party at Wayne Club

Plan Dutch Treat Affair at Dunham Woods.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT is becoming a custom at this time of the year for invitations to appear in the mail boxes of a hundred or more young people in Chicago and along the north shore bidding them to a Dutch treat party at a country club. Mysteriously the invitations arrive as if out of thin air. Magically they pair off each girl with a favorite beau. Unanimously the invitations are accepted.

One hundred and twenty-five such invitations will be received on Monday or Tuesday morning, bearing the promise of a gay afternoon and evening at the Dunham Woods Riding club in Wayne, on Saturday, June 8. The "B. Y. O. T. S." is organizing the party and a grand prize is offered to any one guessing its name. For a check for $3 mailed to Herbert Mathew Kelley any invitee is guaranteed free beer, a lavish dinner, dancing to a stupendous orchestra, and a colossal floor show with "40,000 blondes and 1 brunette."

The guests are invited from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until closing which will give plenty of time for the activities on the program.

Many Dancing Parties on Calendar Tonight.

With two large charity balls, a supper-dance at the Tavern and a dinner-dance for a bride-to-be on tonight's calendar, it would seem that all of society would spend the evening dancing. About seventy-five of the post-debutante and young married set will dine and dance at the Saddle and Cycle club at a party Miss Caryl Bloomingston and Mr. and Mrs. William Fellowes [Jean McVoy] are giving for Miss Grace Fitzmorris and John W. Brittingham, who are to be married next Saturday.

The Lighthouse Volunteer Aids are giving a supper-dance at the Drake hotel for the benefit of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind. Miss Barbara Fortune is in charge of table reservations and Miss Betty Brawley is president of the aids. Mrs. Charles S. Connell [Barbara Graf] is chairman of the committee that has arranged the entertainment.

The other charity ball will be in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel and the Infant Welfare society will be the beneficiary. The Oak Park and River Forest Juniors and Junior auxiliary are giving the party which gives promise of being the largest that these organizations ever have given. Mrs. Harry N. King and Mrs. Edward A. Fox are co-chairmen of the ball committee and Mrs. Harry Goelitz Jr. and Mrs. Thomas Niles are in charge of table reservations.

Among those who will give cocktail or dinner parties before the ball are the Telfer MacArthurs, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Hakes, the George W. Wallericks, the junior Robert Cantwells, the Paul Chapmans, the Harry Kings, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden R. Mills, the Robert B. Bartons, the Edward Foxes, Judge and Mrs. Frank Righeimer, and Mr. and Mrs. William Goelitz.

The Tavern will give a supper-dance tonight for Miss Helen Hayes, the star of "Mary of Scotland." Miss Hayes, Mrs. Charles MacArthur in private life, will be at the table of the club president, William C. Boyden, and among those who will entertain guests are the Alfred MacArthurs, the Charles H. Chadwicks, the Alfred Ettlingers and the John Roots. Mr. and Mrs. Root are having a cocktail and dinner party first in the new Morrison Cocktail lounge which Mr. Root designed.

Two Reject Bids to Yale Societies.

There is news every year in the names of the young men who accept bids from the secret societies at Yale, but there's more news this morning in the names of two young Chicagoans who rejected these bids. When the annual tapping was held last night in the court of Branford college, Robert Hall McCormick III. turned down an invitation to become a member of Wolf's Head and Henry Noyes Barkhausen rejected bids from Book and Snake, Berzelius, and Wolf's Head, an unprecedented action on the part of an undergraduate.

Among those who were tapped and accepted were Richard J. Barr of Cherry Hill, Joliet, son of State Senator and Mrs. Richard Barr, Garfield King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Joseph T. Ryerson Jr., Fred W. Fairman Jr., Henry A. Gardner Jr., and Fred K. Stewart of Evanston.

Alexis W. Thompson, son of Major and Mrs. Victor Beaufort, former Chicagoans who now live in Georgia, was another tapped. Election to one of the six senior secret societies is considered one of the most important undergraduate social honors at Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk arrived in town quietly yesterday from Attending Navy Pier Boat Show

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Jane Hanchett of Evanston, who loves to sail with the summer breeze, was snapped on the Navy pier yesterday with Capt. John Anderson of the U. S. coast guard looking over a "bull's eye" sailboat entered in the annual boat and sport show which continues through tomorrow. Capt. Anderson, who is at the old Chicago station, has 35 years of service to his credit.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE story you probably read in the newspapers in March giving latest details of Baroness Eloisa de Wagner, the Galapagos Island woman, saying she was believed to be still alive, and that former Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania had been menaced with a revolver by a woman reported to have been the mysterious baroness, was a hoax. Details of the stop at Postoffice bay, Floriana, Galapagos Island, made by the S. S. Stella Polaris on which the Pinchots, the Donald MacPhersons of Winnetka, and Victor Elting of Chicago were passengers, are contained in a letter written home by a member of the party. Some of the passengers did go ashore at Floriana hoping to find trace of the baroness, but it was the dullest, hottest, most uninteresting stop of the journey. They were late getting back to the boat, to the irritation of the fellow passengers sweltering in Postoffice bay waiting for them. So they invented a fanciful tale, which was narrated at an open meeting of the "Travel club." The trail they had followed across the island, with Mr. Pinchot leading the way and Victor Elting right behind, the finding of the white silk fragment, the woman with the pearl-handled revolver who threatened Mr. Pinchot; and the finding of the cabin and the twenty-four packing cases filled with monogrammed French lingerie, reported in the news dispatches, all were invented and narrated. Mrs. Pinchot added the final touch about the eighteen notches on the bed post, one freshly cut. A newspaper correspondent aboard the boat mailed the story to an editor, and it was released by a press service. The MacPhersons and Mr. Elting are due home today after a trip around the world.

Daly	Gaylord Pendleton
Flynn	Francis Ford
Madame Betty	May Boley
The Lady	Grizelda Harvey

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

There are fools and fools!

Some DON'T do "such" 'cause they love HER too much. Others reverse the order. Gypo Nolan loves his Katie so much that he informs on a pal with a price on his head. Gypo does it because he wants the twenty pounds reward. He WANTS the twenty pounds in order that he may keep his girl off the streets.

The locale of this story is Ireland. Time—that of the rebellion. And the poor, refuddled Judas who snitches to the authorities does it in an hour of sheer panic, caused by the fear that hunger will drive the woman he loves into the arms of other men.

"The Informer" paints a grimly powerful picture of a soul distraut.

With the reward in his pocket, and the man he had betrayed lying dead, realization of what he's done seeps into the liquor-befogged consciousness of Gypo. . . . He buys drinks for all. . . . He attends the wake of Frankie McPhillip, who had trusted him, and makes a scene there. . . . Frankie's mother and sister don't suspect him—for hadn't Gypo been their darling's good friend . . . ?

But keen-eyed, tight-lipped men are observing the suddenly fundful and munificent Nolan. Quietly, relentlessly members of the organization to which he's been traitor close in on him. His dull wits, distracted by the whip of his conscience, make him no match for those who suspect him, and whose suspicions grow into certainty as the big fellow frantically—in his desire for companionship, light, music — ANYTHING that will keep him from thinking—throws his unaccustomed money to the winds. . . .

Katie? Why, she hadn't meant what she'd said—about being untrue! When a girl's starving she's apt to say anything. . . . She's out of the picture till all but a few pounds are spent. These she flings from her in horror—as she learns their meaning. . . . She understands, though, how and why Gypo had come to do what he did—and rushes to the rescue of her man. Too late . . . ? Well—see the picture.

Victor McLaglen will astonish you in his rôle, so different from his usual ones. J. M. Kerrigan is marvelous as Gypo's fawning, brawling, fair weather friend. The acting's splendid all the way through and direction was of the best.

"The Informer" is brutal—but it's life.

Can you take it?

See you tomorrow!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

One of the most perfect of daytime fragrances for the fastidious woman who loves scents is a liquid which might be described as a cross between perfume and cologne, the product of a great French house.

You may have guessed by now that we have a great weakness for perfume. Well, so be it, and no apologies, either! But, as we have frequently remarked in this column, perfume is one of those things of which you must have just enough and not too much. For that reason we are greatly in favor of the idea developed by one house of giving us a scent that is neither toilet water nor perfume, but captures the good qualities of both.

Light but lasting, you are never in danger of deluging the atmosphere with your favorite fragrance, and that's a godsend to those of us who don't always manage the light touch demanded by a really concentrated perfume. On the other hand, there is plenty of the essential oil present so that the scent lingers with you throughout an entire day without reenforcing, and to those of us who are inclined to be forgetful souls and leave our little purse sized flacons on the dressing table or in our "other" purse this, too, has decided advantages.

The aromas presented in this manner are several, one of the nicest of which is light and fresh and somewhat dainty in character, and should appeal to older women who are inclined to avoid the ultrasophisticated, or to sweet young things of 'teen age.

In fact, we would recommend it for daytime wear for almost any one, now that spring is in the air and the lighter fragrances seem more suitable.

We don't think any one will quarrel with us when we make the pretty broad statement that the house offering this delectable lotion, that is a cross between a cologne and a perfume, just about leads the field in the matter of magnificent packaging. Every offering of this house is presented in a truly elegant manner. These bottles are like cut crystal jewels, definitly modernistic, with a square top of silver and black enamel. These liquids, which might be called "concentrated colognes," echo the fragrances of their perfumes, which are famous all over the world—products of one of the greatr French couturieres.

If this all sounds very elegant it is because we meant it to, but we don't want you to get the idea that the prices are 'way beyond your buying range. You will be pleasantly surprised when you pay your money and take your choice of these glorious fragrances.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Chenille Veil Add Last Touch to Spring Hat

Dots Come in Contrasting or Matching Colors.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Great big fluffy balls of colored chenille make the best veils of the newest fashion headlines. Black veils with an upper and lower border of contrasting chenille dots are doubled and tied around the outer brims of sailor hats and, as if by magic, your quiet every day hat becomes as romantic as a Spanish señorita's—especially if you wear it slanting at a dashing angle across the eyeline. Black with firetruck red dots, black with startling snowy white dots, and for the colleens of Irish extraction, the huge green dots against the black.

There's a stunning sapphire blue with matching big blue dots all over the pattern. There are some lovely deep browns likewise spattered with brown dots, but the big excitement is over the glistening new arrivals of black veilings with small dots of either shiny white or black patent lether all over the stuff.

The shoppers who have gone mad over violet will find some violet veiling with tiny complexion dots of deep purple, too. If you are contrary and pass up the veiled hats you will go for the dashing bows of this dotted veiling that can be worn at the neckline or pinned with a glittering clip to the crown of your hat.

Don't be without a bit of lace or veiling. It's the smartest, most feminine bit of alure you can wear and everybody is using the stuff. Lovely fragile lace veils flutter down over brimmed picture hats of biscuit tan straw or over dazzling white linen or smooth straw, and over the newest heart breakers —those wide drooping brimmed hats made entirely of black lace.

THE SLEEPING CHILD

By Alice Grant Rosman.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Fell scents romance when she sees Miles Buchanan meet Eleanor Chevening, returning from London, at the Fendon railway station. Miles has been forced through adversity to shut up most of the Priory, his inherited home. The girls of the Chevening family of Fendon Edge are pursuing careers, Pauline having had a play produced and now working on a period piece. Eleanor is studying medicine. Jenny, the youngest, runs a smart hat shop in Knightsbridge and gets engaged and disengaged now and then. Audrey, an orphaned second cousin, with a talent for design, has for 15 years been as a daughter to Anne and George Chevening, the girls' parents. Pauline uses Audrey's skill for her theater. The Chevenings have a small flat in London for the use of any of the family going to and fro. It is Audrey, however, not Eleanor, who claims Miles' romantic interest. Miles and Geoffrey Burton are partners in a stock breeding venture. Albert King, wealthy newcomer to Fendon, wants to buy the ruins of an ancient monastery on the Priory grounds. Audrey and Miles become engaged. Anne Chevening had been in love with Audrey's father, Hector Chevening. Her parents had broken up the romance and persuaded her to marry his cousin. Later Hector, a victim of the war and penniless, had brought his wife and child to visit the Chevenings, at George's invitation. Anne still loved Hector and knew he still loved her. Shortly after they left Hector shot his wife and himself. Neighbors had heard them quarrel. Audrey was in the next room, apparently asleep. No one ever spoke to her of the tragedy. Anne loved Audrey as her own child, but her sense of guilt was a barrier between them. Jenny returns home unexpectedly. Miles calls on his aunt, Miss Dorset, to tell her his news. George Chevening makes Audrey a gift of a thousand pounds.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

MISS DORSET DOUBLES.

The four Chevening girls had grown up to make their own interests and amusements in a large measure, to know the excitement of an extra shilling on their pocket money, to go simply clad, and to look to the future as a time in which they had a responsible concern.

Audrey, lying awake last night, had gone over in her mind with an ex-actitude that would have surprised her uncle, the question of her own earnings and how she could increase them for Miles, even to such details as the cost of petrol in comparison with the train fare to London. For if cheaper perhaps he would teach her to drive and lend her the car as convenience permitted. She must improve her work and widen her market, and here she sa· how the success of Paula's play would help her, if she could manage to please the important Miss Ffolett.

No wonder that her uncle's gift seemed like riches to her. Miles need not worry about curtains and furniture and clothes any more, even though these she knew had been the least of his real anxieties. Since he had been expecting to marry her without a penny, how marvelous to have a thousand pounds to bring him! She longed to run down to the Priory and tell him at once, but work called her and he would be busy, too, with this visit to his aunt in prospect. "I'm wasting an awful lot of his time, poor darling," she thought, sitting down resolutely to the Queen and the Cardinal and harnessing her happy thoughts to their adornment.

It is probable that her uncle would have given the news to Miles when he appeared in a proper and formal manner but for his wife's intervention. Before he could call the young man away, she said:

"Miles, we're rich."
"Terribly rich," murmured her lover.

"If you're going home, Miles, do persuade Audrey to walk so far with you. She has been indoors at these drawings all day, and needs some fresh air."

Miles, needless to say, had played for nothing else, walking over in the late afternoon instead of calling as he drove home, and wishing the world was not so full of people. A desert island, on which was only Audrey, would have suited his mood to perfection, in fact.

"Yes, I'd love a walk," she responded at once to her aunt's tactful suggestion, and set off with him, hatless, taking the direction of the wood which was shorter—or the longer—way, according to the pedestrian's interest in nature and other matters.

Miles exclaimed as the kindly trees encircled them at last: "My darling, it's seemed like years. I thought I should never get you to myself."

Audrey said: "Yes, I know, and I have such news for you, too. Miles, we're rich."

"Terribly rich," murmured her lover, kissing her eyes, and in spite of belonging to the sex from whom a proper sense of money is not withheld, thinking only of the riches which he had in his arms.

In due course he was persuaded to listen to her news and rejoice in a good fortune so unexpected. To him it meant at least just so much more protection for her, but he did not tell her so and spoil her pleasure in bringing this money to him, beyond saying fondly, "You'd give away your darling scarlet head."

"It isn't scarlet, color blind."

"Well, what is it then? You must instruct me. This is an important matter."

"O, a funny shade. It just missed being puce. Wasn't it lucky? Not that I like it. I've always wished it was proper Chevening hair."

"Unwish that at once," he demanded indignantly because of a wistfulness in the last words.

And she laughed and solemnly unwished it, being in a state of mind where no shadows could more than touch her lightly and pass.

They went down through the woods where the birds were singing in the twilight already begun in this quiet place; and then came back by the road under a pale gold sky where rooks were wheeling. Mike, who had appeared suddenly at their heels from nowhere, attended them like a faithful duenna, stopping when they paused, to look up at Audrey with benevolent eyes. She belonged to him, he had no doubt of it, and this had been a good summer because she was at home. There would be no "desert island" within reach of Fendon Edge from which Mike would be excluded, if he knew it.

George Chevening's gift did in fact inspire Miss Dorset to do her part, not because he could really teach her anything about money, a subject on which she had always been particularly shrewd, but for purely feminine reasons, none the less—because she was a bridge player and could never resist an apt phrase; because Pol Borgia had romped home at 20 to 1 with Double Dick a good second, the kind of miracle to delight the sportsman in her [and so confounding to Miles who had tried to put her off]; and lastly it may be because in these two young people before her, about to begin an adventure she had missed, she saw something real, against the futilities with which she had come to fill up her days.

Miss Dorset was neither sentimental nor cynical about marriage; it succeeded or it failed, a thing to take or leave, in her opinion. She had left it, and a hundred different reasons had gone to the making of that mischance, if such it was. A spinster for more than eighty years, she had had too much force and spirit to live either an empty or a disappointed life. She had known a great many people, had seen them love, marry, sometimes run away, sometimes remain and die because love after all had been misnamed, or blossom under it like a flower at the touch of the sun. She had seen tragedy and comedy, known affection, suffered loss, and all things had touched her in her time, but now she was old, and the past merely a pageant in which she had played a part. Yet here was a new pageant beginning under her eyes, under her roof; Miles, the last of her blood, Audrey, the child of a man for whom she had once had a warm affection, and she herself, a player still.

"So you are going to marry this rascal, are you?" she asked the girl, "though his roof leaks and he's as poor as charity?"

"But we're terribly rich really," was the reply. "Uncle George is giving us a thousand pounds."

"O, he is, is he? Then I'll double it," exclaimed the bridge player in Miss Dorset, and she sat down triumphantly to a chorus of exclamations.

"I say, Eliza, you are not serious?"

"O, Miss Dorset, that wasn't a hint, really and truly. Miles, I don't think we ought to let her."

Audrey was greatly distressed, but the last phrase sealed the gift inevitably, however inadvertent the promise may have been.

"Ought to let me, indeed? God bless my soul!" The old lady stared at this chit who presumed to take grandmotherly airs to her. "Am I a child in arms?" she inquired. "Am I at my age to see my only remaining relative marry with not a decent hearthstone or a crust of bread for his wife? Besides," she added more mildly now that she had successfully reduced the Priory to ruins, "I have some interest in you, let me tell you. Your father was an old flame of mine. What do you say to that?"

"Not really?"

"O, you were a gay young thing, I'm afraid, Eliza."

"Young? Nonsense, Miles. I was old enough to be the boy's mother. Gay, now that is an entirely different matter. It is easy enough to be gay when you are young, let me tell you, but it takes character in middle life, and genius at eighty," said Miss Dorset.

Charlie Ray on Comeback Trail as Film Actor

Minor Part Developed Into Feature Rating.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 10.—[Special.]—Charlie Ray, now playing a part in Fox's "Welcome Home," has become philosophical about all the troubles that beset some—bankruptcy, fadeout as a silent movie star, protracted illness, divorce—in the last five years. Why shouldn't he feel good as a comeback actor?

In "Welcome Home" Charlie started in the minor part of a village chamber of commerce secretary. But since he began the rôle the way he played it or else the natural sequence of happenings in the story suggested the increasing expansion of his rôle until now it has become one of the featured parts.

Charlie says: "What could they expect with a small town chamber of commerce secretary? He would be popping into everything in town and would be seen everywhere; at least all the small town booster secretaries in California are like that." At any rate the part launches Ray firmly on the movie comback route that Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, May Robson, Grace Moore, and W. C. Fields recently traveled so successfully.

Charlie's property and holdings around Hollywood at one time rated over a million dollars. But that was at his heyday in the silents about 12 years ago, before his financial adventure in self-producing and starring "The Courtship of Miles Standish." This film cost him practically everything in one of filmdom's monumental flops. After that trouble almost smothered him.

But that is past now. During his sickness, when too ill to work, Charlie began school courses on short story technique and has written thirty short stories. They are culled from the humorous, pathetic, tragic, and exciting experience of his extensive career in the theater and movies, and are to be published in a volume.

"One learns a lot besides who his true friends are," Charlie mused at the luncheon table in Fox studio restaurant. "One learns the importance and happiness that lie in simple things and that everything human always seems to reduce to a lowest common denominator in character. It's a great truth to learn and when a fellow has learned it he wouldn't trade it for the wealth he might have had which slipped away."

Ray's short stories are grouped under the title "Flowers for the Living." A theme that recurs in some of them notes the numbers of people who since 1929 "have thought of jumping out of windows." Charlie's stories infer that Charlie Ray, for one, learned the satisfaction in turning his back on the window sill.

Ray has a unique idea for popularizing his book. He has more than 15,000 addresses from devoted movie fan mail writers. He thinks 15,000 persons interested enough to write an actor whom they never saw, and keep writing him, ought to represent an unusual book market.

MOVIE CLOSEUP

"Mamma . . . I want to sit next to the cameraman. . . ."

Do you and your children ever wish you knew of a nice place to park them of a Saturday when you've all been shopping for hours? AND are sort of tired of each other? AND would like to go your separate ways for awhile before you finish up tag ends and start for home? Well, in a case like this there's no friend like your department store. Several of these maintain tiny theaters for children, which, several times each Saturday present movies, puppet shows, or other attractions guaranteed to keep the little folks happy.

SO—buy them a balloon or an all day sucker and leave them to enjoy themselves. Careful attendants will see that they come to no harm.

We'll be glad to tell you where these oases are if you care to call us up. The telephone number is Superior 0100. Mae Tinée.

The booklet, "Jellies and Preserves from Early Gardens," is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

So many nice people have been showering us with their interesting pet recipes lately that we feel like a pink-faced June bride. In fact, they've been coming so fast we've not even had time to try them all. Right soon, however, there's going to be another whole column devoted to passing them along. Better watch for it. Some of them sound perfectly elegant!

But that's off the track. Yep, today's Saturday, and Saturday means open forum in the kitchen. Mrs. T. D. starts us off with another request for ways to cook cabbage. Now, this trick isn't particularly new, but it does get away from the eternal rut of slaw and cabbage au gratin.

SOUTHERN WILTED CABBAGE.

4 slices bacon
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains black pepper
¼ cup vinegar
1 medium head cabbage
¼ cup minced parsley

Put the minced bacon in a cold skillet. Cook slowly until crisp, then add the sugar, salt, pepper, and vinegar. When hot, pour over the crisp, shredded cabbage and minced parsley, and serve immediately. Although this is warm when served, the cabbage keeps its crisp goodness.

Another recipe, now, for Miss R. H., who asks about a sauce to serve with fish, by the name of

SHRIMP MOUSSELINE SAUCE.

Make a white sauce of 2 tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of flour, 1 cup of milk, and salt and pepper to taste. Cook in a double boiler until thick and smooth. Then stir in a slightly beaten egg yolk and a half cup of cooked or canned shrimps, chopped fine. Add additional seasoning, if necessary, and a dash of lemon juice, and serve hot.

"What makes my cake crusts crack?" inquires Mrs. L. I. of Michigan. The butter cake recipe she submits for inspection appears to be a good standard one, otherwise we might question whether her cakes contain too much flour or too little liquid, both of which may cause crust cracking. However, with that recipe, and assuming that she's a conscentious and accurate measurer, the trouble probably lies in too hot an oven. The rule is 350 degrees Fahrenheit, or a moderate oven for a plain butter cake like her recipe.

That brings up another possible cause of trouble in all of our baking problems. If your oven is blessed with a regulator, and you still have failures or almost failures that point to wrong temperature trouble, it's time to do a little testing. Get yourself an oven thermometer [we know some good reliable ones that aren't at all expensive] and check up on the regulator.

If you set the dial or marker for 350 degrees and the thermometer registers only 300, then you've run down a maddening source of error. After that all you have to do is [no, not buy a new stove, unless you're really in the mood], to set the regulator for a bit higher or lower than your recipes state, according to which way and how much it is in error.

Equipment talk makes us want to write about those blessed asparagus cookers that made their public appearance to the waiting world some months ago. They aren't new, but women are finding new uses for them all the time. [You remember, of course? Those handy double boiler-ish arrangements that cook the firm bottoms of the stalks right down in the boiling water and let the tender tips get the benefit of only the steam?]

People are cooking spaghetti and macaroni in them now just to simplify still further our already simplified kitchen routine. The perforations in the bottom of the upper section let the spaghetti cook tender in boiling water. Then, when it's done, all you have to do is lift up, and the spaghetti drains itself without your having to reach for a colander. Sounds a bit childish in print, but then anything that saves getting out and washing an extra pan is worth the meditation. Another nice thing about the cookers, in case you're not yet familiar with them, is that you can buy the top part separately, if you already have a two quart double boiler base with which to use it.

Art Exhibition of Ropp School Arouses Praise

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two exhibitions of interest have opened within a few blocks of each other. In the Allerton gallery are paintings by E. R. Smyth, Erel Osborn, L. G. Michaelson, and George Charney, the four men producing a gay, decorative and essentially springy effect.

The annual exhibition of students' work opened yesterday in the Hubert Ropp School of Art, 100 East Ohio street, and it is a most intriguing show.

It is not an everyday occurrence to find an ogre of one's youth transformed into a genial acquaintance through the passage of time, yet just such a transformation is made visible in the finding of water colors and oils by Robert P. Bates, for many years principal of the Boys' Chicago Latin school, in the current Ropp exhibit.

Mr. Bates has a definite talent in painting and a whimsical humor which carries him far beyond any setback a late start at the game might impose upon him. His "Memories of the Fourth Presbyterian Church" is a gem. The backs of the congregation are tuned to religion and the atmosphere of the sketch is enthusiastically familiar. Many will recognize like moments as they think back. Mr. Bates stirs memories with a kindly touch.

There are a number of talented pupils on whose performances the school may congratulate itself. Rowena Fry is outstanding [her pictures having been accepted in Art institute shows, she might almost be considered in the professional class] and William O'Reilly does exceptionally fine work. Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson has a stunning figure of a lone soldier gazing into the distant hills, spade in hand.

Grace Freeman has a richly decorative still life. Sara Field shows a vigorous arrangement, purposeful and colorful. Mrs. Paul Moore has a charming, delicate touch, her lady with a cat is romantically French. Mrs. P. J. Sarna and Margot Huff are worth watching. Their differing techniques are both fascinating.

The Allerton gallery exhibition is worth seeing. Michaelson shows a few capital horse and rider sketches. The fantastic tempera sketches by Erel Osborn are irresistible, fresh, unique, and whimsical. George Charney is more serious, his marines are worth while. The water colors by E. R. Smyth are exceptionally good, probably the finest things in the show.

Variety in Use of Perfume Is Pep for Spirit

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a chat I had with a Russian perfumer not long before his last, fatal illness, I gathered that he approved of the French woman's way of remaining true to one perfume. At least, he thought it must be rather confusing to a woman confronted with a half dozen or a dozen different scents as to which to wear. The French woman, he told me, would give away her Christmas perfume gifts if they were not in accord with her own perfume choice. But, he added, the French woman is uniquely clever in the way she manages a perfume that is definitly and distinctly hers. She does not want her perfume to smell like another woman's.

But it strikes me that a woman misses a great deal of fun if she refuses to delve into different fragrances. I think I like the American way best. Perhaps it is more in keeping with our changeable character, or experimental character, if you'd rather, to take a fling at the different scents.

A heavenly honeysuckle scent recently came to my notice. Carnation is having a vogue right now. The exquisite lilac odor would break down any American woman's loyalty to another single scent. A certain bouquet odor, sniffed recently, would send you scuttling cosmetic counterward with your last penny. Maybe not so many women are with me on the rose, but I love a rose perfume. And gardenia, although they tell me it is more a cold weather preference than in springtime or summer.

And sachets! What sachets you can tuck among your hankies and lingerie, later to open a drawer and draw back and give thanks that such scents are in the world. Personally, I don't think a lady should be required to be any more true to a scent than she is to a dressmaker, a shoemaker, or a breakfast cereal. A change now and then makes life so much more interesting.

a delayed honeymoon to Europe. They spent a few days in New York after landing there early this week, but as the former Mrs. Francis Johnson and Mr. Kirk came home a bit ahead of schedule all of their friends will be surprised to find them here. They are at the Ambassador East.

Later this summer, according to present plans, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk will go to California for a visit with Mrs. Kirk's nephews and nieces, children of her brother, the late Richard Nevins.

The Adlai E. Stevensons moved yesterday from their house at 1246 North State street to Lake Forest, where they will have the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors' house for the next month. Their plans beyond the middle of June are indefinite, but they will not return to town until Sept. 15, for Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fredericks have taken the State street house until that date.

Mrs. Curtis B. Munson is arriving in Chicago today on her way to Canada from a winter in Bermuda. Mr. Munson will join his wife here later, and they will go on to their home in the north. The former Edith Cummings will stay with her mother, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, who moved from her apartment out to her Lake Forest house early this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Farwell Winston are leaving Monday for New York and Atlantic City, where they will spend three weeks. They will go to the Foxcroft school in Middleburg, Va., for the graduation of their daughter, Anne, on June 3, and bring her home with them to Lake Forest.

William P. Sidley on Eastern Visit.

William Pratt Sidley is in Williamstown, Mass., spending the week-end with President Tyler W. Dennett of Williams college and Mrs. Dennett. Mr. Sidley is a trustee of the college. Dr. and Mrs. Dennett are giving a luncheon today for their guests, who are, in addition to Mr. Sidley, Prof. James Phinney Baxter III. of Harvard and Herbert J. Brown of Portland, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor and their daughter, Miss Helen Campbell Taylor, are leaving Monday to open their home, Plumsted, at Lenox, Mass., for the summer. Miss Taylor returned ten days ago from four months in Europe. She spent most of the time in Paris and Algiers.

Mrs. Charles Renshaw has gone to New York for a few days. Her son, Charles Jr., will join her there from the Hill school, where he is a student.

The William B. Storeys have returned to Chicago from their California home. They spent the winter in Egypt.

Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Donnelley, the John Wentworths, and Lawrence Callahan, who are now in Useppa, Fla., fishing for tarpon, have sent word that they are flying back to Chicago in time to be here for the miniature automobile races on May 19 at Soldiers' field that will benefit the Red, White and Blue club. They will occupy Mr. Donnelley's box. Other boxholders for the benefit are to be Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Gowenlock, Mrs. Charles Frankenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Fifield, Mr. and Mrs. James Coston, the Frank Berings, the Ernest Byfields, and Dr. and Mrs. Edward White.

Trinity Alumnae Hold Party Today.

Fashions for the youngest generation are going on parade this afternoon in the ballroom of the Drake hotel, when the local alumnæ of Trinity college at Washington have a benefit card party. During the tea hour the small daughters of some of the alumnæ are going to put on a style show all their own.

Some of the little Trinitarians who will act as models are the daughters of Mrs. Augustine J. Bowe, Mrs. Emmet Byrne, Mrs. Louis de Smet, Mrs. Jerome Flaherty, Mrs. Emil Hauser, Mrs. Lenox R. Lohr, Mrs. Thomas McNulty Jr., Mrs. Matthew Paisley, and Mrs. Weyland Sears. Mrs. Charles J. Holland of Wilmette is general chairman of the party, which will begin at 2 o'clock.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

REALIZING DUPLICATION.

Both sides are game in with 120 points. The Conservatives have 230 points above the line and have 1,400 points on the last two rubbers. The Aggressives have 60 points above the line. Mr. Aggressive [East] dealt today's hand, and opened the bidding with one club.

NORTH.

♠ J-9-7-5
♥ J-8-6
♦ 8
♣ J-10-7-6-3

South passed and Mrs. Aggressive correctly bid one heart. North passed. Mr. Aggressive showed his other suit by bidding two diamonds. West now gave a strong response of two no trumps. Despite his four primary tricks, East realized that no fit had been shown as yet in either of the partners' two long suits, hearts and clubs. The bidding indicated that East and West could probably take four diamond tricks, two clubs, and a spade. Unless West could manage to get two heart tricks before North and South set up their spades, three no trumps would probably be a bid contract. He therefore signed off by rebidding his club suit. West also recognized the weakness in the hand and gave a preference bid of three diamonds, which was passed all around.

Certainly with the high-card strength shown in both hands it would seem that three diamonds was a lay-down contract, but Mr. Aggressive had to play the hand very well to make it.

A small spade was opened. North took the ace and returned a spade. Mr. Aggressive took the trick in dummy and led West's singleton club, which he took with the ace in his own hand. He then laid down the king of clubs and discarded West's losing spade.

Now, instead of attempting to trump any losers in dummy, he led his singleton heart in order to establish a cross-ruff on the hand. North took the king of hearts with the ace. He knew what East was attempting to do, but he was unable to return a diamond without sacrificing a trump trick. His best lead was a small heart return, which East trumped.

Mr. Aggressive led a club and trumped with the ten of diamonds in dummy. North overtrumped with the jack and banged back a diamond, but by this time it was too late. East now held two diamonds in each hand, after taking the diamond return with the ace in his own hand. He led a spade—trumped it low in dummy, returned a heart and trumped it low in his own hand. He then led a club and trumped with the queen in dummy. The king of diamonds was the ninth trick. North and South made the ace of spades, the ace of hearts, and two trump tricks.

If East attempts to draw trumps at any time he cannot make the hand. If you see a fairly unusual distribution in your hand and dummy's, it is likely that the opponents' distribution is also unusual, so don't complain bitterly if you find all the trumps in one hand against you.

"You certainly played that beautifully," said Mr. Conservative. "It was a pleasure to watch you."

"I think I bid it even better," replied Mr. Aggressive happily. "Would you mind answering one question, however? Why is it that all my best hands net me only forty or sixty points?"

"After all, it isn't the point score," remarked Mrs. Conservative, recalling that her side was safely ahead. "It's the theory of the game. I'd rather make that hand than have a lay-down small slam."

"What liars we all are," answered Mr. Aggressive, as he cut the cards for the next deal."

"Columbian Star" Quilt Elaborate 9 Patch Design

Columbian Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The star Arcturus found its way to the quilt world during the 1933 Century of Progress, as the "Columbian Star" did in the 1893 exposition. The similarity in quilt blocks ends with the radiation of the beam of light. The "Columbian Star" is a pieced pattern, an elaborate nine patch design, as easy to make as it is beautiful.

Patterns of this design quilt are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Allow Husband Voice in Home Management

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What chance has a man to make suggestions in the running of his own home?" queries Bill.

Not much, I'm afraid, Bill. In the majority of cases the woman feels the home is her domain to rule with a free hand. She takes it as a matter of course that the husband hand over the pay check, and expects him to show his appreciation of her ability to manage the household, and compliment her on the arrangement and the smooth running of things generally.

Too many women overlook the fact that the man of the house might have some preferences. Although he isn't there during the day to enjoy the home in the same way she does, he does get a tremendous kick out of coming to a comfortable, cheerful home. It's restful and soothing, and that's what the busy man enjoys after a strenuous day at the office.

It stands to reason that he will receive a greater thrill if he feels he has been instrumental, even in a small degree, in the planning and arranging of the home. That is, if he is a man who shows some interest in such things. There are some men who are satisfied to leave everything to the women. But in the case of Bill, who wants to make suggestions and be included in the plans for the arranging of the home, it is the wise woman who will consult him and defer to some of his preferences.

If he wants a big easy chair in one particular corner, with a good reading light beside it, and a table upon which he can have his books and his smokes, let him have it. He'll be all the more anxious to get home to enjoy it.

Young Players Display Skill in Orchestra

School Festival Group in Annual Concert.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Chicago Children's Festival orchestra, appearing at Orchestra hall last night under the direction of Edwin Harris Bergh, was an astonishing spectacle, quite the most startling of its kind since the same organization appeared there a year ago. In course of time one becomes used to wondering at what youngsters can do in music, but here was an orchestra of something like 200 violins playing in good tune, in unison, and with a rather accurate idea of what makes a good attack, and all from the grade schools.

The red capes that they wore made a gay appearance on the stage; the music that they made was even gayer. There were other players besides the violinists—woodwinds, pianists, cellists, mandolins, banjos, what not, and a juvenile chorus up on the top row, but only the group of basses had come to high school age.

What made this concert the more astonishing was the fact that the instruction received from Mr. Bergh by which the program became possible was extra-curricular, all given after school hours.

Naturally they did not play symphonies. No one expected this. But they played a lot of bright, attractive music in the brightest sort of way, and, as said above, in tune and with a well developed sense of rhythm. Their concertmaster, Ruth Rubinstein, closing her service with the organization, showed in an obbligato that she is a highly competent young violinist. Another soloist, Leonard Stallman, played a piece called "Nimble Fingers" on the saxophone, illustrating not only the title but a first rate tone.

Elizabeth Moritz, pianist, played a program at Kimball hall last night which would seem to have been designed only for pianists. It began with the Brahms Sonata in C minor, closed with the Liszt Sonata in B minor, and in the interval between the two introduced the set of thirty-three variations that Beethoven wrote on a waltz by Diabelli.

It was an uncompromising list and an admirable performance. Few are better fitted to go through with such a program that Mme. Moritz. There is authority and assurance in every note she strikes. She would seem to have expert knowledge of everything in piano music, and she has a technic capable of everything with which to give her knowledge its full projection.

A highly agreeable program was presented at Fullerton hall yesterday afternoon by Dorothy Crost and Bernice Jacobson, duo-pianists, and Harold Van Duzee, tenor. Mr. Van Duzee has both voice and musicianship in presenting a conventional concert song, and a special gift of words and expression in putting over a song of light or humorous nature.

Miss Cross and Miss Jacobson are experts in two-piano performances, playing with an exactness and flexibility that make their numbers unfailingly charming.

Time Solves Many Problems of Child Rearing

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It is true, even though it may sound very platitudinous, that you need to get away from things to see them in their true light. We have said it before in this column and other people have said it in regard to other subjects, but it is a fact that it helps to get a perspective on things. Their true value in the whole picture can be seen better if we can step off and look at them.

To the woman who has watched her children grow into adolescence and has also been able to observe and study the lives of other children, the talk about perspective is not just words. She can see the whole picture of childhood and wishes that some one had comforted her when she was inexperienced—comforted her by telling her that many things that fret mothers, many problems that seem to have no solution clear up in the course of time.

This does not in the least mean that you can safely adopt a laissez-faire attitude. On the contrary, I believe you need to keep your mind working on the job, and to make every intelligent effort to clear up your child's difficulties, especially where you feel that they're at all serious.

But, having done this or while doing it, if results in a certain direction seem slow in coming, stir in a dash of faith, and say to yourself, "Perhaps time will take care of this."

I've seen many cases where time has been the only ally needed to bring about success, but where the parents were at times depressed and discouraged before their efforts, aided by the hidden work of nature, bore their eventual fruit. If some wise and friendly counsellor could have pointed this out to those disturbed parents it would have been a ray of light in the darkness and helped a lot.

If ever you find yourself in the slough of despair over some long continued and worrying phase of childhood, try to see it in perspective. Take heart and find comfort in the possibility that time—unbeknownst to you—may have a finger in your pie. It has in many.

CANZONERI WHIPS AMBERS; REGAINS TITLE

Complete Plans for Official Greeting.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Final preparations were made yesterday for the reception tomorrow evening in Garfield park, for the Italian boxing team, which will meet the Chicagoland Golden Gloves team at the stadium May 22. Richard Lenihan, chairman of the committee of the Garfield Park Business Men's association, predicted a crowd of 200,000 would greet the Italian boxers at the band stand south of Madison street. His prediction, of course, was based on good weather. In event of rain the reception will be postponed until Monday evening at 8:30.

The parade on Madison street tomorrow night will form at 7:15 o'clock and start moving shortly after that time. The grand marshal, William Harley, and his assistants, Julian T. Fitzgerald, Carl Stockholm, and Paul Marinangeli, promise that the mile march by several thousand members of the organizations will be completed by 8:30.

While the parade, in the center of which will be the Italian boxers in open cars, is advancing to Garfield park, the crowd at the band stand will be entertained by Armin Hand's band, the men's chorus from the Lawson Y. M. C. A., and the Chicago Civic chorus. Stage and screen stars also will be present.

Notables to Speak.

After the arrival of the parade, brief speeches of welcome will be made by civic and sports leaders including Thomas Courtney, states attorney, and Avery Brundage, chairman of the United States Olympic committee. John Pane Gasser, operatic singer, will also entertain the throng.

This will be the only public reception for the Italians and each of the fighters will be presented, as will the trainers of the team, Rolando Galletti and Mario Castelli, and Count Francesco di Campello, vice president of the Italian Boxing federation, who is in charge of the invading squad.

John Behr, Chicago coach, also will talk briefly.

The Italian boys will arrive tomorrow morning at Union station at 9:30 o'clock, daylight saving time, over the Pennsylvania from Washington, D. C., where they visited the Italian ambassador. No reception is planned at the station. The boys will be taken to church and from there to the Medinah club, scene of their training activities for the next ten days.

Chicago's Golden Gloves decided yesterday, after reading THE TRIBUNE'S account of the landing of the Italian champions, that they would not be satisfied with less than eight victories.

The Italians are too confident. They're just a cocky bunch of fellows who never have been in a real fight and already think they can lick us. This was the consensus of the Chicago boys' reaction to the stories of the foreign champions.

Pack Is Aroused.

"Where did this flyweight Matta get the idea that the Statue of Liberty was saluting a la Fascisti?" Patsy Urso wanted to know. Urso, an Italian-American, or Jesse Levels, will be Matta's opponent in the international 112 pound battle.

"I've seen that statue," Urso continued, "and Lady Liberty had her hand up as a stop sign warning the Italians to take it easy."

Lorenzo Pack, big Negro heavyweight from Detroit, was downright mad when he finished reading about Angelo Saruggia, Italian heavyweight champion from Milan. Pack doesn't know where Milan is, but he works for an automobile company in Detroit and knows a truck driver when he sees him. Sarrugia, a truck driver, has a date with Pack at the Stadium and if Lorenzo gets any madder, something's going to happen.

"So Sarrugia is going to knock me out in the first round," Pack roared at the I. A. C. gymnasium yesterday. "That spaghetti eater can't knock out a guy who was raised up on pork chops." Then Pack returned and ducked to escape Urso and Al Nettlow, who have no love for the Italians, but defend a dish of spaghetti as the world's best food. Freddie Caserio also joined in the chase.

Otis Thomas, the other heavyweight on the squad, didn't have any comment. For that matter Otis generally talks in monosyllables.

THE GUMPS—IF THE WORST COMES TO WORST

I KNEW I WAS SICK— I COULD FEEL THIS COMING ON— I WAS TOO HAPPY— THAT WAS THE TROUBLE— THIS IS JUST DESTINY'S WAY OF BALANCING THE SCALES FOR ALL MEN—
LOOK BIM— I COOKED A NICE EGG FOR YOU—
MILLIE, BELOVED— IF I SHOULD SUDDENLY BE TAKEN FROM YOU— IF OUR TWO HEARTS SHOULD BE TORN ASUNDER, AND THE CHILL SHADOW OF THE GRAVE CAST IT'S GREY MANTLE OVER OUR GREAT LOVE— WOULD YOU EVER MARRY AGAIN? OR COULD YOU BELIEVE THAT MY HEART AND MY SOUL WOULD ALWAYS FOLLOW YOU— EVEN FROM BEYOND OBLIVION?
OH, BIM— YOU FRIGHTEN ME—
OH, MAMA— HE LOOKED SO PALE— ISN'T THERE SOMETHING WE CAN DO?
DO? I SHOULD SAY THERE IS SOMETHING WE CAN DO— AND WE'D BETTER DO IT FAST TOO— WE'LL JUST HAVE TO ASK HIM ABOUT HIS WILL— SUPPOSE HE SHOULD SUDDENLY PASS AWAY WITHOUT INSURANCE— WITHOUT A WILL— WE MIGHT BE LEFT PENNILESS— WE'LL JUST HAVE TO LOOK FACTS STRAIGHT IN THE FACE—

3 YEAR OLDS TO GALLOP TODAY IN RICH PREAKNESS

Omaha Expected to Be Strong Favorite.

The Field

BALTIMORE, Md., May 10.—(AP)—Here are the entries in the $25,000 Preakness, listed according to post positions, with weight, jockies, and probable odds:

*Boxthorn	126	R.Workman	10-1
†Firethorn	126	W.D.Wright	5-1

*Bloodroot	121	No boy	10-1
Brannon	126	R.Merritt	15-1

*E. R. Bradley entry. †Jeffords entry.

Baltimore, Md., May 10.—[Special.]—"Beat Omaha and win the Preakness" was the word at Pimlico here today as eleven three year olds, including the Kentucky Derby winner, were named for the $25,000 added test which is Maryland's most famous horse race.

It was for a Pimlico race in 1877 that congress adjourned, and M. L. Daiger, secretary of the Maryland Jocky club, is authority for the statement that more congressmen will see tomorrow's Preakness than have attended a race since that historic day when Parole, Ten Broeck, and Tom Ochiltree matched strides.

Congressmen to Attend.

Up to this afternoon thirty members of congress had accepted invitations to be present, with more to be heard from. Gov. Nice, former Gov. Ritchie, Postmaster General Farley, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson are others who will give or be members of parties.

Those who come will see four other colts, four geldings and two fillies endeavor to upset the supremacy which William Woodward's son of Gallant Fox set up at Churchill Downs last week. Omaha is certain to rule a short-priced favorite. Some think he will be odds-on. Others feel that the disposition to "beat the favorite" will cause spectators to play all around him.

A crowd of 40,000, which will tax this plant beyond its normal capacity, is expected by the management.

Nellie Flag To Run.

Warren Wright's filly Nellie Flag, beaten favorite in the Derby, once more commands much respect and is practically certain to be a well played second choice. The No. 2 post position she has drawn and her early speed are expected to enable her to gain and maintain a favorable running position. This is in contradistinction to Omaha's No. 6 post position and his sluggish post manners. Nellie Flag also will have the sex allowance of five pounds in her favor, and is believed to be more favored by a shorter route than is Omaha. But when all is said and done Omaha is expected to be running when she is stopping.

The track was fast this afternoon, with the hope tomorrow for the same kind of a racing strip. The weather forecast was cloudy and cooler, but it will take pretty heavy rain overnight to make the track slow. This afternoon the sun was out and baked the strip dry.

Commonwealth to Try Again.

There will be a good deal of support for the entry of Commonwealth and Firethorn, owned by Mrs. and Mr. Walter M. Jeffords, respectively. The former ran dully in the Derby, while Firethorn won his seasonal debut here.

Trainer Preston Busch has put his best rider, Wayne Wright, up on Firethorn, indicating that this horse is considered the better of the two. Last season Commonwealth was consistently the better in their meetings.

The other filly is E. R. Bradley's Bloodroot which will run coupled with Boxthorn. The filly may be scratched, and Raymond Workman will ride Boxthorn due to the suspension of Don Meade, the stable rider. Boxthorn is not out of the race by any means, but he is likely to be a long shot in view of finishing far back in the Churchill Downs test.

Boston Hammers Earnshaw and Crushes Sox, 12 to 2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Boston's Red Sox took the veteran George Earnshaw into their arms yesterday as if they considered him a long lost cousin. The welcome they gave him was so riotous that the Swarthmore giant was forced to excuse himself before it was concluded. The boys from the east didn't object to this breach of etiquet because they were already in possession of a batch of runs that eventually led them to a 12 to 2 victory over the second place White Sox.

The afternoon's unhappiness gave the south siders their second straight defeat, a humiliation they had not experienced this season. However, they still have one honor in their possession. They haven't been shut out, although they appeared doomed for this until the seventh when some peculiar antics by the enemy infielders permitted a Chicagoan to circle the bases without stopping. Then another run appeared when Zeke Bonura, who once filed out with the bags filled, hit his seventh homer of the season.

George Earnshaw tried to catch Bill Werber of the Boston Red Sox off first base in second inning, but threw wild to Zeke Bonura. Werber went to second.

Dusted Off by Rhodes.

The White Sox weren't able to show any of their nationally advertised power because of the presence of Gordon [Dusty] Rhodes, who until the last few inning kept the hit total down to a minimum. Some of Dusty's good fortune, however, may have been due to the fact that his enemies were sorely distressed right from the start. Almost before the White Sox knew the day's work was at hand they were four runs in arrears. This also may have been somewhat discouraging for Earnshaw, who undoubtedly realized that the four run first inning was caused by faulty fielding.

Earnshaw's difficulties in the opening inning began with the first batter, Bishop, who singled to right. Werber lined a single to left. R. Johnson forced Werber at second on a roller to Bonura. Cronin popped to Dykes. R. Johnson stole second and a pass to Ferrell loaded the bases. Solters hoisted an every day fly to short right, but Washington, being slow afoot, wasn't able to reach the spot in time. The ball fell for a two bagger, Bishop and R. Johnson scoring. Then Almada singled to right, scoring Ferrell and Solters.

Radcliff Opens with Hit.

Radcliff did the best he could for the White Sox by opening their first attack with a single and after one was out Simmons walked. Neither Bonura nor Washington could assist the two would-be run producers. Two Sox also were on in the second but after two Boston, Mass., May 10.—A light shower which fell shortly before noon today became sufficient reason for the Cubs to be given their eighth day off in the merry month of May. The scheduled second contest with the Braves might have been staged, but the management preferred to create a double-header for Wednesday, June 19, when the Chicagoans play their second series in Boston.

Today was the fifth on which Larry French had been scheduled to make his fourth trial for his first victory as a Cub pitcher. Though Larry is getting something of a reputation as a rain maker, he is slated to face the Braves in tomorrow's contest. Lon Warneke has been designated as the pitcher for Sunday's final here.

Will Go on Retired List.

Under the cloudy skies which prevailed here this morning Vice President Charles Grimm announced that he has decided to go on the voluntary retired list to reduce his squad to the 23 players limit May 15. Though Charley has five days to change his mind, and he has been known to change his mind as many as 25 times in five days, it is believed that today's decision will stick.

While Grimm this spring was establishing his unfinished string of 43 times at bat without the semblance of a hit, it was felt that he would be ready to park his bat and glove permanently just as soon as he became convinced that he had a worthy successor at first base. Daily, since putting Phil Cavarretta on first after the first two games of the National league season, Grimm has been enthusiastic in his praise of the Chicago youngster. Today's decision, when it stands up May 15, will be full evidence that Cavarretta, despite his youth, has made the grade, for no efforts are being made to acquire a more experienced first baseman.

May Not Play This Season.

If Grimm carries out his plan to retire from the list of active players on May 15 he cannot play for sixty days and then only after favorable action has been taken on his application for reinstatement. It is not likely that Grimm ever will play in a National league game this season, though he expects to work out daily so he can perform in emergencies when the player limit is lifted Sept. 1. He also can be reinstated and play next year unaffected by the player limit up to May 16, 1936.

By taking himself off the active list next Wednesday Grimm will be able to retain every one on the present roster, including nine pitchers. With double-headers accruing at an unprecedented rate the greatest need on the ball club after June 1 will be an abundance of pitchers.

After finishing up here Sunday the Cubs will go to Brooklyn for games Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. On Friday, May 17, they are scheduled to play their first game of the season with the Phillies, who will be at Wrigley field three days. Boston, New York, and Brooklyn will follow the Phillies, each for three game series.

Locatelli Defeats Ghnouly; Christy Conquers Belloise

Joe Ghnouly, St. Louis lightweight who has been beaten by most fighters in his division, lost again last night at the Stadium to Cleto Locatelli of Italy, in an unofficial and practically private elimination contest to determine the Stadium's candidate to meet Tony Canzoneri. The decision was determined by a two to one vote and several hardy customers in the party of 2,300 ventured a mild protest.

CLETO LOCATELLI.

Gross receipts were $4,761.55, a record low for the Stadium under present management.

Jimmy Christy's victory in ten rounds over Mike Belloise, New York featherweight, was the outstanding achievement of the evening and furnished the spectators their best opportunity to cheer. Belloise, the favorite, fretted through the early rounds with picturesque poses and a minimum of punches, most by counter attacks.

Mike Just Waits.

During this time Belloise might have capitalized on a sharp, rapier right hand which in the first and fifth rounds staggered Christy. However, Belloise apparently waited and Jim, overcoming nervousness, became steadily better.

Christy won three of the last four rounds decisively and surprised Belloise by outboxing him in the tenth as well as doing a superior job of fighting. The decision was unanimous.

Judges Rube Metz and Ed Klein voted for Christy 53 to 47 and 55 to 45, respectively, and Referee Tommy Thomas cast his vote for Christy, 52 to 48.

Christy's best round was the eighth when a straight right to Belloise's jaw tumbled the New Yorker to his haunches for no count. Then, heeding instructions from the corner, Jim rushed in close to pile up points and thus avoid Belloise's right, which, however, by this time, was neither accurate nor very powerful.

The Ghnouly-Locatelli bout was a monotonous exchange of short punches. Each was hit squarely a dozen times, but neither packed sufficient power to be dangerous. Locatelli, more rugged and heavier, cuffed and pawed more effectivly.

Judge Klein, however, voted for Ghnouly, 53 to 47, but he was overruled by Judge Metz, 52 to 48, and Referee Thomas, who also decided Locatelli had won, 52 points to 48. It was that kind of a fight.

Heffner Bout Stopped.

For effectiveness Leonard Del Genio, New York lightweight, gave the best exhibition of the night when he knocked out Babe Daniels of Minneapolis in the sixth round. Daniels took one nine count before the final blow was delivered. Del Genio also knocked Daniels down for no count in the second round. Daniels was weakened by body blows and never could stop Del Genio's punches in clinches.

Chuck Heffner, Denver middleweight, never recovered from the first blow he received from Frankie Battaglia, although he staggered through two rounds. Dazed and a standing target, Battaglia could not miss him. The result was foregone. In the third round Referee Frank McAdams shoved the blond boy to his corner and raised Battaglia's hand in victory.

18,000 CHEER AS VETERAN WINS IN 15 ROUNDS

Floors Foe Three Times.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Tony Canzoneri regained the world's lightweight boxing championship tonight in Madison Square Garden.

With thudding fists that were packed with dynamite early, but wearied and became leaden later, Canzoneri hammered his way to a decision over Lou Ambers in a fifteen round bout that tingled with action and was brimful of sentiment.

A crowd of 18,000 men and women, 17,433 of whom paid gross receipts of $49,915, saw Canzoneri in the history making ring struggle that, for the moment at least, brought back old times in boxing from the standpoint of action and attendance.

The New Orleans born Italian who makes his home in Brooklyn became the first fighter in the history of the ring who lost the lightweight crown and came back to win it again. The unanimous decision of Referee Arthur Donovan and Judges Charles Lynch and Marty Monroe gave Canzoneri this honor, bringing to the Brooklyn fighter his third title distinction.

None Disputes Decision.

Back in 1928 he gained the world's featherweight crown and in 1930, in the ring where tonight he was triumphant over Ambers, Canzoneri knocked out Al Singer with a single punch to win the lightweight crown. He lost the honor in 1933 and failed in his first bid to regain it from Barney Ross of Chicago, who recently gave up the title. But, none in the crowd who saw his gallant battle tonight disputed the award which brought him honors unique in boxing.

Twenty-nine years old, with twelve years of hard, tough fighting behind him, Canzoneri electrified the crowd with an exhibition few thought he commanded. He missed by an eyelash of winning the title with a knockout. Failing this, he called on his experience and ring generalship to counteract the efforts of a young tormentor.

Ambers, though beaten, was not disgraced. He made bold to try for the lightweight crown in his third featured bout. It would have been a meteoric rise had he succeeded.

Ambers Floored in Third.

Canzoneri narrowly missed the glory of a knockout victory in the third round, when he amazed those who installed Ambers favorite to win at odds of 3 to 1 by flooring the Herkimer, N. Y., fighter twice for short counts.

Canzoneri shot a right to Ambers' jaw late in the third round and Lou dropped backward on his haunches. He was up at the count of two to run into a blizzard of blows, a left and right to the jaw flooring him again. Up came Ambers at the count of two a second time, dancing cagily, face to the foe. But, before another blow could be struck, the bell stayed Canzoneri's hand.

Looking for another opening for that right, Canzoneri boxed through several rounds. Ambers fought furiously after the seventh and at times backed Canzoneri around and across the ring under a dizzying fire of light lefts and rights, but one of Canzoneri's blows was as good as a half dozen of Ambers', for the veteran carried the sting and power in his drives.

Ambers Makes Rally.

Ambers thrilled the crowd when he fought Canzoneri to a standstill in the ninth and tenth, repeatedly driving Canzoneri to the ropes. And, in the eleventh, when the weary Canzoneri fouled with an erratic left to the body, the thought gained strength that he was facing disappointment. This suspicion was strengthened through the thirteenth and fourteenth, when Ambers, though weary, had Canzoneri floundering, so much so that Tony plunged head foremost to his glove tips in the thirteenth when he lost his balance in a clinch.

But in the fifteenth Canzoneri cut loose with all he had. He brought the crowd to its feet with a recovery which saw Ambers go down to his glove tips, upset when Canzoneri caught him off balance with a right for the jaw, which landed on Lou's shoulder. Later both slipped on the water soaked canvas in Ambers' corner, but, from bell to bell in that final round Canzoneri fought as if his life depended on his thudding fists.

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: I arrived in Chicago in 1869 and obtained a job as bellboy at the old Tremont hotel, then owned by John B. Drake, with Sam Turner as chief clerk. A bellboy was a bellboy in those days, too, as there were no elevators.

Often I answered calls by John Wentworth, mayor of Chicago, who was called "Long John" because of his height. He occupied rooms 13 and 14.

It was indirectly due to Mr. Wentworth that I almost lost my job. His bell rang and it was my turn to answer. He wanted his shoes cleaned—some shoes, too—No. 14s. I took them downstairs, then, to save steps to the basement where the porter's room was located, I chalked on them 14, indicating Mr. Wentworth's room number, not their size, and called "Long John's shoes," giving them a toss down the stairs.

It so happened a guest was coming from the basement bar. I remember he wore a derby hat which was jammed down over his ears by impact of the shoes. I didn't stop to investigate, but had a long session with the manager before I was permitted to resume work.

In this basement Frank Lombard, noted singer of the time and also renowned in civil war days, sang "The Old Oaken Bucket" and how his deep bass voice boomed forth.—J. R. Hutton, 86 years.

About 35 years ago two Chicago inventors, Howard and Lindstrom, kept Chicago's first power omnibuses at the Columbia livery on North State street and Elm street. These buses could go downtown to Marshall Field's and return. Every six miles they had to be recharged with electric power.

Spring.

It must be Spring
For I just heard a robin sing,
And far beyond the treetops high,

Along a wayside timber road
Are Gypsy bands with heavy load
Who stop to rest, as night time steals,
Their dogs and squeaky wagon wheels.

I know it's Spring
For once again I hear you sing
Beyond the sunset's golden ray

CARDINALS, FRICK DENY MALONE-BABE RUTH TRADE

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Official National league circles today denied reports that Babe Ruth cost the National league Pitcher Pat Malone, sold to the New York Yankees by the St. Louis Cardinals for $15,000.

The story heard in usually knowing quarters explained the astonishment with which several National league managers greeted word that Malone, traded by the Chicago Cubs to the Cards for Tex Carleton after winning 14 games and losing 7 last season, had been waived on by every club before being sold to the Yankees.

The explanation was that National league club owners agreed to let the Yankees pick a pitcher they needed badly, agreeing to waive on him so that the Braves could acquire a box office attraction calculated to do the entire National league financial good.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, was joined by Ford Frick, National league president, in denying there was any foundation for reports of a gentlemen's agreement, which is contrary to the letter of baseball law.

Frick explained waivers were sought and obtained on Malone last December, long before there were any definite developments in the deal by which Babe Ruth went to Boston.

AMERICANS BEAT CHINESE IN TWO SINGLES MATCHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, May 10.—America's Davis cup team tonight was 2 up on China in the North American qualifying matches. Victory in the doubles contest tomorrow will end the series.

In the first match today Bryan Grant Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., defeated Guy Cheng, China, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, while in the second contest J. Donald Budge, Oakland, Cal., ninth ranking player in the United States, triumphed over Sin Kie Kho, Chinese national champion, 6-4, 6-1, 6-8, 6-2.

Maureen Orcutt Wed to Broker, Miami Learns

Miami, Fla., May 10.—(AP)—The secret marriage here five days ago of Maureen Orcutt, leading woman golfer, and John D. Crews, Miami investment broker, became known today. The couple were understood to be honeymooning in the east. Miss Orcutt gave her age as 23. Crews age was stated as 38. The certificate listed him as divorced from a former wife at Jacksonville in 1922.

TRAVIS JACKSON'S THUMB BROKEN, X-RAYS REVEAL

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—X-rays today showed that Travis Jackson, New York Giants captain and third baseman, suffered a fractured left thumb during fielding practice yesterday. Manager Bill Terry of the Giants said the injury would keep the veteran infielder out of the lineup for "some time."

Mark Koenig, who has been playing second base, probably will take Jackson's position. Manager Terry also said he had recalled Al Cuccinello from the Nashville club of the Southern association. Cuccinello, an infielder, is a brother of Tony Cuccinello of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

FAVORITE AND 40-1 SHOT WIND UP IN DEAD HEAT

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—The crowd at Jamaica today witnessed a dead heat, the first of the local racing season. This was in the second race which brought to the post a field of platers for a dash of six furlongs.

At the finish, G. W. Ogle's Tractable, the 8 to 5 favorite, and Ida Katz's Little Argo, an outsider at 40 to 1, closed so nearly on even terms that the judges could not separate them. A length back was Mrs. Fab, second choice.

JOSEPH J. G. TO RACE IN AURORA HANDICAP TODAY

BY FRENCH LANE.

If race goers all over America could have heard about it soon enough the stands would be empty at Pimlico this afternoon when the Preakness is run. Col. Matt J. Winn and Starter Bill Hamilton would be the only persons present when the Bashford Manor stakes is decided at Churchill Downs, and only the jockys and horses would be gathered at Jamaica for the Youthful stakes.

The reason of course is that Joseph J. G. goes to the post in the Leland handicap at a mile and seventy yards at Aurora this afternoon.

Trains from here, there, and everywhere would have been pouring their passengers into Chicago at daybreak this morning if the tidings had been sent out in time.

Keeps Ahead of Sherif.

Omaha won the Derby and quite a bit of newsprint was used up in telling about that victory. Yet Joseph J. G. has been the most colorful 3 year old of the year, not because he amounts to much or ever will amount to anything, but due to the fact that he's been just a step ahead of the sherif ever since he started out with ambitions of winning the Kentucky Derby, American Derby, Classic stakes, and numerous other 3 year old specials.

So far the old sherif hasn't caught up with him and if Joseph J. G. under his light impost of 95 pounds wins the Leland this afternoon he will be so far ahead of the sherif that the contest no longer will be even close.

Joseph J. G.'s troubles began when his trainer, Loule Peters, decided that he should journey to Hot Springs to drink the waters and perhaps race a few times at the Spa course. He did all that but somebody forgot to pay Joseph J. G.'s board bill so there was a delay in moving north.

Back at Aurora Joseph, with his Hot Springs meal ticket finally settled for in full, faced the task of warming his admirers up to a point where somebody would come forward and produce his $500 starting fee in the Kentucky Derby. The weather was cold at Aurora and so was Joseph J. G. The starting fee was not forthcoming.

Enters American Derby.

An actress in a loop theater offered to pay it but when she unbuckled her bankroll it was too late for Joseph J. G. to reach the Derby scene unless he traveled by plane.

So Joseph J. G. lost his chance to look Omaha, Roman Soldier, Whiskolo, Nellie Flag, and others in the Derby field in the eye and make 'em stop.

Came Joseph J. G.'s entry in the American Derby. He's hard at it in his prep for that race, and according to Trainer Peters and Owner Yack the Leland this afternoon is just a stepping stone on the way up where he eventually will fight it out with Omaha.

In the Leland, Joseph J. G. will meet such horses as Iceberg, Joe Flores, Band Wagon, Easy Sailing, Dark Woman, Bran Muffin, and Brother. If he loses Trainer Peters will have a hard time digging up an excuse for it.

While Joseph J. G.'s owner and trainer were around endeavoring to employ a jocky to ride the son of Altawood, a genuine Illinois Derby threat came to the front yesterday when Transmutable, son of Transmute-Chickie, made a show of his field in the only allowance race on yesterday's Aurora program.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—TWO MEN FLYING—BUT NO TRAPEZE

Burman and Harmon May Sign Sagilio

The old axiom, "They never come back," will be defied again, this time by Joe Burman, the Chicagoan who gave the bantamweights a merry time of it until his retirement about ten years ago.

Burman, who hung up his gloves after an unsuccessful effort to lift the crown from Abe Attell Goldstein, will do his "comeback" by proxy, however. In his 30's and portly about the middle, Burman and his partner, Frank Harmon, are negotiating for the management of Frank Sagilio, the Cicero slugger.

Sagilio, recently turned 21, refused to sign a contract with Willie Capadonno, former boxer who developed him into a topnotcher during their three years together, unless paid a cash bonus. This Capadonno refused to do and so the fighter opened negotiations with Burman and Harmon. It is understood Sagilio will be paid $1,000 for signing with the Burman-Harmon combination.

Davey Day, Chicago stablemate of Barney Ross, left last night for Des Moines, Ia., where he boxes Ernie Ratner of Newark, N. J., ten rounds Monday. After the match Day will return to prepare for a ten round scrap with Steve Halaiko, Buffalo, N. Y., on the Ross-McLarnin welterweight title card at New York, May 28. Day is recognized as a leading contender for the lightweight crown, but Sammy Mandell, former titleholder in this division, thinks little of his ability.

"Is he supposed to be a foremost lightweight challenger," Mandell asked while watching Day spar at Trafton's gymnasium the other day. "If he is the division sure has lost a lot of its class."

Joey Kleko, south side welterweight, and Carl Duva, Paterson, N. J., have been signed to meet in the six round semi-final to the eight round main event between Henry Hook of Indianapolis, Ind., and Johnny Gaudes of Milwaukee, Wis., at Marigold Gardens Monday. Four round preliminary matches will bring together Bob Tinsley and Carl Martin, Walter Matthys and Davey White, and Milt Aron and Scotty McLean.

PETERSON MAKES 20,000 BILLIARDS AGAINST TIME

Charles C. Peterson, St. Louis, holder of the world fancy billiard shot championship, probably set a world record yesterday at the annual boat and sport show at Navy pier, when he scored an unfinished run of 20,000 consecutive straight-rail billiards against time. The string was completed in the almost unbelievable time of 101 minutes and eight seconds and required sixteen blocks, embracing four days.

The delicate rail nurse used by Peterson is not permissable in championship play, as he scores points while the balls are in motion. He held the previous record at 12,247.

Northwestern Net Team Wins Round Robin Meet

McLarnin Will Train at Swan Lake for Ross

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Charley [Pop] Foster, manager of Jimmy McLarnin, has picked Swan Lake, N. Y., as the site of McLarnin's training camp for his welterweight championship bout with Barney Ross, of Chicago, May 28. McLarnin, accompanied by his trainer, Charley Schoenemann, and a retinue of sparring partners, will go to Swan Lake today and begin work Monday.

Elmhurst Tennis Team Defeats Wheaton, 5 to 1

Elmhurst college tennis team defeated Wheaton college, 5 to 1, yesterday at Wheaton. Fischer scored the only victory for Wheaton. Results:

Time, :23 :47 1-5, 1:12 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Transmutable, $4.40 straight, $3.86 place, $3.80 show; Fire Advance, $6.70 place, $7.16 show; Lady Bracadale, $14.38 show. Winner trained by J. C. Gillem. Went to post at 2:21. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

TRANSMUTABLE, much the best, attained a commanding lead early, continued with high speed and won cantering. FIRE ADVANCE, allowed to remain far out of contention to the final eighth, responded gamely when urged and probably would have been closer under better handling. LADY BRACADALE went well.

SECOND RACE—Five and a half furlongs. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15.

Time, :24 :47 3-5, 1:00 3-5, 1:07. Two dollar mutuels paid: Hot Flash, $19.22 straight, $7.30 place, $7.04 show; Teernahilla, $4.68 place, $4.64 show; Mae Luby, $80.40 place. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:59. At post 3 minutes. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

HOT FLASH had fine speed from the start, disposed of MIM after a quarter, drew out in fast time taking command, and was never in danger thereafter, winning eased up. TEERNAHILA improved her position gradually, closed gamely, but was no match for the winner. MAE LUBY went well under a hustling ride.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15.

Time, :24 :48 1-5, 1:14. Two dollar mutuels paid: Scout Chief, $10.72 straight, $7.12 place, $5.86 show; Easy Bid, $46.32 place, $16.52 show; Chief Bunting, $6.38 show. Winner trained by E. Johnson. Went to post at 3:18. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won driving, place same.

SCOUT CHIEF improved his position gradually, responded gamely, and was up to win in the final strides. EASY BID, under mild pressure maintaining a forward position, disposed of CHIEF BUNTING inside the final sixteenth, but could not withstand the winner. CHIEF BUNTING rushed to the front early, continued gamely under good rating, but weakened near the end.

DORSAYS raced clear early, continued under strong pressure, and outgamed FLYING JUSTICE in a driving finish. Latter, taken in hand for the early racing, closed fast, and was getting to the winner. A claim of foul was registered by McCray, but was disallowed. OCCULT, displaying more speed than usual, maintained a forward position throughout, responded gamely to punishment and made up ground in the stretch.

MINT DRIFT had the most speed, set the pace under mild reserve, stood the drive gamely, and outfinished DOMINANT MISS. Latter, under occasional pressure while improving her position, offered strong contention and was getting to the winner. PREFERRED, slow to get going, closed a gap in the stretch.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and 70 yards. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15.

ESKIMO, taken in hand for the early racing, gained steadily when urged, drew out after taking command, and won with something to spare. BUSTER B., rushed to the front early, set the pace under mild restraint, gave way when challenged, but held on with good courage to outfinish GOOSEFLESH. Latter dropped far out of contention after breaking fast, closed a gap in the stretch, and was going fastest in the closing stages.

YANKEES POUND HILDEBRAND TO BEAT INDIANS, 6-3

Chapman, Knickerbocker Return to Action.

The game marked the return to action of Ben Chapman, Yankee outfielder, who has been laid up since April 27, and Billy Knickerbocker, Indian shortstop, who was stricken with appendicitis before the season started.

Lou Gehrig moved up to third in the batting order, hit his second home run of the season in the first inning, and the Yanks went on to drive Oral Hildebrand to cover with three more runs in the second inning.

Women Bowlers Set New Record in Doubles Event

Erna Haufler and Billy Simon of San Antonio, Tex., took the lead last night in the doubles division of the Women's International Bowling Congress at the Congress Recreation bowling alley, with a 1,219 total. The Texas pair bowled 345—406—459—1,219, to take first place from Charlotte Wessendarp and Corrine Nordman, Cincinnati.

The new leaders established an all-time record, one pin better than the mark set two years ago by Edith King and Margaret Frank, Chicago.

MOON MULLINS—GETTING TO THE BOTTOM OF IT

Laffoon Tells How to Hit Accurate Approach Shots

[This is the sixth of a series of articles on golf by Ky Laffoon, the leading money winner of the last two years, who is now professional at the Northmoor Country club in Highland Park.]

BY KY LAFFOON.

After my showing in the winter tour of 1933-'34, I went up to the first of the summer shows, the biggest of them all, the national open at Philadelphia, with more assurance of my game than ever before, but there I made a mistake which I won't let happen again.

That error consisted in getting to the Merion Cricket club two weeks ahead of time and playing the course daily. I felt at the time that I would get to know the course better, but discovered during the tournament that I had gotten to know it too well.

During that practice period, I averaged 70 for ten straight rounds, and would not take the advice of several older players that I take a rest. One of these was Gene Sarazen, who even invited me to go up to his farm and forget about golf for a few days, but I turned that bid down, too. The result of all this diligence was that I was overgolfed by the time the tournament started, and finished in 22d place with a 303.

Iron Shots Are Hit on Descending Stroke.

That taught me an expensive lesson about the idea of too much practicing particularly on the course where a tournament is to be played. Incidentally, I felt it more because I had concentrated on my irons before the open at Merion, was hitting them well. Speaking of irons and their use, I'd like to offer a few tips on them here.

The irons and woods differ in several ways. The irons should be played more toward the center of the feet. They are hit on a descending stroke, as the woods are struck with an ascending one. With that descending stroke, it is much easier to hit down on the ball at the lowest point of the arc, which is midway between the feet.

Always take turf after the ball is hit. This imparts an English to the ball, causing it to hold its line and to stop almost immediately after it strikes the green. The turf can be taken if the player swings the club as though he were hitting into the ground at a slight angle. The swing on the short irons is shorter than on the longer ones. The closer to the green the shorter the swing should be.

You Can't Win or You Can't Lose.

After the national open I began to catch my stride and also to make people ask me how it felt to run second all the time, being nosed out by one stroke in several tournaments. I never felt discouraged during that period because my philosophy in golf tournaments is that your game runs in streaks. Sometimes you can't win and at others you can't lose, and that's all there is to it.

The western open at Peoria found me tied with Harry Cooper of Glen Oak at the end of the regular 72 holes, each having 274. I thought I had the prize in the bag, for Harry needed a par and a birdie to tie me, and that's just what he got. In the first playoff round, I was five under par for the first seven holes, but Harry caught me, after I had driven one out of bounds on the 15th and he had birdied the 16th. As it was, I had to sink a six foot putt on the last green for a 67 and a tie. In the second playoff, Harry shot a 30, seven under par, one of the finest rounds I ever saw, and I lost the title by three strokes despite a 69.

In the St. Paul open, Harry and myself tied Johnny Revolta at the end of the regular 72 holes. Coming to the last hole of the playoff, a par five, I was one stroke behind Revolta, who had a five foot putt for a birdie. I had an eight footer for an eagle to tie him, but it wouldn't go down, while he sank his to win the tournament.

Gets Into Habit of Running Second.

From there on, the habit of running second was still with me. I lost the Central New York open at Syracuse by a stroke when Clarence Dozier got a hole in one on the 17th, and beat me out. I shot a 139 in the national PGA trials at Kansas City, but Bunny Horpey holed out a 150 yard iron shot to lead the section. In the tournament proper at Buffalo, N. Y., I appeared to have the qualifying medal cinched with a 139, but Bob Crowley ran through the last nine in 33 for a 138 and the medal. I won my first match, but lost my second to Denny Shute, 3 and 2, despite medal rounds at 72—64.

In the Canadian open at Toronto, I shot a first round 79, taking 7 shots to escape a trap at the 95 yard 17th during a rainstorm. Leo Diegel was leading the field with a 65. I rallied for rounds of 71, 71 and 68 to finish second, two strokes back of Tommy Armour, the winner.

Chicago American Giants today open a four game Negro National league series with the Detroit Elite Giants at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Two of the games will be played today.

DEAD TO THE PIN

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.—Chicago can have the 1937 football game between the United States Naval academy and Notre Dame, if Notre Dame wants to play it there. . . . Capt. R. C. Griffin, the Navy's athletic director, made this plain today. . . . "It's Notre Dame's home game in 1937," said the captain, "and we, of course, are willing to play it anywhere Elmer Layden suggests. Naturally, we would be pleased to appear in Chicago. The game probably would draw 100,000 to Soldiers' field whereas 30,000 would be a fair estimate of the attendance were it played in South Bend. Our relationship with Notre Dame, however, has been too pleasant to be swayed by commercial interests and we shall be happy to go to South Bend, if that is Notre Dame's decision." . . . In 1934 and 1932, the last two times it was Notre Dame's home game, the contest was played in Cleveland. . . . There seems to be no valid reason why it is all right to transport the Notre Dame student body to Cleveland to see a game but all wrong to move the group a much shorter distance to Chicago. . . . The last time the Navy played Notre Dame in Chicago the game attracted nearly 120,000. . . . And this may be a good place to point out that no football team has drawn a crowd of 100,000 since Notre Dame withdrew from Soldiers' field. . . .

Jim Braddock trained on hash before he whipped Art Lasky. . . . Now that he is training on steaks, what do you think he will do to Baer? . . . There's a Wilson on the Albany, N. Y., club lambasting the ball at a .400 clip. . . . Sure enough, it's old Hack. . . . Those interested in tracing the origin of golf might learn something from the Chinese. . . . From Irving [Round the World] Vaughan we learn that on the walls of one of the buildings which was part of the emperor's vast winter palace at Peiping are paintings depicting players in a game similar to present day golf. . . . The paintings are centuries old. . . . Although Red Franklin has a contract to play with the Chicago Cardinals next fall, it is doubtful if he will appear on a gridiron again. . . . Franklin, who comes from Oregon State, recently returned from a tour of Japan with the Pacific coast stars. . . . He played less than one-quarter of the 16 game series because of a knee injury that kept him on the bench most of last season. . . . Mickey Riley, Olympic diving champion, gets a nickel for every bathing suit or pair of trunks bearing his name. . . .

Fred Perry already has signed to play professional tennis, it is rumored out west. . . . The gossips say he will not play on the British Davis cup team for fear his signing will leak out and he will be black balled in his home country. . . . The University of Alabama has sent its share of players to the major leagues. . . . Among them are Jack Hayes and Luke Sewell of the White Sox, Ray Pepper of the Browns, Joe Sewell of the Yankees, Fred Sington and Sidney Cohen of the Senators, Ike Boone of the Dodgers, Riggs Stephenson of the Cubs, Andy Cohen of the Giants, and Derril Pratt of the Reds. . . . A few years ago the entire infield of the Newark club was made up of former Alabama collegians. . . . Babe Ruth has been swinging only two bats instead of the customary three when he comes to the plate this season. . . . Charlie Ruffing's young brother, Heinie, is a pitcher and outfielder with the Peoria Three Eye club. . . . Ted Robbins, a golf pro in San Francisco, rides a bicycle 20 miles to work every day. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Ray Schalk, veteran backstop of the White Sox caught a ball tossed from the top of Tribune Tower before 10,000 spectators. . . . Eastern horsemen were backing Flying Ebony to win the Kentucky Derby. . . . Walter Johnson of the Senators shutout the White Sox, 9 to 0. . . . Earl Cooper won the annual Confederate Memorial day 250 mile auto race before 40,000 at Charlotte, N. C.

were out. Sewell walked and moved to third on Earnshaw's single to center. A hit by Radcliff at this point would have helped considerably. Instead he grounded into a forceout.

Dahlgren Hits One.

Various little things annoyed Earnshaw in the second and third, but no damage resulted. The fourth was different. Almada led off with a fast hopper at Hayes, who fumbled. A moment later Dahlgren, who has a batting average about the size of a midget's hat, clouted his first homer into the left field lower story, making the score 6 to 0. Bishop singled in this same inning after Rhodes had fanned, but Werber and R. Johnson were easy.

The Chicago boys, after two barren innings, finally got beyond Rhodes' control in the home fifth, but he herded them back into the corral before any damage was done. The first two were retired, whereupon Radcliff got a single on a bounder over Dahlgren. Hayes singled to center and Simmons walked to fill the bases. Bonura's fly to Solters erased this bright prospect.

Five More Boston Runs.

The first happening in the turbulent sixth, when five scored, was a pass to Almada. He scored when Dahlgren slapped his second homer into the left field pavilion. When Rhodes singled to center Earnshaw was informed he could quit the party. Vance took over the job and threw out Bishop on a bunt, after which Werber fanned. Then R. Johnson singled to score Rhodes. Cronin also singled and Ferrell's fly dropped in right center for a double, R. Johnson and Cronin counting.

The comical happenings that gave the domestic hose a run in the seventh started with Sewell's popup close to the line back of first base. Bishop dashed over to make the catch, but at the last moment fell flat, the ball dropping to the ground and Sewell sprinting for second. Dahlgren recovered the loose ball and threw to second, but the toss was so high that the left fielder finally grabbed it. By that time Sewell had arrived at the plate. In the next inning Bonura exhibited his seventh homer of the year, the ball sailing into the left field stand.

The run off Phelps in the ninth was strictly the doings of Manager Cronin. He led off with a three base drive past Bonura, who appeared to be taking a cat nap at the time. Cronin scored while Appling was throwing out Ferrell.

Whitehead and Welch to Hurl This Afternoon

John Whitehead, the Texas league rookie who has pitched the White Sox to four straight victories, will try to make it five this afternoon when he faces the Red Sox in the final of the series. Johnny Welch, ex-Cub, probably will start for the visitors.

The ladies made good use of the weekly free gate. About 10,000 of them were scattered among the 7,000 paid customers.

The decision of Cub officials to admit women free at Wrigley field on all days except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, will not change the custom at Comiskey park. Friday will continue as the only weekly free day for the fair fans.

Vernon G. Washington is playing under a handicap. His right hand is badly swollen as the result of a bone bruise. That is why he retired after one inning of work.

VINNIE RICHARDS SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Vincent Richards, a former national tennis doubles champion and now a professional tennis player, was seriously injured early today when the automobile which he was driving crashed into and knocked over an electric light pole in the Bronx.

Richards was removed to Morisania hospital, where it was found that he suffered a fracture of the right thigh and lacerations of the head. Richards was alone in the automobile, which was wrecked. He is 32 years old and lives at Bronxville.

Accident Is Unexplained.

The police have no explanation of the accident other than that Richards may have become blinded by the bright headlights of an approaching car or possibly fell asleep at the wheel. The crash happened a short distance from the Sedgwick Avenue police station, where it was heard by two policemen who were talking outside. After telephoning for an ambulance they ran to the car and released Richards. The ambulance took him directly to the hospital. The car was taken to the police station.

Richards has had considerable trouble with automobiles, having been fined for various violations on several occasions.

Tennis Career Brilliant.

In the field of sport his rise was meteoric. He was a boy prodigy at tennis and won the national boys' championship before his 14th birthday. He then went straight through the junior championships, indoors and outdoors, and in recent years turned professional, gaining the championship. He often played with Tilden in doubles matches, and when they were both going well no two more spectacular players could be found.

He is married, his wife being the former Claremont Gushee, daughter of Ralph A. Gushee, former proprietor of the Claremont inn on Riverside drive.

Thieves Get $1,000 at Home of Umpire Owens

The apartment of Clarence [Brick] Owens, American league umpire, at 531 Fullerton parkway, was looted yesterday by robbers who jimmied the front door while Mrs. Owens was out visiting. The loot of $1,000 consisted of two coats, a diamond stickpin and a ring with 3 diamonds. The jewelry was given Umpire Owens by the American league.

BOWEN DEFEATS CALUMET, 2 TO 1; SENN, LANE WIN

Kelvyn Park, Morton, and Deerfield Triumph.

Andy Gadus, star Bowen pitcher, scored his seventh consecutive victory in the Chicago Public High School league as Bowen defeated Calumet, 2 to 1, yesterday. Gadus yielded only three hits and struck out 12. The victory, Bowen's seventh, enabled the team to move another step toward the south section championship.

Senn and Lane Tech continued their battle for the north division title. Senn remained undefeated by scoring a 4 to 2 triumph over Lake View, while Lane Tech handed Roosevelt a 6 to 2 defeat at Logan Square park. Senn has won seven games, while Lane has lost one while winning five.

In the west section Kelvyn Park maintained its lead, pounding three Austin pitchers for an 8 to 2 victory. Marshall won its fourth game by triumphing over Crane Tech, 6 to 2.

Morton remained in first place in the Suburban league race, defeating New Trier, 4 to 1. Deerfield moved out of the cellar, winning from Evanston, 5 to 3, at Evanston.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Treasury bonds again failed to share the generally firm tone of the market, but on the stock exchange and in the outside market treasury issues were quiet.

Liberty 3½s and first 4¼s sold at new lows, in agreement with the trend usually observed toward the end of a conversion period. While the treasury has not said so, it is generally believed termination of the exchange offer may be announced over the week-end. Losses among treasury loans ranged from 1-32d to 5-32ds and two issues closed a bit higher. The new 2¾s again attracted the lion's share of trading and ended 2-32ds lower at 101.14.

High Grade Issues Quiet.

High grade corporate issues were quiet but the tone was firm. Second grade and speculative issues were in good demand, on which many of the old favorites advanced a point or more.

International Telephone and Postal Telegraph bonds were decidedly popular. Better than average gains were recorded in American and Foreign Power 5s, which went to a new high for the year; Chicago and Alton 3s, Marion Steam Shovel 6s, Mercantile Marine 6s, Laclede Gas 5½s, Pressed Steel Car 5s, and Warner Pictures 6s.

Rail Bonds Are Weak.

Softness in rails was not directly associated with any news development of the day. Heaviest losers were Delaware and Hudson 4s, Baltimore and Ohio 6s, Central Railroad of New Jersey 4s, and New Haven 3½s. There were some exceptions to the lower trend, however, including bonds of the Chicago and North Western and Southern Pacific. Consolidated Coal 5s lost a point or so on announcement of reorganization details.

There were few important changes in foreign bond prices. Kreuger & Toll 5s at one time were more than a point higher. Italian Public Utility Credit 7s, Budapest 6s, and Chile 6s of 1960 were exceptionally strong.

Bonds of Operating Utilities.

Investors' Guide: Having the utmost confidence in your opinion on various investments, I am wondering if you will be kind enough to give me your opinion on a class of my investments that are giving me considerable worry. More than 90 per cent of my bond investments are in first mortgages of operating electric public utilities. What in the light of the government attitude today toward public utilities is your opinion of the future of these securities? I am not a little worried.—B. E. J.

Answer: First mortgage bonds of operating utility companies that have the requisites of a sound investment are still considered sound. Such a bond is the obligation of a company whose earnings are covering its fixed charges by an ample margin and whose current position is strong. The security behind the bond should be worth more than the bonds outstanding against it.

Even with all these requirements present, however, there might be special situations confronting the issuer which would prevent assignment of a sound rating. The threat of substantial rate reductions, for instance, or probable competition by municipally or federally operated systems, has in some instances relegated what would otherwise be a sound investment into the speculative class.

If there is any particular issue in which you are interested we shall be glad to furnish you with a report on it.

Incidentally, your portfolio is not sufficiently diversified. A proportion of 90 per cent of bond investments in one particular type of investment, regardless of the caliber of the specific bonds, is too heavy. By diversifying you can lessen your dependence on the fate of one particular industry.

Struthers Iron and Steel.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me any information regarding Struthers Iron and Steel company?—S. J. J.

Answer: Struthers Iron and Steel company, Struthers, O., has an unimpressive record of earnings. Although 1934 earnings of this manufacturer of merchant pig iron for sale to the steel industry and to foundries was not reported, profit and loss deficit for the year increased $225,000, indicating a period of unprofitable operations.

The company lost $62,000 in 1933, $68,000 in 1932, $29,000 in 1931, and $112,000 in 1930.

The company was able to resume operations this year as the result of a $350,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets totaled $2,600, and current liabilities were $50,000. There are outstanding 14,712 shares of 6 per cent $100 par first preferred, 1,874 shares of $100 par second preferred, and 7,950 shares of no par common.

ECCLES, GLASS CLASH AT BANK BILL HEARING

Argue Over Broader Reserve Powers.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A sharp clash of ideas over banking legislation developed again today when Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, faced Senator Glass at a hearing before the Glass subcommittee on a banking reform bill similar to that passed in the house yesterday by a vote of 271 to 110.

Eccles asserted that no central bank existed today uncontroled by the government of the country in question, but Glass retorted that he had been told that instead of Prime Minister MacDonald telling the Bank of England what to do, it was the bank that gave the instructions.

The divergence of thought between the two men related particularly to title II. of the new legislation to expand the powers of the federal reserve board in a manner which Glass thoroughly dislikes.

Criticizes House Action.

Eccles criticized the action of the house in striking out a provision forcing all banks which are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation to join the federal reserve system by July, 1937. He said he wished this language restored, with a modification that all banks with deposits of $500,000 and upward must join the system within a year of entering the deposit insurance fund. This, he argued, would bring about as rapidly as possible a unification of the banking system and also relieve small banks from joining the reserve.

Eccles again denied that the banking bill would "increase the powers of a political administration" over the reserve board, and asserted that on the other hand, the bill really "contains provisions intended to increase the dignity and independence" of the board.

Will Hold More Hearings.

Although Senator Fletcher, banking committee chairman, wished to hurry the bill through the subcommittee into the full committee, and thence to the senate, Glass said that further hearings would be held. His subcommittee is now considering the bill introduced in the senate instead of the measure passed by the house.

In the discussion over a central bank Senator Glass asked Eccles:

"Are you in favor of a government central bank?"

"No, not in the sense of transfer of ownership and creation of one bank," was the reply.

"No," Eccles answered, rather sharply.

"Well, why not?"

"Well, it is not a practical arrangement," said Eccles. "Ownership is not a vital matter. It makes no difference whether the government or the banks own the stock. It seems to me that those charged with management are more important than who owns the stock."

"If it is a central bank it ought to be a bank and have proprietary interest," Glass asserted.

Couzens Enters Discussion.

Here Senator Couzens entered the discussion, asking:

"Assuming your bill had been in force in 1928-'29, what procedure would you have taken?"

The reserve governor said he could not answer this "rather broad question." Couzens insisted, however, that the question "seems important to me." Then Eccles said:

"I think the banking act of 1933 would have been more effective than this bill. It provides control over speculation, margins, and collateral loans—it seems to deal directly with the situation."

"Then most of those abuses have been remedied by the banking act of 1933," Senator Couzens commented ironically.

He wished to continue with his long, prepared statement, but Senator Glass asked for a reply to Couzens' question. Senator Townsend suggested that Couzens was entitled to a reply. Finally Eccles said that the new bill did not propose any new activity along the line of controling speculation.

CHICAGO BANK STOCK PRICES ADVANCE AGAIN

Chicago bank stocks advanced again yesterday, following house passage of the banking bill which eliminates double liability on national bank stock. Opinion varied, however, on what effect the banking bill had in the movement. In some quarters it was maintained that prices here were merely moving into line with those of bank stocks elsewhere which have enjoyed greater recovery from their low points than has been the case in Chicago.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company shares rose 3 points from 45 bid 47 asked to 48 bid 50 asked. The First National jumped 5 points to 108 bid 112 asked. The Northern Trust rose from 424 bid 429 asked to 430 bid 440 asked. The Harris Trust climbed from 192 bid 200 asked to 195 bid 205 asked. Chicago Title and Trust also rose 2 points to 96 bid and 98 asked. The Merchandise Bank and Trust gained from 57 bid 62 asked to 58 bid 65 asked.

Cleveland Reserve Bank Reduces Rediscount Rate

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—The Cleveland Federal Reserve bank today reduced its rediscount rate from 2 to 1½ per cent, effective tomorrow. The former rate was established on Feb. 3, 1934.

Fall of Franc Seen as Omen of Devaluation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the French franc weak in foreign exchange transactions and heavy shipments of gold coming here from France, talk of abandonment of the gold standard by that nation has revived.

It is accepted as inevitable in American financial circles that France will leave gold and devalue her currency, but most experts here believe political sentiment has not yet been prepared for such a step.

The gold reserves of France are still in excess of 80 billion francs, or more than 5 1-3 billion dollars at current rates of exchange, and the proportion of gold to sight liabilities is nearly 80 per cent.

* *

France is by no means in the difficult position of Belgium, which had to devalue her currency suddenly six weeks ago. France is suffering from decreased exports, as was Belgium, but recent information discloses that bank troubles, rather than declining exports, was the real reason for Belgium's quick desertion from the "gold bloc."

"If M. Van Zeeland [Belgium's prime minister] had left the banks to face the consequences, the belga itself would have been overwhelmed in a financial crisis of the first order," says the London Times.

"With the exception of the National Bank of Belgium few banks in Belgium seem to have been administered on conservative lines. Most of them had poured out money to industrial enterprises on insufficient security and, worse still, many had become active partners in industrial concerns, putting themselves at the mercy of any and every trade wind that blows, while even the deposits of the Caisse d'Epargne, nominally considered sacred, had been put directly or indirectly at the disposal of doubtful ventures."

* *

That would explain why the Belgian government had the courage to debase the currency for the second time since the war. It apparently had no choice. The belga had to be depreciated to prevent an even worse economic disaster—an all around bank failure.

France has given no sign of bank troubles. And her people still bitterly remember the 80 per cent debasement of the franc after the war. Therefore, it will take longer to budge her from gold.

Meantime, gold continues to come to the United States from France and other European nations. Last Wednesday the monetary gold stocks of the treasury reached a new peak of 8 billion 728 million dollars, an increase of nearly one billion dollars' worth in twelve months. The United States, due to this influx plus the 69 per cent increase in the price of gold arbitrarily decreed by the government, now has—in terms of dollars—more than twice as much gold as two years ago.

This steady incoming stream of gold has laid the basis for a terrific credit expansion entirely apart from any of the political schemes for inflating the currency.

SAVINGS BANKS URGE MODIFYING UTILITIES BILL

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Delegates to the annual conference of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks adopted a resolution at their final session today calling for modification of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill to abolish holding companies of operating utilities.

The bankers favored "reasonable regulation" of public utilities to correct abuses which may have existed in some holding company situations, but held that the Wheeler-Rayburn bill "goes beyond what is necessary."

In other resolutions the association urged continued governmental assistance to railroads, and favored federal regulation of other forms of transportation "to prevent destructive competition and to curb waste and unnecessary duplication."

SILVER ADVANCES TO 72⅛ CENTS; FRANCE IS SENDING GOLD TO U. S.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Improvement in silver prices and a renewed flow of gold from France to this country were the features of trading in the valuable metals and foreign currencies today.

Silver prices were up ⅞ cent at 72⅛ cents an ounce for foreign mined silver to be used commercially in this country and bar silver in London gained a half-penny at 33 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to 72.15 cents.

The engagement of $13,000,000 of gold in Paris for shipment here was reported today to the New York Federal Reserve bank. Of this amount about $2,500,000 was engaged on Thursday. The arrangement for shipment of this gold brings to $160,000,000 the total of gold engaged abroad or already shipped here since April 5. The bank also announced the receipt of $1,677,900 gold from Canada.

Today the French franc was unchanged at the export level of 6.59 cents. At this price the dollar was worth $1.0066 against francs, and based on the old parity of the franc was valued a 59.45 cents.

Other gold bloc currencies, the Swiss franc and the Dutch guilder, were steady to slightly higher as trading continued narrow. Swiss francs were unchanged at 32.33 cents and guilders were up 4 points at 67.66 cents. Swiss francs are still below the gold export point of 32.43 cents but guilders are above their export level of 67.64½.

The pound sterling showed renewed strength, rising ⅜ cent to $4.85½ and pulling Scandinavian currencies and Canadian dollars along with it. German marks were unchanged at 40.20 cents and Italian lire were off ¾ point at 8.22¼ cents.

Chinese currencies kept pace with the upturn in commercial silver prices, Hongkong dollars rising 130 points or 1.3 cents to 58¼ cents and Shanghai dollars 35 points to 41.10 cents.

Int. Harvester Offers Cash for Office Block

BY AL CHASE.

A cash offer of $2,400,000 by the International Harvester company for the twenty-two story Lake-Michigan building, at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Lake street, was reported yesterday by the bondholders' protective committee, of which Francis E. Manierre is chairman, to Judge Philip Sullivan of the United States District court.

This was disclosed in an amendment to the reorganization plan filed on April 10 under section 77B of the bankruptcy act in which a cash offer of $2,300,000 was submitted by William A. S. Mulligan, of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, understood to represent a large estate.

Referred to Master.

Judge Sullivan referred the case to Master Charles A. McDonald with orders to take testimony on the fairness of the reorganization plan and the $2,400,000 bid for the Michigan avenue skyscraper, and to report to the court as to whether it should be confirmed. Hearings probably will be started on May 21 or 22.

The International Harvester company, which since 1907, has occupied twelve floors of the fifteen story Harvester building, at Michigan avenue and Harrison street, owned by the Heyworth estate, has been considering moving to a building of its own for several years. Its lease on its present quarters expires in October, 1937.

It is understood that the Harvester company has had in mind many improvements to its quarters which would involve an expenditure not justified under a lease soon to expire. One of the modernization features which might be carried out in a building it owned would be air conditioning. The company has an office force of 700 men and women.

Could Repay 86 Cents on Dollar.

If the $2,300,000 offer recently made had been accepted, first mortgage bondholders would have received not less than 82 cents on the dollar, according to Willard L. King, of the law firm of Rosenthal, Hamill & Wormser, attorney for the committee. He said yesterday that if the larger offer of $2,400,000 made by the Harvester company is accepted the bondholders will get approximately 86 cents on every dollar.

This acceptance, however, is contingent on whether the junior interests are willing to provide funds sufficient to pay the past due interest on the first mortgage bonds amounting to $480,060.

If the junior interests subscribe this sum their interests will be preserved and the $2,400,000 offer of the International Harvester company will be set aside.

The Lake-Michigan building, designed by Alfred S. Alschuler, was erected in 1926. Appraisals at the time placed the value of the building at $2,681,200 and the land at $1,862,250. A first mortgage bond issue was underwritten by Lawrence Stern & Co., and the First Union Trust and Savings bank for $2,800,000, since paid down to $2,667,000.

RETAIL SALES GAIN REPORTED BY DUN REVIEW

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—After a slow beginning, due to inclement weather in various parts of the country, retail business this week picked up sharply and the volume for the period averaged 2 to 8 per cent over the corresponding week in 1934, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. General business, however, experienced what the agency described as "a pause in the forward movement."

The broadest improvement in retail sales was reported from the south, where the turnover ran 5 to 8 per cent above the corresponding week a year ago. In the southwest rain alleviated a depressed crop status in the drouth areas, but cut down retail sales to a level barely above last year's.

In the middle west the gain was figured at 3 to 5 per cent—a small gain, due principally, the agency said, to the strike of automobile workers.

Wholesale buying dipped under volume of the preceding week, but was generally above the corresponding week a year ago, according to the agency.

"Covering of summer requirements," it said, "made considerable headway, but many buyers have deferred their market trips for another week or two."

Franklyn Hobbs Becomes Shields & Co. Counsel

Franklyn Hobbs, for many years economist of the Central Trust company, has been retained as counsel on commodities by Shields & Co., it was announced yesterday.

NORTH WESTERN ASKS OLD RATES RESTORED; BOOST HURTS TRAFIC

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.
[Trafic Manager, The Chicago Tribune.]

Restoration of freight rates on selected commodities in effect prior to the addition of surcharges on April 18, which were ordered by the interstate commerce commission, will be asked immediately by the Chicago and North Western railway.

This was revealed yesterday by H. W. Byers, vice president in charge of trafic, at a meeting of eastern and western railroad officials, gathered to discuss effects of the rate boost. Byers said the action will be taken irrespective of what other roads do.

Specific discussion yesterday centered around the movement of a number of commodities from Wisconsin, among which were important canned goods and condensed milk. The loss in trafic already registered in this group indicates that in the course of a year the railways will lose more through diversions to other forms of transport or the outright loss of tonnage than they could hope to gain through imposition of the emergency rates.

The North Western, which runs through the heart of Wisconsin, found quick reflection of this factor, which resulted in the decision to ask for restoration of the old tarifs.

EXPORT COPPER AT 8 CTS.; BEST PRICE OF YEAR

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Improvement in the copper situation abroad today brought a further rise in the export copper market to 8 cents a pound. That figure set a new high mark for the year and was the highest price at which copper has sold for export since June 19, 1934.

The domestic price continued at 9 cents a pound for Blue Eagle copper, where it has stood almost since the NRA copper code was adopted about a year ago. The foreign price of copper has risen about 2 cents in the last twelve months. The copper trade is of the opinion the foreign copper price will continue in an upward trend due to the excellent foreign demand for copper and the curtailment agreement among foreign producers.

A curtailment of 20 per cent went into effect May 1 and an additional cut of 10 per cent will be effective starting June 1 with the result that foreign production will be reduced by 240,000 tons a year. The minimum duration of the agreement was fixed at three years.

Foreign demand for copper has been proceeding at a record rate. The consumption of the red metal abroad last year set a new peak for all time. So far this year, it is understood, the demand abroad is running even higher than that of last year.

It has been suggested on various occasions that the foreign copper demand is partly in anticipation of a possible war. The French government is said to be accumulating a reserve supply of the metal for such emergency use.

DISCOUNT CORP. STOCK OFFERED FOR PUBLIC SALE

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Shares of the Discount Corporation of New York, which have hitherto been held exclusively by a group of leading banks and by a few officials of the corporation, are being offered to the public in connection with the disposal by the Amerex Holding corporation, successor to the Chase corporation, of a part of its holdings.

The offering was announced today by G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., Charles D. Barney & Co., and Hornblower & Weeks. It consists of 4,299 shares and the offering price is understood to be about $365 a share.

The Amerex corporation's principal asset consists of 98 per cent of the stock of the American Express company, from which holding it derives its name. The Discount corporation is a leading factor in the bankers' acceptance and government securities markets.

Asks Accounting of Funds of Home Bank and Trust

Suit for an accounting of the funds of the Home Bank and Trust company, which has been taken over by the United American Trust and Savings bank, was filed yesterday in Circuit court in behalf of Mrs. Irene T. Bruns, a stockholder. The suit charges alleged mismanagement and names as defendants the directors of the bank, including W. A. Wieboldt, County Judge Jarecki, and Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba. The suit asks that the directors be held liable for losses suffered by the bank.

April Sales of U.S. Steel Show Decline

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Shipments of finished steel products during April by the United States Steel corporation amounted to 591,728 tons, showing a decrease of 76,328 tons from the March total of 668,056.

In April of last year, third best month of 1934, shipments were 643,009. In the same month of 1933, fourth poorest in that year, the shipments were 335,321.

For the first four months of 1935 the total was 2,376,976 tons, compared with 1,948,495 tons for the same period last year and only 1,153,171 tons the first four months of 1933.

Little surprise was occasioned by the announcement today of the falling off during April, because it had been known that the automobile manufacturers already had taken care of immediate future requirements in view of unsettled labor conditions.

New basing points on angle splice bars for rails over 60 pounds a yard have been filed with the American Iron and Steel institute for South Chicago and for Gary, Ind. It was announced this is merely in interpretation of codes and will not affect prices.

WORLD'S TRADE IS IMPROVING, ROOSEVELT SAYS

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Foreign trade throughout the world is better than in the last two years, President Roosevelt declared today. At the same time the commerce department reported some of the United States' foreign markets showed a noticeable turn for the better.

Roosevelt made his comment at a press conference in reply to a question as to his views on the situation in international trade. He said that American exports and imports had so far been larger during 1935 than in 1934, and 1934 figures were larger than those for 1933. This went hand in hand with a general increase in world trade, he said.

The commerce department's weekly survey showed improved conditions in several European countries, with Sweden's industrial production index rising in March to the highest figure ever attained.

Minneapolis and St. Louis Revenues Best Since 1930

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—(AP)—Revenues of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad this spring have been the largest since 1930 and for April its operations will show a profit when tabulation of figures from all divisions is completed, Lawrence S. Sprague, receiver, said here today.

SAM'L SKUNK ARRIVES WITHOUT A (S)CENT; BRINGS OWNER $750

The late Sam'l Skunk yesterday triumphed over nearly 2,000,000 of his highbrow associates in the animal kingdom. His pelt arrived in Chicago without a (s)cent, but goes back to his owner in Kentucky $750 richer.

It was the occasion of the sixth National Fur show, sponsored by Sears, Roebuck & Co., and attracted entries from farmers and trappers in all states of the union and Alaska. Awards were made entirely on the basis of pelt preparation.

C. L. Probus, owner of the winner, is a tenant on a small farm near Leitchfield, Grayson county, Kentucky. Handicapped though he was by the choice of his entry, his skill in pelt preparation brought him the grand prize.

A mink pelt took the second prize of $200 and was entered by Ralph Goddard of Manville, Ill. Last year, Goddard won a Plymouth sedan as a special award for the best five pelt entry. The third award of $100 went to Noble Austin of Hillsdale, Colo., for a red fox pelt. A raccoon pelt submitted by W. C. Bateman, Liberty, Tex., won fourth prize of $50.

STOCK PRICES RISE AGAIN ON ACTIVE BUYING

Business Statistics Are Favorable.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—Progress was still the order of the day on the Stock exchange front. Not all issues were able to extend the gains marked out for them by the inflationary ideas developed early in the week, but a considerable number of trading favorites were boosted to new highs for the year or longer and improvement in some sections was pronounced.

The fresh rise in silver metal prices helped groups that originally would climb on inflation flurries, and weekend trade statistics were mildly encouraging to bullish operations generally. Buying for investment purposes continued to play an important rôle in trading, according to brokers. Transfers totaled 1,581,260 shares.

Utilities More Active.

A feature was an increased show of activity in utilities which the street looks upon as essentially soundmoney equities. This group was more active as a whole than it has been in some time and gains ranged up to 2 points or more. American Telephone touched the 120 mark and its continued strength was an inspiration to investors. Various issues of American Power and Electric Power hardened 1 to 2 points. Detroit Edison jumped 2 points to the best price of the year, and Brooklyn Union and Consolidated Gas advanced a point each.

Renewed public participation in the power shares was attributed to the belief that the legislation now before congress with respect to that industry will be revised, if enacted at all.

Motor Shares Strong.

Motor shares were heartened by renewed efforts to settle the Toledo strike. Chrysler forged ahead a half point on brisk trading. Most other motor shares also were more active and firm. The oils moved into new high ground. Chemicals were buoyant. A few food stocks, among them Corn Products and United Fruit, showed determination to get ahead.

Rubbers were a bit more prominent with United States issues in the van. Aviation issues generally ruled above their previous closing levels.

Outstanding weak spots included Colgate-Palmolive-Peet which was in disfavor on uneasiness over the reported bank liquidation of loan collateral amounting to more than 100,000 shares, and Consolidated Film Industries common and preferred which dropped to around their lowest prices of the year.

The rails were unable to make much capital out of the favorable carloadings report.

BIG POWER DAM CONSTRUCTION IS FOUGHT BY U. S.

Lynchburg, Va., May 10.—(AP)—The United States government today placed befeore court its contention that the Appalachian Power company has no right to erect its $10,000,000 dam on New river unless it obtains a license from the federal power commission.

In a suit, filed in federal District court here by District Attorney Joseph Chitwood under the direction of the attorney general of the United States, the government asked a temporary injunction to halt erection of the big dam in Pulaski county near Radford, pending a hearing in the matter, and also an order enjoining the Appalachian from further operations after the final hearing unless a license is obtained.

The government contends that the dam, construction of which was begun in June of last year, will be a "public nuisance" on an interstate waterway, which originates in North Carolina and flows across Virginia into West Virginia.

S. H. KRESS OWNS 58.8 PER CENT OF COMPANY STOCK

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—S. H. Kress, chairman of S. H. Kress and company, was disclosed today as holding 58.8 per cent of the corporation's common stock and 55.1 of the preferred. A registration statement to the Securities and Exchange commission also reported that C. W. Kress, president, held 17.9 and 20.8 per cent respectively of the two classes.

Larger stockholdings of officers and directors, as of March 18, included: S. H. Kress, 692,920 common, 300,726 preferred; C. W. Kress, 210,337 common, 113,289 preferred; R. H. Kress, vice president, 66,834 common; P. B. Scarff, vice president, 3,350 common, 3,028 preferred; W. L. Baker, 5,000 common, 500 preferred; S. W. Holdcroft, 4,100 common, 2,903 preferred.

Great Atlantic and Pacific Declares Extra Dividend

New York, May 10.—(AP)—The great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company today declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the common stock. The company also announced the regular $1.75 dividend on the preferred, all payable June 1 to stock of record May 15.

Stock Exchange Seats Rise as Market Grows Active

New York, May 10.—(AP)—Increased stock market activity starting last month and continuing to date brought further improvement in the price of New York Stock exchange seats today. A membership was arranged for transfer at $88,000, an increase of $2,000 over the previous sale rise of $23,000 from the 15 year low mark established for seats early last month.

Car Loadings Rise, but Still Are Below '34

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Freight loadings on railroads in the United States last week rose 10,179 cars, or 1.8 per cent, over the preceding week, a more than seasonal gain, but were 36,181 cars, or 6 per cent, below a year ago. Last week's total was 569,065 cars, according to figures released today by the Association of American Railroads.

The total for the week was 41,947 cars above the corresponding week of 1933. The improvement over the preceding week of this year was due principally to a heavier movement in ore and less than carlot merchandise.

Years Total Under 1934.

Total loadings since the beginning of the year to May 4 were 10,382,849 cars, compared with 10,510,874 in the corresponding period of last year and 8,811,977 in the 1933 period.

Miscellaneous freight totaled 231,479 cars, an increase of 530 above the preceding week, but a decrease of 9,604 below 1934 and an increase of 32,830 above 1933.

SOUTH. PACIFIC REPORTS LOWER DEFICIT IN 1934

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—The Southern Pacific lines and affiliated companies reduced by 57 per cent their combined net deficit in 1934. This was shown today in their annual report, which fixed the combined net deficit in 1934 at $3,907,604, compared with $9,013,373 in 1933. Operating expenses of the railway lines increased 11 per cent to $113,579,215. Gross railroad operating revenues increased 14 per cent to $149,192,708.

The 1935 program of the railroad companies provides for equipping "sufficient chair cars, coaches, Pullman standard and tourist sleeping cars, and additional dining cars, so that all passenger carrying cars in the principal trains, and the dining cars, café-lounge or café-sleeping cars, will be air-conditioned," Hale Holden, chairman, stated in the report.

The Southern Pacific has benefited to the extent of several million dollars in the last few years as a result of a new basis of apportionment of dividends distributed by the Pacific Fruit Express company, which is owned jointly with the Union Pacific railroad. Formerly the two companies shared equally in the fruit company's dividends, but starting in 1929 the proportion payable to each system was determined by a formula based on shipments originating on each system.

SECURITY LIST OF SEC CLOSE TO 1¾ BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Applications for the registration og 1,016 security issues for an aggregate of $1,720,000,000 have become effective since the securities act of 1933 became operative in July, 1933. This was shown today in compilations made public by the Securities and Exchange commission.

Nearly a fourth of the applications has been received since March 1, many of them filed on the new modified form prepared by the commission to meet objections by prospective issuers that the requirements of the old form were so severe as to make the act unworkable.

Th volume of applications received in the last few weeks has been accepted as evidence that important progress has been made in reopening the capital markets and additional large issues are expected soon. In March industrial issues jumped far in the lead, a development which was interpreted as encouraging.

DETROIT BANK CASE JUDGE'S REMOVAL ASKED

Cincinnati, O., May 10.—(AP)—Charging prejudice against Federal District Judge Ernest A. O'Brien of Detroit, the federal government today asked the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to remove him as trial judge in nine banker cases pending in Detroit.

The petition was filed in behalf of Homer S. Cummings, attorney general, and Arthur Breuer, an assistant. Breuer said the first of the cases in which the government seeks to have Judge O'Brien step aside is set for hearing in Detroit next Tuesday.

WINTER WHEAT CROP ESTIMATE REDUCED AGAIN

Due to Big Acreage Abandonment.

Further reduction in this country's winter wheat crop, already well below normal, was predicted by the department of agriculture yesterday in its report detailing conditions as of May 1. The cut in guesses on production was based on the exceptional heavy abandonment of acreage, placed at 31.2 per cent, against 21.3 per cent last year.

Production, the department estimated, will be 431,637,000 bushels, which is 28 million more than was actually harvested last year, but far below the average crop of about 600 million bushels. On April 1 the department predicted a crop of 435,499,000 bushels. The 1928-'32 average was 618,186,000 bushels.

Condition Is Improved.

Condition of the crop showed definite improvement, rising from 69.8 per cent of normal on April 1 to 75.3 per cent, but this was more than offset by further abandonment of acreage, which reduced the 44,336,000 acres seeded last fall to 30,497,000 for harvest.

Production figures were far below expectations of grain statisticians who estimated a crop of 449,000,000 bushels on May 1. It was believed the official prediction yesterday would indicate an output of 450 or 460 millions.

Indicated rye production this year is 40,356,000 bushels, compared with an actual output of 16,040,000 bushels in 1934 and 21,150,000 in 1933. Acreage sown last fall was 5,697,000, compared with 5,027,000 a year earlier, while the area remaining May 1 for harvest was 3,474,000 acres, compared with 1,937,000 a year ago.

Rye 82 Per Cent Normal.

Condition of the rye crop was 82 per cent of normal, against 76.4 a month ago and 67.8 on May 1, 1934. The 1928-'32 average was 84.4 per cent.

The government said that stocks of hay remaining on farms May 1 totaled 4,512,000 tons or 8 per cent of last year's crop, compared with 7,479,000 tons, or 10 per cent, a year ago, and 9,666,000, or 11.8 per cent, for 1928-'32.

Condition of the hay crop was placed at 75.4 per cent of normal, somewhat above last year's May 1 estimate of 69.9, but below the five year average of 83.1. The condition of pastures was 69.5 per cent of normal, compared with 68.7 a month ago, 66.2 last year, and 79.4 for the five year period.

Statistics by States.

Pennsylvania, condition, 87 per cent or normal, production, 16,002,000 bushels; Ohio, 90 and 38,892,000; Indiana, 88 and 31,824,000; Illinois, 87 and 31,892,000; Michigan, 84 and 16,318,000; Minnesota, 91 and 2,624,000; Iowa, 79 and 5,760,000; Missouri, 87 and 24,310,000; Nebraska, 76 and 32,872,000; Kansas, 57 and 67,137,000; Oklahoma, 56 and 29,097,000; Texas, 39 and 7,872,000; Montana, 84 and 11,550,000; Idaho, 91 and 10,469,000; Washington, 91 and 29,650,000; Oregon, 84 and 14,720,000; California, 93 and 13,262,000.

REPORT MONEY IN CIRCULATION $43.12 A PERSON

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Money in circulation April 30 amounted to $5,477,736,103, compared with $5,493,137,741 a month earlier and $5,367,572,469 a year ago, the Treasury reported today. The per capita circulation was $43.12, based on an April 30 population of 127,035,000, against $42.49 per capita for 126,303,000 population a year ago.

Money stocks of the country at the end of April totaled $14,678,503,278, compared with $13,539,773,590 on the same date last year. Of all stocks the Treasury held $9,562,996,204, including the entire gold stock of the country, $8,708,833,987, as shown by the circulation statement.

The country's gold stocks increased substantially during the year ending April 30, their total comparing with $7,755,847,568 the year before. While there is a considerable amount of gold outstanding from the Treasury the periodical statement of circulation has eliminated this item. The only gold item is $120,881,239 in gold certificates, most of which have probably been lost or destroyed.

Sale of Richfield Oil (N.Y.) to Consolidated Expected

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—With the clearing away of legal obstacles the sale of the Richfield Oil Corporation of New York to the Consolidated Oil corporation is expected shortly. Claims of the government against Richfield Oil of California, owner of the New York organization, have been settled.

TWO SECURITY HOUSES CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Circularized Opposition to Reorganization.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday issued contempt citations against Robert M. Markwell & Co. 1 North La Salle street, and T. E. Joiner & Co., Inc., 208 South La Salle street, because of their distribution of circulars to bondholders in the 208 South La Salle Street Building corporation, advising them not to accept the plan of reorganization now pending before the court.

Judge Sullivan also issued a restraining order forbidding the companies to send out any further circulars in opposition to the proposed plan.

Had an Agreement.

The two investment houses are ordered to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court, and the matter was referred to Charles Leroy Brown, special master. Answers to the citations are expected within ten days.

Judge Sullivan's action yesterday followed his voicing sharp displeasure in court Wednesday when he set May 17 as the date for hearing on the building corporation's motion to permit it to close a new lease with the City National Bank and Trust company at a lower rental.

Ordered to Show Cause.

At that time Attorney Kenneth L. Karr, representing the building corporation, said that a gentleman's agreement existed that no literature would be sent out to bondholders without the approval of the court. The agreement, it was pointed out, was made in open court, and followed wide difference of opinion, both among bondholders and other interests, as to the form a reorganization should take.

The plan as now proposed gives the present holders of the $15,000,000 first mortgage bonds 95 per cent of the stock to be issued by a new corporation which will take over the assets of the old company. Another plan was to scale down the amount of the bonds. Still another proposal would have had bonds with a contingent interest rate.

DEFEAT OF THREE STOCK EXCHANGE REGULARS HINTED

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Betting odds on the stock exchange election to be held on Monday swung today against three members of the "regular" ticket for the governing committee: Warren B. Nash, treasurer; E. Burd Grubb, recently president of the curb exchange, and John W. Hanes of C. D. Barney & Co.

Because of their prominence, these three attracted the most active interest in discussion of the possible losers in the event that any members of the "independent" group are carried into office. This group, nominated by petition, includes Bertrand L. Taylor Jr. and Robert W. Keelips, now governors; John F. Murray, and W. Allston Flagg.

According to brokerage house gossip, a realignment of personnel in the administration of the exchange may include appointment of Francis T. Boyd to succeed Ashbel Green as secretary, and appointment of William B. Mulligan as assistant secretary of the committee on business conduct. Dean K. Worcester will become executive vice president if the governors approve the creation of that position.

Predicts Large Increase in Oil Burner Installations

Present indications are that there will be four times as many installations of Williams Oil-o-Matic oil burners during this year as in 1934, C. U. Williams, president of the Williams Heating corporation, said yesterday at the close of a two day meeting of dealers and salesmen at the Knickerbocker hotel. "Every phase of our 1935 plans is predicated upon this figure, and to keep pace many of our departments are now working night shifts," Williams said. The Chicago office was recently moved to new air-conditioned quarters at 641 North Michigan avenue.

BOND FIRM HEAD FEARS DEFAULTS ON PUBLIC DEBT

Warns Income May Not Be Able to Meet Taxes.

A potent menace confronting business today is the prospective or possible default of political subdivisions resulting from the derth of incomes and profits with which to pay increasing and more diversified taxes, says C. F. Childs, head of the security house bearing his name, in the firm's current monthly bulletin.

"Lacking income to tax, more property taxes might lead to confiscation and bankruptcy," the review asserts. "Credit of the governing power then would become jeopardized, for credit of this type depends on taxing income of both capital and labor."

The bulletin says that neither more credit nor more currency are now employable, for the former exists excessively in banks and the latter would ultimately be lodged with the banks.

Inflation Fears Check Recovery.

"Inflation lacks force until it is actively utilized," the review continues. "However, since a popular, undefined fear of inflation exists, resulting from shattered confidence in monetary tinkering and socialistic policies, that fear is a mental hazard to industrial recovery and borrowing of capital for enterprises."

Taking exception to a recent declaration of Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve bank, that "there is no inflation," Mr. Childs says that the stage setting with the usual attendant artificial and brief period of prosperity preceding a reactionary collapse may not be removed until the government's policies are less uncertain, more acceptable to business and considerate of capital.

"Actual inflation would be more dangerous to a short-lived return of prosperity than the present difficulties of adversity," he continues.

Cites Effect of Uncertainty.

"Any artificial, unorthodox economic or financial structure erected by the government does not insure the government against inflation. It creates scant confidence for capital that inflation can be avoided. With no visible refuge for protecting capital from being ravished by the reconstructionists of America, general uncertainty besets business."

"To keep the credit of all governments undisturbed the chief concern is the need of profits and income on which taxation depends. Killing the profit motive kills business and destroys income, the source of taxes."

The review says that total national and local debt at the close of last year was $409 per capita, of which the banks possess 60 per cent of the national debt, amounting to $249 for each person.

Says U. S. Spends Deposits.

"To that extent the government is utilizing and spending the deposits of the American people of which the banks are trustees," the bulletin continues. "Under the virtual domination and contemplated control by the government of federal reserve banks, the last undefiled stronghold of the public financial structure may conceivably become subject to government appropriations. Subscribing to government loans is virtually an equivalent operation—an appropriation of the peoples' deposits."

Gradual transference of tax exempt government securities from individuals to banks and large corporations may later be more fully realized when the public at large may be called upon to relieve banks of their load, Mr. Childs warns.

PLAN PROPOSED TO REORGANIZE WALWORTH CO.

Plans for reorganization of the $22,000,000 Walworth company, one of the country's largest manufacturers of pipe fittings and valves, were announced yesterday at the same time that a petition for reorganization under 77B of the national bankruptcy act was filed in the federal court at Boston. The hearing on the petition will be held next week.

The proposed reorganization plan calls for replacement of the present $7,141,000 of 6 per cent first mortgage bonds with an equal amount of 4 per cent first mortgage bonds. The outstanding $1,673,000 of 6½ per cent debentures, due next October, would be replaced with $836,500 of 6 per cent debentures.

Holders of present $993,000 in par value of preferred stock would receive common stock. Additional common stock would be issued in payment of accrued interest on the present bonds and debentures, and of accumulated dividends on the preferred stock, which totaled $1,581,332 on April 1.

Republic Steel Holders Sue on Charge of Waste

Cleveland, O., May 10.—(AP)—Counsel for three stockholders of the Republic Steel corporation filed suit today in Common Pleas court, seeking an accounting for and restitution of $6,000,000 in company assets. The complaint charged that $6,000,000 was "dissipated, wasted, and lost as a direct consequence of the mismanagement, unlawful conduct and negligence of officers and directors." William P. Belden, counsel for the corporation, said the suit "is entirely without merit."

Roads Ask Cut in Grain Rates to Meet Ship Lines

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—Transcontinental railroads today asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to reduce rates on corn from the middle west to the Pacific coast and on barley from the Pacific coast to the east. The roads want to charge 50 cents a hundred pounds on both commodities so they can meet water competition.

ROADS DEMAND REGULATION OF WATER CARRIERS

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—The nation's railways today demanded of congress that water carriers doing an interstate and foreign business be regulated in the same way they are.

Joseph G. Kerr, vice president in charge of trafic for the American Association of Railroads, told the house merchant marine committee it was necessary to enact a measure to put water carriers under regulation of the interstate commerce commission.

"Unless the bill is adopted in substantially the form it is in," he testified, "the water carriers eventually will throttle themselves by cutthroat competition and carry the railroads down with them."

A statement of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war and now general counsel of the Lake Carriers' association, proposed exemption of carriers of bulk ore, grain, coal, and stone from any regulation. The Farmers' National Grain corporation, through J. O. McClintock, opposed water regulation of any kind.

Thomas W. Page Confirmed for Tarif Commission Post

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—The senate today confirmed Thomas W. Page of Virginia for reappointment on the tarif commission for a six year term, expiring June 16, 1941.
